TREACHEROUS GLAZE SNARLS WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Freezing rain put a treacherous glaze on Winnipeg streets today and made thousands late for work as city-bound traffic inched and slithered into mammoth tieups.

Canada Abstains On Seating Vote

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN General Assembly today voted by a substantial majority to bar Communist China from membership. It also voted down an Italian proposal for a committee study of Chinese representation.

The Albanian-Cambodian motion to seat Peking's representatives and expel Nationalist China was turned down by 57 votes to 46, with 17 countries, including Canada, abstaining.

The abstention was a departure from Canada's policy in recent years of voting against motions to seat Peking.

The Italian proposal for a committee to study the question of Chinese representation and report to the assembly next year was defeated 62 to 34, with 25 countries abstaining.

Canada voted in favor of the Italian study proposal, which many delegates had believed would lead to a recommendation for seating both the Chinese Communists and the Chiang Kai-shek government based in Formosa.

GASP HEARD

There was an audible gasp in the 121-member assembly when Canada abstained during the roll-call vote on the motion to seat Peking.

A Canadian spokesman said Canada abstained, instead of voting against Peking as in past, because it was "in full accord" with the intention of the Albanian-Cambodian motion to seat Peking. But Canada was unable to vote for the motion, the spokesman told reporters, because the motion also called for the simultaneous expulsion of Nationalist China.

Even so, Canada's shift was obviously regarded as one of the major changes in the voting pattern on the issue of Chinese representation.

The vote on the motion to seat Peking was a setback for Red China's UN supporters, who last year had achieved a 47-to-47 tie, with 20 abstentions.

The United States voted against the Peking bid today. The Soviet Union, France and Britain voted for it, as did India, Pakistan and Indonesia.

ON 'SLOWDOWN'

Owners Sue Dock Union

Waterfront work came to a virtual halt in British Columbia today when employees refused to hire longshoremen.

At the same time, the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association announced it is suing the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union for losses caused by the alleged slowdown.

Union officials were meeting this morning and no comment was available on the latest moves in the 13-day strike of dock foremen.

A management spokesman said the reason for this exception is that the ship is "just finishing off — then that's it."

WITHOUT WORK

About 3,000 longshoremen are without work following the enforced layoff by management unless the union gives an assurance of no more slowdowns.

The union has blamed the slowdown on a lack of competent supervisors filling in for the striking foremen.

The foremen are on strike in an effort to gain bargaining rights. But the companies say foremen are part of management and rule out bargaining recognition.

A statement issued by the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association read:

"Last Wednesday we sent a telegram to Roy Smith, president of the Canadian area (ILWU), protesting the slowdown by members of the ILWU.

"Since then, and for the past several days, we have ordered men for work and repeatedly warned them to cease slowdown tactics and perform in a normal fashion, otherwise they would be discharged.

"In almost all cases they have ignored the warning, act-

BENNETT REJOICES

Bonner Grabs Cariboo Seat In Tight Race

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Returning officers today began efforts to mop up the ballot counting as Attorney-General Robert Bonner won the Cariboo by a safe but sharply narrowed margin.

BONNER
. . . tall in the saddle

Assistant deputy returning officer Tom Hartford in Williams Lake this morning told the Times that 52 out of the 57 polling divisions have reported but complete results may not be known until the weekend.

The five remaining polls are in snowy and remote sections of the Chilcotin where a weekly mail service is the only communication.

But together they have only 181 registered voters (only 74 cast ballots Sept. 12) so there is no chance they could reverse the standings.

The almost complete figures showed at least 8,498 ballots were cast for a 67 per cent turnout.

It was 61 per cent 2½ months ago.

LATEST COUNT

The latest count showed Mr. Bonner took about 46 per cent of Monday's vote with 3,917 ballots.

Hartley Dent, running for his second time as an NDP candidate, captured slightly more than 40 per cent with 3,411 ballots.

PREMIER HAPPY

Premier Bennett was jubilant as the results came in Monday night although the Socreds dropped 9 per cent in popularity after William Speare, who won his fourth contest in the general election, resigned to open the seat for Mr. Bonner who had been defeated in Vancouver Point-Grey.

The Sept. 12 election results in Cariboo were: Speare 3,830 votes, 54 per cent; Dent 2,530, 35 per cent; and Mackey (Liberal) 719, 10 per cent.

Mr. Bonner, in Quesnel where Mr. Dent conceded defeat at 9:40 p.m., said he expected the Socred margin of votes to be narrowed after a hard-fought campaign which saw:

"This is the first time an NDP smother campaign has been beaten. Their professionals and outside help swarmed in here as thick as bees."

Premier Bennett, in Victoria, also hailed the count as a signal victory over the NDP canvassing organization which used the techniques and some key officials of their successful campaign Sept. 12 to unseat government candidates in Vancouver Burrard and in Burnaby.

Mr. Dent said he hopes to return to the Anglican ministry which he resigned before becoming a candidate in the by-election. He was philosophical about his second defeat but said he would like to stand again as an NDP candidate.

"While Social Credit won, it was not by a great margin," he commented.

"The government knows it will have to work very hard to keep this riding.

PERHAPS BEST

"Perhaps, at this time, this is the best thing for the Cariboo, all things considered."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said the NDP could have won if there had been no other opposition candidates.

Wilson Seeks Details On Smith Concessions

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson told Parliament today he has sent a senior Commonwealth office official to Rhodesia to seek clarification of concessions Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith was reported ready to make.

Wilson said Sir Morrice James flew to Salisbury Monday night. James played a major role in exploratory talks earlier this year with the breakaway white-minority Rhodesian regime to see whether a basis for a negotiated settlement could be found.

Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden, who met Smith in Salisbury Saturday, said on his return here that the Rhodesian premier had made some minor concessions during their talks.

BRITAIN ADAMANT

Wilson said in Parliament today Britain still is sticking to its program of seeking mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia at the United Nations if Smith doesn't move to end his "rebellion" before the end of the year.

The cabinet met earlier today to decide whether to go ahead with plans for mandatory sanctions.

An informant said Smith has promised to answer a number of questions concerning his reported concessions.

While details of these concessions were not disclosed, it is understood they deal with Prime Minister Wilson's six basic principles for terminating the Rhodesian crisis.

Smith apparently expressed readiness to yield some ground on such issues as Negro representation in a proposed Rhodesian senate, the lifting of press censorship, the widening of voting power by some Rhodesian Negroes and an end to the year-old illegal declaration of independence.

The informant said, however, that Smith phrased his concessions in such terms that his proposed return to constitutional rule could be immediately revoked if his other proposals were breached.

Bowden, on his return from

Egyptian Jets Downed by Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Israeli army spokesman said two Egyptian planes of the MiG-19 type were shot down after a short dogfight over Israel territory shortly after noon today.

The spokesman said the dogfight battle developed after an Israeli Piper plane on routine air patrol over southern Israel's Negev Desert was intercepted by two Egyptian MiGs.

Two Israeli Mirages immediately flew to the scene and met the two Egyptian planes over Israel territory at Beerotayim.

In a short battle both MiGs were hit and fell inside Egyptian territory close to the Israel-Egyptian frontier while both Israeli planes returned safely, the spokesman said.

The army spokesman also reported a ground incident. He said shots were fired across the border at a group of Israeli laborers from a Jordanian police station this morning in the eastern Judean hills — the area where an Israeli Army command car was blown up Nov. 12.

An Israeli military unit protecting the workers returned the fire, said the spokesman. No Israeli casualties were reported.

The 1,500-mile-an-hour Lockheed jets are expected to be delivered quickly. King Hussein's request for military aid was received in Washington shortly after the Israeli attack Nov. 13 on a village in Jordan.

Earlier this year a limited number of A-4 jet fighter-bombers were supplied to Jordan, and last year the tiny Arab kingdom received 50 M-48 medium Patton tanks.

5 Million Could Die From Famine

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—One of India's leading commentators said today some experienced observers fear that 5,000,000 persons might die from famine in Bihar and eastern Uttar Pradesh states.

The comentator, Inder Jit, whose weekly column is widely circulated, said the government has a clear picture now of the perilous situation.

"Some experienced observers fear that the situation is already beyond repair and go to the length of saying that even if arrangements are of the very best we may still have some 5,000,000 people dead on our hands," he wrote.

Inder Jit said the figure and assessment were hotly contested adding, "nevertheless, those in high authority at the centre and those who are in the know do not hesitate privately to confide that if the present indifference and confusion continue it will not be surprising if starvation takes a heavy toll running into hundreds of thousands."

$4 Million Blaze

LEBANON, Ohio (UPI)—A fire raged through three acres of industrial shops at the Lebanon correctional institution today, causing damage estimated at $4 million. The head of the six-year-old medium security prison, who made the damage estimate, said no injuries were reported.

Lucky Toddlers Escape Gutter Life

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Her name is Mrs. Lau Sau Heng. All day she stays at her work, making artificial flowers for export, stopping only to prepare scanty meals for her family.

CASUAL LABOR

Her husband, a coolie, makes about $39 a month from casual labor and any kind of work he can find.

Her monthly income is from $2 to $3.50.

They have 10 children.

Every day, from the fifth floor room the whole family calls home, she sends two of her youngest children off to nursery school.

The school, run by a Chinese agency, is possible through financial support of the Canadian-based Unitarian Service Committee, which exists because of funds like The Times Share with Asian Children Fund.

LOVING CARE

This nursery service, which keeps the children off the street and in clean, ordered surroundings, is considered one of the most important tasks done by relief agencies in the crown colony.

Since youngsters are not allowed into the government-run primary schools until the age of seven, this is a most important period in their lives.

The nursery service, made possible by Canadian generosity, gives Mrs. Heng and other women in her resettlement block, an extra lift to keep trying — and to hope some day for a better life.

Victorians may give her extra encouragement through donations to the USC through The Times Children of Asia Fund, sent care of the newspaper, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas.

DAY NURSERY run by the Unitarian Service Committee keeps youngsters off the street. Committee director Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova meets a nursery school student in Hong Kong.

Firm's Donations of $300,000 To Political Parties Questioned

OTTAWA (CP) — Questions are being asked in the Commons about a tax case in which a Montreal construction firm admitted giving $300,000 to two political parties "in order to obtain contracts."

A series of written questions have been placed on the Commons order paper by Andrew Brewin, New Democratic MP for Toronto Greenwood and a lawyer.

Mr. Brewin wants to know whether federal contracts have been awarded to H. J. O'Connell Ltd. He seeks details about "solicited contributions made to both political parties," which were mentioned in passing in a tax appeal board judgment issued Nov. 2.

The board judgment summarizes secret tetimony given by J. R. Thibeault, comptroller of H. J. O'Connell Ltd. It says he was recalled by the revenue department's counsel and adds:

"In the appellant's (H. J. O'Connell Ltd.) financial statement of surplus, expenses in the amount of $300,824.90 were deducted under the heading 'promotion' and he was asked to explain the nature thereof.

"He replied that they were incurred for solicited contributions made to both political parties, either provincial or federal, in order to obtain contracts.

"It was further suggested that such contributions were made to conform with custom rather than for immediate benefit."

The judgment, signed by board member Roland St. Onge, covers the taxation years of 1957 to 1960 inclusive.

The O'Connell firm appealed a $2,151,012 corporation income tax levy imposed in 1962 for the 1957-60 taxation years.

The board allowed the appeal in part and referred the matter back to the revenue department for a new tax assessment.

RECEIVED CONTRACTS

At another point in the judgment, the board says H. J. O'Connell Ltd. received road-building, bridge and paving contracts from the Quebec government, airport contracts from Ottawa and sewer and water works contracts from municipalities across Quebec.

The judgment summarizes Mr. Thibeault's testimony about a ski resort his firm operated until 1961 at Ste. Adele, north of Montreal. He said business meetings were held at the club. The judgment adds:

"In order to obtain work from different public bodies, officers of the appellant company had to meet important people, then in a position to make the necessary recommendations for the awarding of contracts, by the officials in charge of specific areas, to reputed contractors having the necessary equipment."

Mr. Brewin submitted a four-part question:

—Did the revenue department instruct its counsel in the

New Deal Due For City's Tenant Voters?

Victoria city council may change its mind and support a move to give tenant electors the right to vote on all civic issues.

But it will not go so far as to give those same tenants the right to run for public office.

Council is still divided, following a special committee meeting Monday to discuss proposed revisions to the Municipal Act, on whether tenants should have the same voting rights as property owners.

Ald. Hugh Stephen and Ald. Percy Frampton feel they should.

Ald. Clyde Savage and Lily Wilson feel that things should remain as they are with non-property owners able to vote on civic issues other than money by-laws after six months residence in the city — providing they make the effort to get their names on the voter's list.

Property owners are automatically registered on the list.

Ald. Stephen pointed out that the concept of the transitory non-property owner no longer held true.

"Years ago the property owner was static but the tenant was not," he said. "This isn't so any more, the average tenant is a long time resident, often retired, who has lived here many years and will live here many more years."

Ald. Savage said he felt that most tenants were aware that they could vote on most civic issues such as the present election, by the simple gesture of registering.

'NOT INTERESTED'

"But many of them just were not interested enough to do so."

Ald. Michael Griffin indicated that he would be in favor of a change in the act which would give tenants the same voting rights as property owners.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said he wasn't too sure and would like more clarification and a clearer report on what the city's stand should be.

At the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention in Penticton last September city delegates voted unanimously against changing the present regulations.

A special committee has now been established to study the problem further and bring in a firm recommendation for council to endorse.

While council remains divided on the voting rights of non-property owners, it was solid in rejecting a recommendation that the Municipal Act be changed to permit any elector whose name appears on two consecutive voters' lists the right to run for civic office.

"This is a different thing entirely," said Ald. Michael Griffin. "I see nothing wrong with giving a non-property owner the same voting rights as property owners. That would make him one voter among thousands. But I think it would be wrong to give a man who does not own property the right to one vote in nine, namely a seat on council."

City manager Dennis Young, who had recommended rejection of both amendment proposals, said he couldn't see the difference.

"It seems to me that if you give the non-property owner the right to vote you should also, to be consistent, give him the right to run for office," he said.

SOLIDLY AGAINST

But council voted solidly against the move.

"A man who doesn't own property doesn't have quite the same pride and interest in his city as the man who owns property," said Ald. Edgelow.

On other suggested changes to the act council found the going easier.

Members agreed that councils should be able to borrow money without the consent of the electors to install or reconstruct water, sewerage and drainage systems.

It also agreed that it should be provincial law that all municipalities should prepare a five-year capital budget which could be revised annually.

Victoria already has such a five-year program.

SIMPLE MAJORITY

It endorsed the proposal that the act should be changed to make a simple majority the deciding issue on referendums and bylaws.

At present a 60 per cent majority is required on votes such as the one scheduled for Oak Bay Dec. 10 to decide the fluoridation issue.

On the proposed amendment to the act to wipe out shop hour closing regulations council members said they could see no serious danger following the rescinding of such authority.

It noted that Victoria's shopping hours apparently work well and feel that a smilar system could work equally well throughout the province.

At present local councils have the power to regulate shop closing hours. The section of the act giving them such authority would be repealed if the proposed amendment is accepted by the provincial government.

—Did the board allow or disallow the donations as deductions? This point is not made clear in the judgment.

—If the deduction was allowed, will the government appeal the board's ruling to the Exchequer Court of Canada?

—What are the details of the "solicited contributions" to "both parties" and what are the details of federal contracts awarded to H. J. O'Connell Ltd., giving the amounts involved and services provided?

Written questions are usually answered on Mondays and Wednesdays by cabinet ministers or their parliamentary secrearies. There is no indicaion when the goverment will reply to Mr. Brewin's questions.

Two Treated For Road Accidents

Two persons were treated at city hospitals following road accidents within an hour of each other Monday evening.

The city fire department ambulance conveyed William Gale, 19, of 2707 Estevan, to Royal Jubilee Hospital after the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car at Richmond and Brighton.

He was treated for head injuries and released.

Driver of the car was Nellie Laurie, 1670 Fort, police said.

An hour later, at 8:10 p.m., Saanich police attended at Burnside and Orillia where a woman had suffered leg injuries in a two-car collision.

An estimated $650 damage was done the Hewitt car and a car driven by Harold Evans, 700 Burnside W.

ing on the instructions of the union, and have been discharged.

"We regret we have no alternative but to have our legal counsel proceed against the union with respect to suits for damages which now have run into substantial sums.

"We have no doubt many of the men are ashamed of having to act in such a manner but unfortunately they are being used as pawns in this power play of the union itself.

NOT FEASIBLE

"It is economically not feasible to continue to employ men who do not perform. Consequently, they will not be employed until we are assured of normal performance."

E. M. Strang, president of the B.C. Maritime Empoyers Association, said he has "no idea" when the damage suits will be heard in court.

But they will "certainly" run to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

One news report said the suits may even go into millions of dollars.

BULK CARGOES

Mr. Strang said the only work being done in Vancouver was in bulk cargoes where much of the work is mechanized.

And he was firm in this warning:

"Until they stop (slowdowns), we are not going to hire people."

And he added:

"The question is really who is going to run the waterfront, the union or us."

In the House of Commons, federal Labor Minister Jack Nicholson said the outlook is not optimistic.

BOTH SIDES

He met both sides in Vancouver last weekend for exploratory talks.

He told the Commons the situation appears "even more difficult" now. He had offered to stay for more talks but "all agreed there was no point in my staying."

The minister also said that contrary to reports, supervision of longshore work gangs in many cases was more adequate than before the dispute.

In Vancouver, the B.C. Federation of Labour has called a meeting for Wednesday of affiliated unions to acquaint them with the dispute.

BACKGROUND

Secretary-treasurer Ray Haynes said longshore foremen will be present to give the background. The federation would see "what help we can give them."

And on the Prairies, C. W. Gibbings, president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, said grain shipments have already been affected.

China Ouster Denied

BUDAPEST (AP) — Soviet Communist Chief Leonid Brezhnev said today conditions are ripening for a world Communist conference but it is "utter nonsense" that such a gathering will banish the Chinese from the world movement. would have been different," he said.

"It is obvious the Liberals elected Bonner."

Mr. Perrault said it was a "sour grapes explanation."

PUBLIC LIFE

"We're not in public life to ensure the defeat of other candidates but to elect our own," he said.

"The vote certainly showed that the Cariboo doesn't want to be represented by a Socialist."

Ernest Hall, NDP MLA who helped organize Mr. Dent's campaign, said his party made a considerable gain.

FEAR OF GOD

"Look at it this way—we've put the fear of God into them and doubled our membership.

"A few weeks ago you could drive from Williams Lake to Cache Creek and never come across an NDP member. But now we have a flourishing organization in the southern end of this riding."

Late Hitch Develops In Grand Coalition

BONN (CP) — A late hitch tonight delayed formation of West Germany's grand coalition bringing the Social Democrats into the government for the first time since pre-Hitler days.

Meetings of the two coalition parties' representatives in parliament, due to have been held tonight to approve a new cabinet, were postponed until Wednesday morning.

But Kurt Georg Kiesinger, the Christian Democrat slated to become West Germany's next chancellor, told reporters: "it is only a matter of a short time longer."

He said there are no difficulties in making up the cabinet.

A Social Democrat spokesman said the postponement of the deputies' meeting was at the request of the Christian Democrats.

The two coalition negotiating committees, headed by Kiesinger and Social Democrat Leader Willy Brandt, planned to continue a meeting they began earlier today to work out final details of the move.

Brandt, mayor of West Berlin, was confident he will get his party's support for participation in a coalition despite bitter criticism by many party groups which resent the idea of socialists joining in a government with the Christian Democrats whom they have so strongly opposed for 17 years.

Adventists to Mark Medical Centenary

North Saanich Junior High will be the site of a Centennial celebration with a difference Thursday night as the Seventh Day Adventists stage a pageant to commemmorate 100 years of medical work by their church.

Guest speaker will be Health Minister Eric Martin.

In 1866 the Seventh Day Adventists established their first hospital, the Battle Creek Health Institute, in Michigan.

Today more than 300 Adventist hospitals and clinics dot the globe.

The pageant starts at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The event is sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventist Church and the Rest Haven Rest Home.

Cold air from the Arctic continued its southward plunge through all of the B.C. interior and the edge of this air now lies just east of the coast mountains. Northeast winds up to 25 miles per hour will blow down the mainland inlets on the south coast and these will reach 60 on the north coast. Temperatures in the Arctic air dropped to 16 below at Prince George this morning and to 47 below at Smith River in northern B.C. Only a slight drop in temperature is expected in coastal regions.

Moist Pacific air will continue to flow northward over coastal regions Wednesday keeping these skies mainly cloudy. A disturbance in this circulation will bring rain, but this is expected to be confined to the west coast of Vancouver Island and the north coast.

HOUSE DEBATE

Long Siege Expected On Medicare

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister MacEachen experienced Monday the second round of what promises to be a long siege in the Commons for his medical care insurance bill.

The House spent most of Monday's sitting on clause-by-clause study of the measure that resumes today. Out of about 500 lines in the legislation, 16 were approved.

The Conservatives and New Democrats attacked the measure from different standpoints, although at times they seemed to be after the same thing—extension of medical insurance benefits to para-medical services by optometrists, dentists, podiatrists and others.

This was at the heart of three amendments proposed to the bill's first clause. Two were ruled out of order — one by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) and one by Dr. William Howe (NDP—Hamilton South).

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) later put up a third amendment. After a two-hour debate, partly procedural and partly on the question of whether optometrists' services should be covered, the Commons adjourned without reacing a decision.

Federal Government Pays Half

The bill would empower the federal government to pay half the per capita costs of any province's medical care plan meeting certain conditions.

As drafted, it would go into effect July 1, 1967, but Mr. MacEachen has announced he plans to propose an amendment to provide that it come into force July 1, 1968, or earlier. This is in line with a cabinet decision taken partly as an anti-inflation drive.

Dr. P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East), the chief Conservative spokesman, maintained that the federal role in medical care should be confined to providing financial help to provincial plans, leaving it to each province to determine the extent of coverage under its plan.

He gave notice of a series of amendments, including one which would strike at one of the main conditions attached to the federal bill. This is a clause requiring that at the start 90 per cent of the population of a province be covered to qualify for the federal money.

Dr. Rynard said serious medical manpower problems are in store for the country if the government's legislation remains unchanged.

Dr. Howe said that, if services of optometrists, psychologists, podiatrists, chiropractors, physiotherapists and osteopaths are omitted, patients will have to pay extra for them and this will act as a deterrent to a well-rounded medical care program.

Spending Extra Public Funds

His proposed amendment to include other health and para-medical services was ruled out of order after Mr. MacEachen argued that it went beyond the resolution originally approved by the Commons and involved spending extra public funds. A private MP cannot constitutionally propose legislation involving the expenditure of public money.

A similar decision was made by the chairman, Herman M. Batten (L — Humber-St. George's), on Mr. Fulton's amendment, which sought to provide insurance coverage for such para-medical services tendered with the advice and consent of a doctor.

Mr. Knowles quoted rules precedents at length in support of his amendment, which would insure optometrist services when rendered by a doctor.

Mr. MacEachen opposed all three amendments on similar grounds.

Lawrence E. Kindt (PC—Macleod) maintained it is unfair to discriminate against optometrists' services.

Real Caouette, Creditiste leader, argued that if a province wants to cover such services in its insurance plan, the federal government ought to do so in legislation to provide financial aid to the provincial schemes.

In some provinces, certain para-medical groups such as pediatrists now were covered on the same footing as doctors.

Raymond Langlois (Creditiste-Megantic) asked why the government was discriminating between services of optometrists and of doctors where these services were identical. It wasn't common sense to do so.

Treasure Claimers Branded as 'Lazy'

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — A man who recovered an estimated $1,000,000 in treasure from a sunken ship last year testified Monday that five men who now are suing him for breach of contract were unwilling to dive for the treasure ship.

The suit, brought against Alex Storm, who recovered gold and coins from the 18th-century French payship Le Chameau, was adjourned until today in Supreme Court. The treasure was recovered off Louisbourg, N.S.

Storm testified that four of the five men who brought suit against him appeared little interested in the treasure when he showed them charts in 1961.

The plaintiffs claim an agreement signed with him in 1961 has never been terminated.

'THEY WERE LAZY'

Storm told Mr. Justice V. J. Pottier that the plaintiffs, led by Ronald Blunden of nearby Glace Bay, "were lazy and unwilling to dive for Le Chameau."

He had shown charts to four of the plaintiffs in 1961, but they indicated they believed the coins already had been recovered.

"I'm gathering from what you're saying that the plaintiffs didn't think there was anything there at all?" asked Mr. Justice Pottier.

"That's right, sir," Storm replied.

Storm said that when he asked the plaintiffs to dive for treasure they said they wanted to look for scrap. "All they did was talk and when it came to work they did nothing."

DON'T GO TO VIET NAM MISS WORLD ADVISED

REITA FARIA . . . touchy issue

LONDON (UPI) — Miss World, Reita Faria of Bombay, has discovered the Viet Nam war is an explosive issue—even for a beauty queen.

The 23-year-old medical student, who decided to postpone her final examinations to reign as Miss World because she wanted to travel, was scheduled to accompany comedian Bob Hope on his 25th Christmas tour to entertain U.S. servicemen abroad.

But the tour includes traveling to South Viet Nam. Miss Faria thought it would be an interesting place to see. But the Indian government thought otherwise.

Sunday, the Indian high commissioner in London advised her against making the trip because the government was against the Viet Nam war.

AUSTRALIA

Labor Slaps Johnson For Vote 'Intrusion'

Calwell was referring to a congratulatory cable Johnson sent Monday to Prime Minister Harold Holt, following Holt's victory in Saturday's federal election.

Holt said he regretted the Labor party leader's statement.

"I am sure most Australians have welcomed, as did I, the president's friendly message with its warm assurance of continuing American association with us as we face challenges to peace and freedom in Asia and the Pacific," Holt said.

"It is customary—not unusual as Mr. Calwell puts it—for heads of government to send messages of good wishes to other heads of government as they are newly elected or confirmed in office."

HASN'T BEEN DONE

In a prepared press statement, Calwell said: "At no time in our history has any British prime minister or any president of the United States ever offered congratulations or criticisms following any federal election in Australia."

He said President Johnson has seen fit to intrude into Australian politics.

"This is bad enough, but the tenor of his remarks reduces the importance of Australian prime ministership to that of a state governorship in the United States.

"As an Australian, I resent the patronage, the interference and the arrogance with which the message reeks."

Moscow Talks Criticized By Chinese

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China said Monday recent visits to Moscow by Canadian and British foreign policy chiefs were designed to find the United States a way out of "its predicament in Viet Nam."

The Peking regime also accused Canada's External Affairs Minister Martin and British Foreign Secretary Brown of having discussed in Moscow a nuclear non-proliferation treaty the regime dislikes.

Martin flew to Moscow Nov. 9. Brown followed it with a visit Nov. 22-25. Their topics centred on Viet Nam and a non-proliferation treaty.

The New China news agency charged Brown took to Moscow a "verbal message" on Viet Nam from the U.S. and Martin carried a new Viet Nam peace plan.

China has rejected all peace plans for Viet Nam as swindles.

LESAGE OUTLINES QUEBEC'S ROLE

'Must Display Spirit of Daring'

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Lesage, leader of the Quebec Liberal party, told 1,200 inquisitive university students Monday that he does not believe Quebec should be independent.

"I firmly believe I will not see it in my time," said the former premier. "I do not believe in it."

Answering questions at the French-language University of Montreal, he found himself confronted with one inquiry as to how Quebec could escape from its current "colonial situation."

"I don't believe we live in a colonial situation," said Mr. Lesage. "We live in a Confederation and a democracy."

Another student cited statistics on the state of Quebec's economic development, and asked:

WERE LEFT ALONE

"They demonstrate that . . . we were left alone 200 years ago," said Mr. Lesage. "They show we must build ourselves up, display a spirit of daring so that French - Canadians may forge for themselves a place in the economy."

Mr. Lesage, whose government was defeated by the now-governing Union Nationale in the provincial general election administration lost because it isolated itself from the people "like an elite."

Asked about his views on the Quebec - Labrador boundary question, Mr. Lesage said an inquiry had been opened on the matter by Premier Daniel Johnson, who last week appointed a study commission on this and other territorial problems involving Quebec.

"Then you are abdicating your position?" shot back one student.

"I do not abdicate but I recognize the facts. All the same, we can't send the pontifical zouaves there."

He was referring to an international corps of volunteer soldiers created in the 19th century to protect the papal states of that time. The force still exists in Quebec and parades in colorful uniforms on ceremonial occasions.

FOR FREE EDUCATION

The Liberal leader also told the students he favors free education.

HOLIDAY ABROAD

Foreign tourism has increased 12 per cent a year for the last five years.

Asked whether he considers Rene Levesque still an asset to the Liberal party, the former premier replied with a ringing affirmative.

Mr. Levesque, a minister in the former Lesage cabinet and still a member of the legislature, said in a Monday speech given elsewhere in Montreal that the teaching profession is not an honored one in North America but instead is merely tolerated and paid the least amount in salaries.

Quebec should "contradict North America and make of the teaching profession a privileged one in our society in terms of its status and salary," the former minister told students at le College Ste. Marie.

Cariboo Consents

MR. BONNER HAS WON THE Cariboo seat with a sharply reduced majority in a constituency that has voted Social Credit since that party appeared on the British Columbia scene.

There will be continuing arguments as to the effect exerted on the results by the multiplicity of candidates. Splitting the anti-government vote—and it was substantial—must have contributed in some measure to the Attorney General's victory. But the might-have-beens are of academic interest: the fact is that Mr. Bonner has been returned to the legislature, and most British Columbians, both government supporters and otherwise, will be content to offer him congratulations.

It is one thing to work to unseat the government or to score inroads on its representation in the House. But with the Social Credit Party firmly in power for another term, there would have been little purpose in depriving it of a key cabinet member and possibly the most able man in Mr. Bennett's administration. The fact is that Mr. Bennett has been helped out of a serious predicament and he must be well aware of this.

The Premier would be wise not to interpret the byelection result as a great Social Credit victory. In the first place, the government has merely held its own in the Cariboo: this was a replacement at the party's own expense.

In the second place the byelection itself was the result of a decisive defeat for the Attorney-General by the Liberals in his customary constituency of Vancouver Point Grey.

It is to be hoped that the Cariboo voters chose Mr. Bonner for good reasons other than the ill-disguised bribes which Mr. Bennett offered—the open hints of roads, public works and other material advantages from public expenditures which would accrue to a constituency that supported a government candidate. There should be more to the democratic process than this sort of horse trading, which must have been embarrassing to Mr. Bonner. One would like to believe, with a thought to the level of polities in this province, that Mr. Bennett's suggestions lost more votes for Mr. Bonner than they won.

One thing is clear: the Social Credit Party has had a decided scare. From now on in this province there will be no "easy" constituencies for the government. An element of desperation has entered the Social Credit election campaigns which carries its own significance.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault has struck the proper note with his comment that we should now put the unnecessary general eelction and its enforced aftermath behind us and get on with the business of British Columbia.

Foster Mother Country

THE ELECTORAL VICTORIES of the Holt government in Australia and the Holyoake government in New Zealand have been interpreted as a strong endorsement by the peoples of those two countries of participation in the Viet Nam war.

This is reasonably correct, but there is a more important long-range implication, particularly relevant to Australia at the present time, and increasingly important to New Zealand as well. This is the realization that the final transfer of power in the South Pacific from Britain to the United States has taken place, and that the "Mother Country" is hardly in a position any longer to aid them in defence or to further their economic progress.

The realization of what has taken place over the past 20 years is not complete in either country and doubtless an emotional attachment to Great Britain will be retained for many years. But this loyalty is not likely to interfere with the on-going life of Australia and New Zealand, the day-to-day business of making a living, which seems destined to come under increasingly strong American influence.

What most Australians and New Zealanders must feel as a fact of life—relatively isolated in the South Pacific and threatened, as they see it, by the hordes of Asia—is that the United States represents the only defence security they can have and if a price must be paid to have it they are willing to pay. Participation in the Viet Nam war is only part of the price. Most significant is the Americanization of the two countries, the economic domination of American firms, the encroachment of American cultural values. For the older generation this will be a wrench. For the younger—and Australia is a country of young people—the change will probably be eagerly welcomed.

Fishing in the 'Brain Drain'

FOR YEARS CANADIANS LOOKed at the "brain drain" channeling many of our brightest university people to foreign lands and did little more than lament. The loss of this human asset was fully recognized, but the flow of bright minds to levels of greater opportunity and reward seemed inevitable. The United States could pay more, provide better facilities and create a climate more professionally attractive than that existing at home.

Canadians could find some solace in the fact that their own "brain drain" was offset to a degree by their "brain gain," the influx of university people from other countries who found Canada attractive. But the gain could not entirely replace the drain because of the different characteristics of the people involved, although the stimulus of outside talent is a positive advantage.

Now this country, largely through the initiative of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada, is taking steps to retrieve as many as possible of the Canadians attracted by greener foreign fields. The association estimates that at present there are about 12,000 Canadian students in universities outside Canada—roughly 10,000 of them in the United States. In co-operation with the National Research Council, it has sent pilot teams of senior university personnel to certain large American universities where substantial numbers of Canadian students are doing graduate studies. The purpose of the teams has been to inform the Canadians away from home of developments in higher education in Canada, to show that this country is interested in these students, and to make available to them as much information as possible on placement opportunities in Canadian universities, government service and industry.

The response has been good. Most Canadians interviewed on American campuses have expressed a desire to return home to jobs provided they are adequately rewarding in salary, in opportunities for advancement and in other amenities. They have been gratified to learn that Canadian universities are interested in them, and that there are means by which they can retain contact with Canada and Canadian placements on university staffs or elsewhere.

Team members report that there is still among them a yearning for the academic and professional hills of home. They find, too, that salaries in universities are not far out of line in this country.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Inevitabilities of Europe

WHILE there are strong forces working for British membership in the European Economic Community, it would be astonishing if British membership is accomplished for some years to come. Eventually it will be. But not very soon. For British entry requires, as Mr. Edward Heath said recently, that Britain be "prepared to become a member of a community which is deliberately setting out" to redress "the balance in trade, finance, defence and political influence . . . on the two sides of the Atlantic."

Lippmann

On the Continent the forces working for British membership are composed of Europeans who want Britain to come to the continent in order to avoid having to choose between the leadership of France and that of West Germany. The pro-British Europeans are to be found in Italy, in the small countries, and in the opposition to General de Gaulle inside of France.

Benefits Recognized

In Britain there is a widening recognition that the economic rejuvenation of British industry would be assisted by, even if it does not depend upon, entry into the great trade opportunities and competition of the Common Market.

Yet neither of these positive forces for British entry is overwhelmingly strong. The five European members of the community argue with France. But they will not, as Mr. Heath told the House of Commons recently, "abandon France . . . their interests are too bound up together." And in Britain, although the advocates are increasing in number and in their sense of urgency, the sacrifices required are not easy to accept. Britain will be required to pass through a drastic industrial reform of her older industries, and it is by no means certain that this can be accomplished without more planning and regimentation than Prime Minister Wilson now envisages. There will be required also that Britain face the risks and the sacrifices and the sentimental pains of transforming the United Kingdom from a world power into a European power.

Must Ease British Load

In the course of this transformation it will be necessary to agree on some international arrangement that relieves Britain of the burden of being banker in the sterling area. It will be necessary also to liquidate what remains of the British Empire from Cyprus to Singapore. It will be necessary, as Mr. Heath told the House of Commons on November 17, to join the western continental nations in "redressing the balance on the two sides of the Atlantic."

We shall be misreading the real problem if, looking at these big changes, we jump to the conclusion that Mr. Heath was telling the British that they must surrender to General de Gaulle. Those who do jump to this conclusion will be making the usual mistake of not realizing that General de Gaulle's influence in Europe does not rest upon his imperious will or upon the military power of France; it rests on his ability to discern, sooner than most, the movement of historic events. The secret of General de Gaulle is that so often he has been right very early in the day, that he has been the first to perceive the inevitable which is coming to pass.

Orderly Recession

An inevitable in the situation we are dealing with is that the British Isles cannot continue to be a military power "east of Suez." It is an educated guess that they will carry out an orderly recession within ten years. It is also inevitable that the Europe into which Britain will want to withdraw is not going to be willing to live under the kind of dominion which the United States exercised, quite benevolently, during the postwar years. The political convulsion in Germany reflects this. It is not due to General de Gaulle but to the fact that the Germans have emerged from the tutelage which began in the Adenauer-Dulles era. The forces of change which are at work in Germany are at work everywhere else in Europe, and one may say that General de Gaulle is the most visible and articulate spokesman of a great European movement.

The changes in Britain and in Europe which are bound to come will certainly not be easy and uncomplicated. But they will be all the harder and more intricate the more the inevitabilities of change are resisted by statesmen and bureaucrats who will not and cannot face the fact that the world as they have known it is not standing still.

NERVOUS

I have always been very nervous of any public appearance. I hated games—that awful gymnasium we used to go to—hated doing anything in public, and that, I'm afraid, has gone on all my life; it just happens to be there. When I have to make a speech I feel frightfully sick for two days before, even with questions in the House of Commons.

Looking Back

From The Times of Nov. 29, 1906:

The lecture delivered last night in the Centennial Methodist Church by the general secretary of the YMCA was listened to with great pleasure by a large audience. Mr. A. J. Brace took as his subject his experience during the Boer War. He said that in his opinion the Africans in the area would perhaps "be contained another 60 or 70 years by the English and Dutch white" but that they would someday take the country for their own, expelling all European peoples.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Control of the Purse

EVER since Mr. Benson rescued the government from the financial impasse of mid-November, Members of Parliament have been speculating about the probable verdict of the auditor-general on this dazzling performance. Appearing by special arrangement before the public accounts committee last Wednesday, Mr. Henderson has offered some preliminary thoughts in the form of a 16-page memorandum. They may not constitute his final word because he has yet to audit the actual November transactions and he has not, in any case, offered a legal opinion.

Western

Mr. Henderson's paper sets out changes in the vote pattern over the past three years. It is cast in this form "because I believe that these changes have contributed to an erosion of Parliament's traditional role in controlling public funds and that it is important members of this committee and the House understand their significance."

Following the report of the Glassco commission the treasury board recommended, a reduction in the number of votes. A reduction was in fact achieved over years in which the main estimates were increasing by 23 per cent. The purpose was to "give management greater flexibility in achieving its objectives."

House Control Impaired

When the proposal came before the committee, it also had for consideration a number of suggestions from the auditor-general. Mr. Henderson's view was that reduction of the number of votes might render life considerably easier for the executive but might at the same time impair parliamentary control. He felt that there should be, at the same time, a change in the manner in which estimates were presented to Parliament. Not only was the wording "far too technical;" there was also a lack of understandable supporting details. How, in these circumstances, could members be expected to give proposed spending the scrutiny it deserved?

The public accounts committee recommended adoption of a revised vote pattern, subject to the auditor-general's suggestions. However, in most instances no action had been taken on these recommendations when the 1964-65 estimates were being considered. In some cases, nothing has been done yet. Mr. Henderson warned that the effect of consolidation in these circumstances might be to lessen parliamentary control. Following through in his 1965 report to the House, he noted that the approved pattern had been changed in a number of respects and he listed examples of transfers of funds between services which would not have been possible under the former system. He will point to others in his 1966 report.

Defence Consolidation

It is interesting to observe that the appropriations for national defence now consist of only 10 votes. One alone, Vote 15, accounts for 95 per cent of all national defence spending or 18 per cent of the government's entire main estimates. (This, says Mr. Henderson, exceeds the treasury board's undertaking to the committee three years ago.)

Each department head is required to obtain treasury board approval for the division of any appropriation into allotments (as detailed in the estimates). When approved the allotments may be varied or amended with the consent of the board but the amounts of each allotment, or of the appropriation, may not be exceeded.

It developed last October that national defence had effected transfers between the allotments with the approval, not of treasury board but of the deputy minister concerned. Mr. Henderson asked to be advised as to the authority by which this was done. He has not yet been enlightened on this matter.

The auditor-general is concerned not only about such transfers but also with the accumulation of revenues which the executive may use at its discretion in future years. National defence, for example now has one "open account" with a balance approximating $19 million. This came into being after various departments had been criticized by the Glassco commission for their slothfulness in disposing of accumulated material. By way of providing an incentive, national defence was permitted to salt away for future use proceeds from the sale of surplus materials, supplies and equipment and also proceeds of building, works and land sales — subject in the latter case to a $5 million dollar limit.

This money does not go back to the consolidated revenue fund at year-end. It has not been used and now provides "a cushion to soften the effect of any reduction Parliament may wish to bring about in national defence spending in the future."

Contingencies

The finance contingencies vote combines two votes which were separate until 1964-65. One was for the supplementing of salaries and wages (resulting from periodic pay reviews) and the other for miscellaneous minor and unforeseen expenses.

The treasury board, back in 1965, discovered that it could enlarge its spending freedom by a sort of double shuffle. A transfer might be made from the general salaries allotment to a particular allotment and money subsequently transferred to a different allotment within the vote. Mr. Henderson challenged this last year. The board held that it looks forward to further relaxation of the salary-transfer rules.

This controversy is unresolved, the auditor-general maintaining that there is no question "that when Parliament votes money for salaries, it is to be used for salaries and salaries only and may not be used for anything else indirectly." However, the government now proposes to so revise the wording of Finance Vote 15 that its authority will be placed beyond question.

Mr. Henderson, turning to the method of granting of interim supply, states: "There would seem to be little leeway from month to month and certainly not to cover any major expenditures beyond the end of the immediate month or period planned. If there is leeway, then it can only be caused by interim supply having been sought and obtained on a basis more generous than was required."

Practice on Supply

Parliament's practice is to grant interim supply by twelfths of the main and supplementary estimates. Depending on progress with the estimates, there may be marked variations, among the departments. Some obtained full supply last summer; others, although still waiting, may in certain cases have appropriations between nine and eleven-twelfths of their main and supplementary estimates, although four months still remain in the fiscal year.

The contingencies vote is interesting because it has been rising steeply over the past three years (undoubtedly in view of extensive salary revisions) and because it seems to be a priority item. Thus, at October 31, Mr. Benson had approval for eleven-twelfths of the sum set out in the main estimates and nine-twelfths of that listed in supplementary estimates although the normal proportion for that date would be seven-twelfths. This must have been very helpful to him in the performance of his mid-month miracle.

It is much more convenient for the treasury board than for individual departments to make provision for large-scale salary increases. But the process, as Mr. Henderson points out, makes it much more difficult for the House to control the money supply. We appear also to have moved a long way from the original concept of the finance contingencies vote as a small fund for unexpected and unforeseen items.

Letters to the Editor

With Proof?

The Victoria Times has taken a good stand re pollution of our water, air and land. How then can the services of this paper be loaned to polluting our water with this poisonous substance?

It has been claimed, with substantial proof, that as the children getting unnatural fluorides reach their 30s their teeth start decaying at an accelerated rate and they have more kidney, liver and other ailments.

What benefits are adults promised from unnatural fluorides? Why, none whatever. Yet they are asked to bear the majority of the cost through taxes, even though many of them consider unnatural fluorides a poison.—Ernie Weed, 1420 Camosun St.

Wearisome Question

Many claims have been substantiated by eminent European and North American doctors and scientists (names available) that sodium fluoride dumped into drinking water supplies would be cumulatively harmful. When some scientists and doctors disagree, let the public beware!—R. B. Shaw, 1277 Rockland Ave.

When the Chips Are Down

A point frequently overlooked by the voter in municipal elections is the fact that employees of the provincial government are often candidates for office.

As a former trustee and long time observer of the local scene, I cannot, in all fairness expect any provincial civil servant to predjudice his chance of promotion by speaking out against his employer in the municipal fight to gain larger contributions from the provincial government in such vital matters as hospital and educational grants.

In my own municipality of Oak Bay we have at present two civil servants on council and it is my hope that clearly independent candidates will get the public support they deserve in the forthcoming elections. — W. Humphrey Golby, 1959 Hampshire.

Principal or Principle?

It would appear from the present stand of Prime Minister Pearson regarding the recognition of China that it is a question of "principal" as opposed to "principle." Having such a lucrative market for our surplus wheat and grains, etc, we must not lose sight of the dollars, the principle being such a small item. On the other hand the principle of Chinese possessing the nuclear weaponry capable of use against Canada in the not so far distant future, and, to extend the line of thought, the principle of Chinese Communism one day being imposed upon our western civilization, calls upon our governing master to hedge by whatever means he feels may mitigate possible disaster.

Mr. Prime minister! Is it principal (and interest) by whatever means we may attain it, or — is it "principle" the keystone of our democratic way of life? — Frank L. Godfrey, 9506 Lochside.

'Mindlessness' of America Greatest Danger to the World

By PAUL GOODMAN

(Second of two selections of excerpts from the Massey Lectures at the University of Toronto delivered this year by the noted American author of Growing Up Absurd, Compulsory Mis-Education and many other books.)

Corporate and bureaucratic societies, whether ruled by priests, mandarins, generals, or business manager, have always tended to diminish the importance of personal needs and human feeling, in the interest of abstractions and systemic necessities.

And where there has been no check by strong community ties, effective democracy, or a free market, it has not been rare for the business of society to be largely without utility or common sense.

". . . Contrary to the conventional argument, anarchic incidents like civil disobedience are often essential parts of the democratic process . . ."

Nevertheless, modern corporate societies that can wield e high technology are liable to a unique temptation: since they do not exploit common labor, they may tend to exclude the majority of human beings altogether, as useless for the needs of the system and therefore as not quite persons.

There is nothing malevolent or heartless in the exclusion. The tone is not like that of the old exploitative society which threw people out of work during the lows of the business cycle. For humane and political reasons, efforts, even extraordinary ones, are made to shape the excluded into the dominant style, so that they can belong.

Even though the system is going to need only a few per cent with elaborate academic training, all the young are subjected to 12 years of schooling and 40 per cent go to college. There is every kind of training and social service to upgrade the poor and to make the handicapped productive members of society.

At a high cost in effort and suffering, mentally retarded children must be taught to read, if only "cat" and "rat."

But a frank look shows, I think, that, for most, the long schooling is a way of keeping the young on ice; the job training is busy-work; and the social services turn people into "community dependents" for generations.

Much of the anxiety about the "handicapped" and the "underprivileged" is suburban squeamishness that cannot tolerate difference. What is never done, however, is to change the rules of the system, to redefine usefulness in terms of how people are, and to shape the dominant style to them.

This cannot be done because it would be inefficient and, indeed, degrading, for there is only one right way to exist. Do it our way or else you are not quite a person.

The Efficiency Concept

Are the people really useless? The concept of efficiency is largely, maybe mainly, systemic. It depends on ~~the goals~~ of the system, which may be too narrowly and inflexibly conceived; it depends on the case of administration, which is considered as more important than economic or social costs; but it depends also on the method of calculating costs, which may create a false image of efficiency by ruling out "intangibles" that do not suit the method.

This source of error becomes very important in advanced urban economies, where the provision of personal and social services grows rapidly in proportion to hardware and food production and distribution. In providing services — whether giving information, selling, teaching children, admitting to college, assigning jobs, serving food, or advising on welfare — standardization and punchcards may seem to fulfill the functions, but they may do so at the expense of frayed nerves, waiting in line, bad mistakes, misfitting, and cold soup.

In modern conditions, the tailormade improvisations of fallible but responsive human beings may be increasingly indispensable rather than useless. In the jargon of Frank Riessman, there is a need for "sub-professionals."

Yet the mass-production and business-machine style, well-adapted to manufacturing hardware and calculating logistics, will decide that people are useless anyway, since they can mathematically be dispensed with.

Abroad, the Americans will engage in plenty of old-fashioned exploitation of human labor, as in Latin America; yet the tendency is again to regard the underdeveloped peoples as not quite persons, and to try to shape them up by (sometimes) generous assistance in our own style.

For example, one of the radical ideas of General Learning, the subsidiary of General Electric and Time, Inc., is to concentrate on electronic devices to teach literacy to the masses of children in poor countries; we must export our Great Society.

Enterprisers Are Eager

Our enterprisers are eager to build highways and pipelines through the jungle, to multiply bases for our airplanes, and to provide other items of the American standard of living, for which the Western-trained native political leaders have "rising aspirations."

Unfortunately, this largesse must often result in disrupting age-old cultures, fomenting tribal wars, inflating prices and wages, and reducing decent poverty to starvation, causing the abandonment of farms and disastrous instant urbanization, making dictatorships inevitable, and drawing simple peoples into Great Power conflicts.

And woe if they do not then shape up, if they want to develop according to their local prejudices—for instance for land reform. They become an incontrollable nuisance, surely therefore allied with our enemies, and better dead than Red.

A startling literal corollary of the principle that our system excludes human beings rather than exploiting them is the agreement of all liberals and conservatives that there must be a check on population growth, more especially among backward peoples and the poor at home. We are definitely beyond the need for the labor of the "proletariat" (producers of offspring) and the Iron Law of Wages to keep that labor cheap. Yet I am bemused by this unanimous recourse to a biological and mathematical etiology for our troubles.

Probably there is a danger of world-overpopulation in the foreseeable future. Certainly with the likelihood of nuclear war there is a danger of world-underpopulation.

However, until we institute more human ecological, economic, and political arrangements, I doubt that population control is the first order of business; nor would I trust the Americans to set the rules.

Two Dominant Trends

I have singled-out two trends of the dominant organization of American society, its increasing tendency to expand, meaninglessly, for its own sake; and its tendency to exclude human beings as useless. It is the Empty Society, the obverse face of the Affluent Society. When Adam Smith spoke of the Wealth of Nations, he did not mean anything like this.

The meaningless expansion and the excluding are different things, but in our society they are essentially related.

Lack of meaning begins to occur when the immensely productive economy overmatures and lives by creating demand instead of meeting it; when the check of the free market gives way to monopolies, subsidies, and captive consumers; when the sense of community vanishes and public goods are neglected and resources despoiled; when there is made-work (or war) to reduce unemployment; and when the measure of economic health is not increasing well-being but abstractions like the Gross National Product and the rate of growth.

Human beings tend to be excluded when a logistic style becomes universally pervasive, so that values and data that cannot be standardized and programmed are disregarded; when function is adjusted to the technology rather than technology to function; when technology is treated as a good in itself, like science, rather than being regulated by political and moral prudence; when there develops an establishment of managers and experts who alone license and allot resources, and which deludes itself that it knows the only right method and is omnicompetent.

Then common folk become docile clients, maintained by sufferance, or they are treated as deviant.

It is evident that, for us, these properties of the Empty Society are essentially related. If we did not exclude so many as not really persons, we would have to spend more of our substance on worthwhile goods, including subsistence goods, both at home and abroad; we would have to provide a more human environment for the children to grow up in; there would be more paths for growth and more ways of being a person.

On the other hand, if we seriously and efficiently tackled the problems of anomie, alienation, riot, pollution, congestion, urban blight, degenerative and mental disease, etc., we would find ourselves paying more particular attention to persons and neighborhoods, rather than treating them as standard items; we would have a quite different engineering and social science; and we would need all the human resources available.

Certainly we would stop talking presumptuously about The Great Society and find ourselves struggling, in the confusing conditions of modern times, for a decent society.

The chief danger to American society at present, and to the world from American society, is our mindlessness, induced by empty institutions.

It is a kind of mesmerism, a self-delusion of formal rightness, that affects both leaders and people. We have all the talking-points but less and less content.

The Americans are decent folk, generous and fairly compassionate. They are not demented and fanatical, like some other imperial powers of the past and present, but on the contrary rather skeptical and with a sense of humor. They are not properly called arrogant, though perhaps presumptuous.

But we have lost our horse sense, for which we were once noted. This kind of intelligence was grounded not in history or learning, nor in finesse of sensibility and analysis, but in the habit of making independent judgments and in democratically rubbing shoulders with all kinds and conditions.

We have lost it by becoming personnel of a mechanical system and exclusive suburbanites, by getting out of contact with real jobs and real people.

Doom-Bound Machine

Opposing this strange doom-laden and (I fear) doom-bound social machine, there is only the tradition of America, populist, pluralist, and libertarian. To conclude this essay, let me make some remarks about the last of these, our peculiar libertarianism which is, I guess — along with our energy and enterprise — what most has impressed foreign peoples about us.

In the context of the pragmatic American attitude toward sovereignty, what is the meaning of the present wave of civil disobedience?

Against direct actions like the civil-rights sit-ins, the student occupation of Sproul Hall at Berkeley, the draft-card burnings, it is always said that they foment disrespect for law and order and lead to a general breakdown of civil socitay.

Although judicious people are willing to grant that due process and ordinary administration are not working well, because of prejudice, unconcern, double-talk, arrogance, or perhaps just the cumbersomeness of overcentralized bureaucracy, nevertheless, they say, the recourse to civil disobedience entails even worse evils.

Empirically, is it the case that direct actions which are aimed at specific abuses lead to general lawlessness? Where is the evidence to prove the connection — e.g., statistics of correlative disorder in the community, or an increase of unspecific lawless acts among the direct activists?

The flimsy evidence that we actually have tends to weigh in the opposite direction. Crime and delinquency seem to diminish where there has been political direct action by Negroes. The community and academic spirit at Berkeley has been better this year than it used to be.

On sociological grounds, indeed, the probability is that a specific direct action, which cuts through frustrating due process, and especially if it is successful or partially successful, will tend to increase civil order rather than to destroy it, for it revives the belief that the community is one's own, that one has influence; whereas the inhibition of direct action against an intolerable abuse inevitably increases anomie and therefore general lawlessness.

Aggravates Tensions

The enforcement of law and order at all costs aggravates the tensions that lead to explosions.

In brief, contrary to the conventional argument, anarchic incidents like civil disobedience are often essential parts of the democratic process as Americans understand it. So it was understood by Jefferson when, after Shays's rebellion was disarmed, he urged that nobody be punished, for that might discourage mutiny in the future, and then what check would there be on government?

Then, how profoundly alien is our present establishment, which has in one generation crept up on us and occupied all the positions of power. It has been largely the product of war, of the dislocations after the First World War, the crash programs of the Second World War, and the chronic low-grade emergency of the cold war which is fanning again into war.

The cold war has lasted for twenty years. This is the period in which more than half of gross new investment has been in armaments. It has had consequences.

The term "establishment" itself is borrowed from the British — for snobbish and literary reasons, and usually with an edge of satire. But we have had no sovereign to establish such a thing, and there is no public psychology to accept it as legitimate.

It operates like an establishment: it is the consensus of politics, the universities and science, big business, organized labor, public schooling, the media of communications; it sets the official language; it determines the right style and accredits its own members; it hires and excludes, subsidizes and neglects.

It is fantastically wasteful of brains, money, the environment, and people. It is channeling our energy and enterprise to its own aggrandizement and power, and it will exhaust us.

I would almost say that my country is like a conquered province with foreign rulers, except that they are not foreigners and we are responsible for what they do.

The system at present dominant in America, then, will not do, it is too empty.

On the other hand, it is possible that classical American democracy is necessarily a thing of the past; it may be too wild, too woolly, too mixed up — too anarchic, too populist, too pluralist — for the conditions of big population and high technology in a world that has become small.

I hope this is not the case, for I love the American experiment; but I don't know. The American faces that used to be so beautiful, so resolute and yet poignantly open and innocent, are looking ugly these days, hard, thin-lipped, and like innocence spoiled without having become experienced.

We Americans have not suffered as most other peoples have, at least not since the Civil War a century ago. We have not been bombed, we have not been occupied. We have not been colonialized for two hundred years.

We have not cringed under a real tyranny. Perhaps we would not ride so high today if we knew what it felt like to be badly hurt.

Will John Turner Be the Man To Revitalize Canadian Politics?

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — Next Saturday, at a meeting of the Manitoba Young Liberals, in Winnipeg, John Napier Turner, the young minister without portfolio in the Pearson government, who has been hailed as Canada's answer to Teddy and Bobby Kennedy, will deliver the last in a series of ten policy declarations he has made since he entered the cabinet a year ago.

Newman

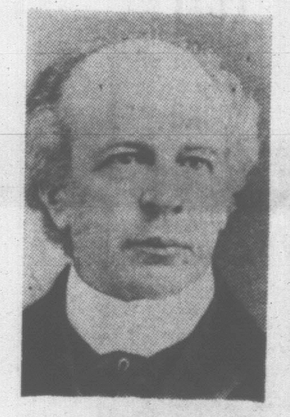
These speeches have given the Canadian public a tentative first look at a politician who hopefully represents a new generation reaching to grasp the levers of political control in this country. Turner is a man of our time, born at the beginning of the depression, highly educated, articulate, unsentimental, handsome enough to illuminate a million television screens and, one begins to suspect, intellectually substantial enough to back his image up.

The mind that emerges from an analysis of his speeches is that of a young man bored by abstractions, interested more in workable ideas than in grandiose ideologies. Turner is no romantic perpetuating the conditioned reflexes of small liberalism. Committed more to existence than to essence, he is slowly forging a brand new, swinging vision of this country and its potential.

Standard Quotes Are Still Used

His speeches still contain the standard quotes from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but they also include passages from Marshall McLuhan, the high priest of the electronics age, and Michael Harrington, a leading force in the American New Lett.

There are words and phrases (like "the infinity of contingencies" and "quantum mechanics") seldom heard before in Canadian political speeches, and on occasion, his oratory achieves a shimmering cadence reminiscent of John Kennedy (viz his exhortation to the B.C. Weekly Newspapers Association on Oct. 28: "Every Canadian has an acute inner sense that the membranes of this country are stretched thin over a land that may be so disparate in composition, so tense in its inner relations, so enmeshed in silent fears and antagonisms, and so entrapped by history, that it cannot fulfill its destiny").



SIR WILFRID LAURIER
. . . a bow to the past

There's still a gap between Turner's private and public impact. Visitors to his office on Parliament Hill go determined not to be charmed because his charm has been too much heralded, yet few can talk to him without being stimulated and most leave, despite themselves, charmed.

Turner's problem in confronting the public is that under our parliamentary system, no junior member of cabinet can stake out meaningful positions without entering the bailiwick of a fellow minister, and thus risking resentment and party discipline.

Mild Attacks Bring Rebukes

Turner's mild attacks on the inadequacies of the government's student loan program and his stand against provinces using educational television networks for propaganda purposes, have already brought him mild rebukes from the ministers responsible. So he finds himself in a conundrum: he wants to reach out to the yearning young, to capture the country's restlessness, yet at the same time he needs the backing of his elders and the approval of his party.

One of the concerns that runs through Turner's public pronouncements is the problem of communication in government. He's particularly critical of the time lag between policy suggestions and their implementation, which he says can run to five or six years. His suggestions for eliminating the political disillusionment this kind of delay generates is "to streamline the programming of government, so that facts are bubbling up around the cabinet table . . . much faster than they are now."

He'd like to see the cabinet split into an inner policy group and an outer administrative ring and to have legislative procedures revamped and accelerated. He also insists that a party in power must keep the public informed on the resolution of its priorities through regular progress reports. "We have to rethink the whole balance of efficiency and democracy in our system," he believes.

JOHN TURNER
. . . swinging vision

At the same time, Turner is pragmatic enough to be totally loyal to his party. He looks on the Liberal's recent internal squabbles as being nothing more than "pillow fights." The postponement of medicare, for example, couldn't have been upset by the Liberal policy convention without upsetting the government. He does take sides in the continentalists versus nationalists issue, however.

"Continentalism is not part of my political vocabulary, particularly when it comes to resource policies," he says. While he disagrees with the restrictive measures that have been advocated by Walter Gordon, he supports Gordon's objectives. "I think that Walter Gordon's National conscience is an essential ingredient for my country — and for my party," he says.

Turner is then a patriot, but a realistic patriot. His main policy thrust is to find ways of improving Canadian society because he says "without excellence in all things Canadian, this country will never have an identity and will be unable to compete in the world." To achieve that excellence he is for the ripping away of all social and financial barriers to higher education and the expansion of the federal government involvement in research. He also wants a further liberalization of our immigration policies to allow into the country not only the skilled but those who can demonstrate the ability to learn.

Leverage Needed Against America

"Canada needs not only qualifications that fit on a printed certificate; it needs muscle, energy, hard work. We need fifty million people because if the eleven to one ratio in population continues, we'll never be able to exercise any leverage against the Americans."

Turner's future is bright but the path he'll take to power is still winding and of undetermined length. He is not openly running for the leadership of his party though there's little doubt he'll make the attempt when the opportunity presents itself, and with half the electorate now under 35, his chances of becoming the candidate who can give the new generation political expression are excellent. In the meantime, he's churning the political water like some sleek speedboat, discreetly buzzing the smug harbor of Ottawa's establishment Liberalism.

CHANGE NEEDED IN ACT

Council Backs Sunday Sport

Victoria city council will support the idea of paid admissions for Sunday sports providing a majority of the electors approve.

The decision was made Monday afternoon during a special committee discussion of proposed amendments to the Municipal Act.

No action is expected this year.

One of the amendments is that municipalities be given the right to permit admission fees for Sunday sporting events and other types of entertainment after a favorable referendum has been taken.

Acknowledging the touchy political situation, city manager Dennis Young said he had no recommendations to make to council.

But Ald. Michael Griffin, who leaves council at the end of the year, had.

"The proposal should be amended," he said. "If we want Sunday sport, let's hop to it. It should be a council decision and doesn't require a referendum."

A shocked Ald. Baird deplored the proposal.

"One of the big troubles in the world today — one of the reasons we are so confused and anxious — is that we are not keeping Sunday properly,', he said.

"I am flatly against Sunday sport. Sunday should be a day of rest."

Ald. Griffin defended his stand.

BEEN TO CHURCH

"I went out and spent a dollar to watch my son play football on Sunday," he said. "And, I would like to add, that was after my entire family and myself had been to church Sunday morning.

"To me, and I'm sure to hundreds of other people, that made a fine afternoon of relaxation."

"You could have done that on Saturday," retorted Ald. Baird.

"I did in on Saturday, too," snapped Ald. Griffin.

DRAW DRAPES?

"What do you want us to do? Are we to go back to the old dark days when we sat in the parlor with the drapes drawn and even the playing cards put out of sight?"

. . . BRITAIN STUDIES RHODESIA CONCESSIONS

Salisbury Monday, described the concessions as minor, indicating they did not go to the heart of the matter.

Britain wants an irrevocable guarantee that Rhodesia will gradually move towards majority rule by the 4,000,000 Negroes who outnumber the whites 20 to 1

While the Wilson cabinet studied Bowden's report on his weekend visit to Salisbury, Sir Saville Garner, head of Britain's diplomatic service, flew to Washington and Ottawa to consult with the U.S. and Canadian governments on British plans to ask the United Nations Security Council for selective mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia.

Wilson thereby hopes to manoeuvre simultaneously on two fronts: To initiate diplomatic machinery for the mandatory sanctions as he had promised Commonwealth prime ministers last September while pressing Smith for further concessions.

The informant said there was an informal understanding at the Commonwealth conference that Wilson should be prepared to initiate action at the UN by Nov. 30 in order that the sanctions could be imposed before Dec. 31 as Wilson had promised.

DELAY SEEN

There now seems to be a slight delay in that timetable, though Wilson's aides maintain that the prime minister had never made any "rigid" promise to move to the UN by Nov. 30.

These aides said it now appears Wilson may not be able to make a full report to Parliament until next week. He has promised that Parliament would be able to debate his proposals before he initiated UN action.

As the situation currently stands, UN action would appear inevitable, the informant added. The next move was up to Smith. If his written answers constitute further concessions, Wilson would be tempted to hold further Anglo-Rhodesian exploratory talks.

Wednesday Rites Set For Captain

Funeral services will be held Wednesday for naval Captain John Joseph Moore, 1738 Leighton Road, a 98-year-old veteran of three wars who died Sunday in Veterans' Hospital.

Born on the Isle of Man, Captain Moore ran away to sea at the age of 13. He was in the naval reserve during the Boer War, served out of Halifax in the First World War, and was based in Victoria for the Second World War.

He skippered the Canadian Hydrographic Services Ship CGS Lillooet and later the William J. Stewart, retiring from the sea in 1945.

Captain Moore retired permanently in 1957.

He was a member of the Trafalgar Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion and the Merchant Service Guild.

Captain Moore is survived by two sons, Capt. J. E. Moore of Victoria and W. Frank Moore of Nanaimo; three daughters, Mrs. F. O. Rockett, Mrs. C. A. Holt and Mrs. Stuart Brookman, all of Victoria; five grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Funeral services will be held from Sands chapel at 1:30 p.m Wednesday.

Births Show Sharp Drop, Marriages Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Every province has had more marriages and deaths—but fewer births—this year than last.

Quebec shows some of the most extreme figures in all three categories through the first 10 months of 1966, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

Quebec's total births were down 7.6 per cent to the end of October at 95,919.

For Canada as a whole, there were 7.4 per cent fewer births to the end of October, 6.7 per cent more marriages and 2.8 per cent more deaths.

The number of marriages in Quebec has increased eight per cent this year to 34,337 and its deaths are up 4.5 per cent at 31,598.

Canada 330,285 (7.4 per cent); Newfoundland 12,496 (1.3); Prince Edward Island 1,846 (12.8); Nova Scotia 12,842 (8.2); New Brunswick 10,815 (11.4); Quebec 95,919 (7.6); Ontario 111.875 (7.8; Manitoba 15,658 (9.8); Saskatchewan 15,641 (9.5); Alberta 25,575 (6.6); British Columbia 27,618 (3.4).

Saanich Yanks Sewer Bylaw

Saanich council did a sudden about-face Monday night.

By a 6-to-3 vote council decided NOT to place a sewer utility referendum before ratepayers next month.

Only one week ago, council unanimously voted to send the referendum to ratepayers and gave the necessary bylaw the first three readings.

Switching were Couns. Harold Todd, Leslie Passmore, William Campbell, Edward Lum, Alan Newberry and William Noel.

Sticking by their previous decisions were Reeve Hugh Curtis and Couns. Digby Kier and Edith Gunning.

Leading the "switchers" was Coun. Leslie Passmore, mover of the successful motion that "no final action be taken at this time."

He said this was "in view of the fact there has been considerable representation to members of this council and I have stated we do not have all the answers."

INFORMATION

He said "everyone including myself needs a lot more information on this matter" and he proposed the delay until ratepayers could be informed of what is involved in the Greater Victoria sewerage study and changing assessments in Saanich.

Under the sewer utility proposal, the six separate sewerage areas would have been combined into one common utility if property owners voted the necessary 60 per cent approval.

Object of the move, officials explained earlier, was to facilitate implementation of the Greater Victoria sewerage study and expand sewers, trunks and outfall connections for the municipality.

REFERENDUM

Clerk Gordon Hayward informed council that this kind of referendum can only be placed at the annual municipal elections.

Coun. Alan Newberry said he doesn't like the suggestion that this means the end of sewers in Saanich.

But Reeve Curtis said while some sewer construction could take place council's rejection "effectively delays any major opening up of sewers in the municipality."

Coun. Noel said he couldn't become a party to a scheme which would "dishonor the sewer I contract" where 7,200 properties are paying charges on a 30-year scheme expiring in 1981.

COSTING MORE

Coun. Kier said "It's quite clear we need the sewer utility. I don't see any great overwhelming disapproval. The longer we wait the more it is going to cost."

Coun. Gunning said if Saanich can't take an overall approach within its own boundaries "I dont see how we can take a regional approach" to sewers.

And Reeve Curtis said at one time he worried about the city delaying over regional implementation of the sewerage report.

"Now I'm more worried about Saanich than the city as far as regionalization of sewers is concerned," he said.

Victoria Role Probed Thursday

The Regional District Board of Greater Victoria will meet Thursday to discuss the now several months old $23 million sewerage report.

But forecasts are that little or no progress will be made to bring the dream of a Saanich Peninsula sewer trunk system closer to reality.

The hold-out municipality to date has been Victoria, which is demanding a full and comprehensive report on costs before commiting itself to the over-all program.

At the last meeting of the Regional District some six weeks ago, it was decided to establish a committee of municipal treasurers, municipal engineers and other experts to work out a cost-sharing formula.

To date no meetings have been held, although it is understood that the first will be held within the next week — too late to affect the decisions of Thursday's meeting.

ECONOMICS

Victoria's reluctance to go along with the master plan is based entirely on economics.

The city, with a sewerage system more than capable of handling present and immediate needs, feels that it cannot commit its taxpayers to an expenditure of $5 million (the city's estimated cost under the sewerage survey) without solid justification.

Prior to the decision to conduct the survey on the sewerage needs of the peninsula, Victoria had earmarked $1,750,000 for sewer system improvements in its five-year capital budget.

Of that a minimum of $200,000 was to be spent on the major problem in the city sewer network — the Clover Point outfall.

TRUNK REPAIRS

The balance was to be spent on trunk repairs and extensions.

Under the sewerage study the Clover Point outfall is also destined to be extended several thousand feet out to sea.

The $200,000 job will be done whether the city eventually goes along with the study recommendations or decides to go it alone.

Acting Mayor Cecil Parrott stressed that the city was in favor of the sewerage study survey.

"It was an excellent report," he said. "We agree that the problem is a regional problem because lack of sewerage facilities in outlying areas could create an epidemic in Victoria as easily as in the district where sewers are lacking.

CLEAR PICTURE

"But we cannot lose sight of the costs. This, so far, is the stumbling block. It is a problem we have to solve. We shall request further adjournments until we can get a clear picture."

If and when the report is finally adopted taxpayers will be faced with a more than $23 million bill.

The engineers who prepared the massive report noted that the $23 million was based on 1965-66 costs and that it provided trunk lines and outfalls only.

It is estimated that the total cost of the project with subsidiary lines and domestic feeder lines will be in the neighborhood of $50 million.

Thursday's meeting of the Regional District should have been held two weeks ago but was cancelled because of the death of the late Mayor A. W. Toone.

TAX FRAUD ADMITTED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hilton Whitworth, 45, a former executive of three Vancouver construction companies, pleaded guilty in magistrate's court Monday to four charges of evading $100,000 income tax.

Whitworth, who admitted evading 1963 personal tax and tax due from the three companies of which he was a director, was remanded in custody until Dec. 19 for a presentence report.

Interested In Old Days

They have been flocking in large numbers to the B.C. historical exhibit on display in the McPherson Library at the University of Victoria.

Historical documents, many of them on view for the first time, trace the province's early development. The documents are on loan from the provincial archives.

A spokesman for the university's centennial committee said adults have not shown much interest in the display but high school students in large numbers attend between 8:30 a.m. and 10 p.m. The exhibition will end Wednesday.

Dief Still Has Line Out For Island Fishing Trip

Prominent local Tory Russel Simpson today said Mr. Diefenbaker still wants to come to catch some steelhead trout and the visit will be made, barring a crisis in Parliament, in the next week or two.

Mr. Diefenbaker earlier had announced he would come here for a fishing trip after the national party convention in Ottawa but his plans were foiled by the now-settled Air Canada strike.

"There still are a few details to be completed but he wants to come fishing with me for steelhead and now's the time to do it," Mr. Simpson told the Times.

He said there is a "strong possibility" of another national election if the Liberal government proceeds with its armed services unification bill in the present form so Mr. Diefenbaker first wants to learn its status before flying out to the coast.

RE-ELECTED

Mr. Simpson was re-elected president of the Esquimalt-Saanich PC Constituency Association Monday at an annual meeting in Lake Hill Women's Institute attended by about 135 persons.

Both he and Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton gave reports on the national convention which revealed a major split within the party over Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership.

"It was a tough one to report on," said Mr. Simpson this morning.

He said there was "tremendous disgust for Davie Fulton (who returned to federal politics after an unsuccessful leadership of B.C. Conservatives) and his frightful exhibition of being a man in a hurry.

"He hurt his chances so badly by his behavior that I doubt he will get to first base now in his campaign to become leader."

UNIONS END DECLINE WITH MEMBER BOOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO said today it swelled the ranks of organized labor by about 1,000,000 members in the last three years, reversing seven years of dwindling membership.

The gains bring a total membership of the AFL-CIO's 129 unions to a record high of approximately 13,500,000, a spokesman said.

The figures are based on employed, dues-paying workers—excluding workers on strike and retired members, which many unions often use to fatten official membership figures.

The estimate also excludes the approximately 1,000,000 members in Canadian unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

TAPE RECORDER SMUGGLED INTO CHAMBER

Students Prove House Security Checks Lax

OTTAWA (CP) — Smuggling of a tape recorder into the House of Commons chamber by five Carleton University students amounted to a "breach of privilege" and the stunt "can't go unnoticed," Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux said today.

Speaker Lamoureux said in an interview the students' prank had prompted a review of House security measures to determine whether they had been "improved sufficiently" since last spring when a would-be assassin blew himself to pieces in a Parliament Buildings washroom.

The five students said they taped 30 minutes of Commons debate last Thursday.

John Hanlon, spokesman for the students, said the five entered the Centre Block of the Parliament Buildings with two tape recorders, one in a brief case and the other in a pocket of a raincoat. They were asked to check the brief case, but not the coat.

Mr. Hanlon said in an interview the aim of the project was to see whether security regulations had been strengthened since the bombing incident.

Lt. - Col. David Currie, sergeant-at-arms of the Commons, was later informed of the incident by the five students.

Northern Life Of Canada Speaker's Topic

A former Victorian who once led an adventurous life at sea has been invited to address the annual two-day convention of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture which opens at the Empress Hotel Wednesday.

Bent Gesture Sivertz, commissioner of the Northwest Territories, will speak at the federation's banquet in the Crystal ballroom, starting at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

"As next year is Canada's centennial birthday, we felt it would be appropriate to invite a speaker to tell us something about our northern empire," said Charlie Walls, manager. "It's an area which few people know anything about."

Born in Victoria in 1905, Mr. Sivertz in his youth spent 10 years at sea in ships under sail and steam before returning to the city to continue his studies.

NORMAL SCHOOL

He attended Normal School and graduated from the University of British Columbia and for some years taught at schools on Vancouver Island and in Vancouver.

In the Second World War, he was commanding officer of the Naval Officers' Training Establishment HMCS "Kings" at Halifax. He was awarded the OBE in 1945.

After the war, he came to Ottawa as a foreign service officer in the department of external affairs. He was assistant chief of the Consular Division as Canada developed her consular service and supervised the establishment of many of the new offices.

He has been connected with northern affairs since 1950. In 1963, he was appointed as commissioner of Northwest Territories succeeding Fordon Robertson.

AGRICULTURE

More than 150 delegates representing the 13,000-member farm organization are expected to attend the convention.

More than 40 resolutions have been submitted to the convention.

One of the major issues to be discussed at the convention will be taxation of land for school purposes.

This matter has been raised at past conventions, but this year farmers are expected to press for a royal commission on taxation.

Turkey Head Launches Race Season

First was Dick James in Lalonga, followed by Glen and Ralph Higgins in Seasmoke.

On corrected times, results were: 1, Brian Saunders; 2, Peter Ferguson; 3, Dick James; 4, Dr. C. Brown.

The second race of the day, during the afternoon, was not completed due to lack of wind.

Next association sailing race will be Dec. 11.

Anti-Tank Guns To Boom Again

Residents may again be treated to window-rattling booms on Wednesday from anti-tank guns of the First Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles.

The rumbles were first heard last week when noise from the 106-mm guns, fired at Albert Head, carried for miles, due to low-lying clouds.

Fisherman Charged

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A Canadian fisherman has been charged here with violating the international halibut treaty between the U.S. and Canada by illegally fishing in U.S. territorial waters. Elmer G. Norman of New Westminster, skipper of the fishing vessel Misty Moon, was charged in U.S. district court with illegal halibut fishing Sept. 16 near the Islands of the Four Mountains in the Aleutian chain.

Pay Increase Aids Forces Recruiting

HALIFAX (CP) — Air Marshall E. M. Reyno, chief of personnel for the armed forces, said Monday there has been an encouraging trend in armed forces recruitment since a pay increase announced last month by Defence Minister Hellyer.

He told a news conference the increase was having a particularly beneficial effect on re-enlistment rates of technical personnel, the major problem in the forces' current manpower shortage.

Air Marshal Reyno said it was difficult to keep trained personnel in the forces when industry offered better money, but the pay increase had had "a decided impact."

The air marshal, who met with chiefs and petty officers during his visit, denied suggestions the government's unification proposals was hurting service morale.

He said poor morale was not responsible for the services' being 5,000 under their assigned strength of 110,000 men.

The most serious shortage was in the navy, perhaps because "people just don't want to go to sea," although all services needed more technical personnel.

But he denied that the services were unable to meet commitments.

Unification would help by reducing the number of specialists needed and all trained personnel were being encouraged to remain in the services.

He said the unification program should be defended by "top management" in the military for the sake of service morale.

It was "perfectly legitimate" for top-ranking military officers to publicly answer criticism of how the services are run.

Statements by himself and other officers should not be placed in any political context by politicians in any parties. In his own case, these statements were a straight matter of duty.

Morale was his responsibility and he could not remain silent while morale suffered from unanswered criticism.

HOME GARDEN

Don't Cover Those Gems Of Winter

By HILDA BEASTALL

As we approach the shortest day, it amazes even the gardener of 50 years on the coast to see abundant signs of spring.

Hilda

With the year's shortest day still more than three weeks away, we notice the fat tips of pale green snowdrops pushing through the wet soil and nearby are creamy tips of one of the early winter crocuses.

These little bulbs are quite often blooming just in time for Christmas or New Year, but even in November we must not cover them with leaves or dry compost.

Cooler weather at any time before blooming will slow them down without harm. If temperatures remain mild they will bloom early to delight the newcomers and oldtimers alike.

In soil around shrubs where the branches create a mild micro-climate, some of the lily-flowered tulips are emerging.

HURT BY WIND

I hope they decide to wait, for these slender-stemmed beauties are not geared to winds of the early weeks of the New Year.

Rather we expect to see the species tulips and narcissi, with stems only two to five inches in height, comparatively ground-hugging, and the Winter-aconites (Eranthis hyemalis), often exhibiting golden butercup-flowers during Christmas week.

Even the flowering quince, which has been lovingly grown by generations of gardeners under many names, already has flower buds visible on the stems.

This is the signal for doing whatever pruning is necessary, for we know where the flowers will be and may cut off any of the wood not required without sacrificing too many blooms.

These early blooms are unlikely to harm any of the plants mentioned for all are hardy to severe weather, and even though frost does spoil a few, the plants (or bulbs) will produce their usual succession during mild spells.

Mirage Crashes

POLICE, RUSTLERS DIE IN GUNFIGHT

ACAPULCO (UPI) — Eleven people died Monday in a shootout between police and rustlers in Mexico's "lawless territory," where the gun law of the old west still prevails.

The dead included Juan Cano Iniguez, head of the rustling gang, three of his men five policemen and two small children hit by stray bullets in the gun duel.

Six other people were wounded and in serious condition.

Authorities said the shootout began when a police patrol surrounded the rustlers in the village of Tunas, about 20 miles from Acapulco, and the bandits refused to surrender.

The gun battle lasted more than two hours The dead children and six wounded were villagers hit by accident in the crossfire from pistols, rifles and tommyguns.

Old-style bandidos are rare in Mexico these days, but the dense jungles and mountains in the state of Guerrero, outside the plush jet-set resort of Acapulco, have long been a bandit stronghold.

Police and troops venture into the area only in large, heavily-armed groups.

BURUNDI PROCLAIMS REPUBLIC

Africans Topple Teen-Age King

BUJUMBURA, Burundi (CP) A military coup late Monday night overthrew teen - age Mwame (king) Ntare V of Burundi and a republic was proclaimed in this tiny central African constitutional monarchy.

Prime Minister Michael Micombero, in a radio broadcast, declared himself president of the new republic and said the government was dissolved.

Radio Bujumbura said the coup took place calmly but travel to the interior was banned and airports closed.

The 19-year-old king, who took power after deposing his father in a bloodless coup in July, was in The Congo attending celebrations marking the first anniversary of President Joseph Mobutu's government. He had been scheduled to return here today.

Burundi was formerly part of the Ruanda-Burundi territory administered by Belgium until it was divided into sepparate independent states in 1962. It was part of the German East African empire from 1890 until the German defeat in the First World War.

TORN BY CONFLICT

Burundi and Ruanda have been torn for years by conflict between the rival Watutsi and Bahutu tribes. For some time the influence of Watutsi extremists with close contacts with the Chinese Communists has been growing in Burundi.

Located on the east central border of The Congo, Burundi has an area of 10,744 square miles and a population of about 3,000,000. Ruanda is 581 square miles smaller and has about the same number of people.

Micombero, a former police captain, who was also defence minister, took the prime minister's office in July after helping the young crown prince depose his 55-year-old father, Mwame Mwambutsa IV.

The old king, who had reigned since 1915 when he was three years old, warned his son then that he was being used by unscrupulous politicians who would in turn depose him.

In his broadcast, Micombero said provincial governors were replaced by army officers and that he would preside over a provisional national revolutionary committee of army officers until a new government was formed.

Micombero said Ntare was incapable of ridding himself of the traditions of the old regime and followed the same policies as his father.

"The monarchy is the cause of all our misfortunes. . . . I declare King Ntare V deposed," he announced.

Antarctic Climb

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eleven United States mountaineers will attempt next month the first ascent of Vinson Massif, at 16,860 feet the highest peak in Antarctica, the only continent whose loftiest mountains remain unconquered.

LONG WAIT FOR THAT FIRST GIRL

NEW YORK (AP)—Nicholas Humphrey Pitofsky Monday became the 49th consecutive male born to the Pitofsky family in 135 years, leaving a $5,000 bond still unclaimed.

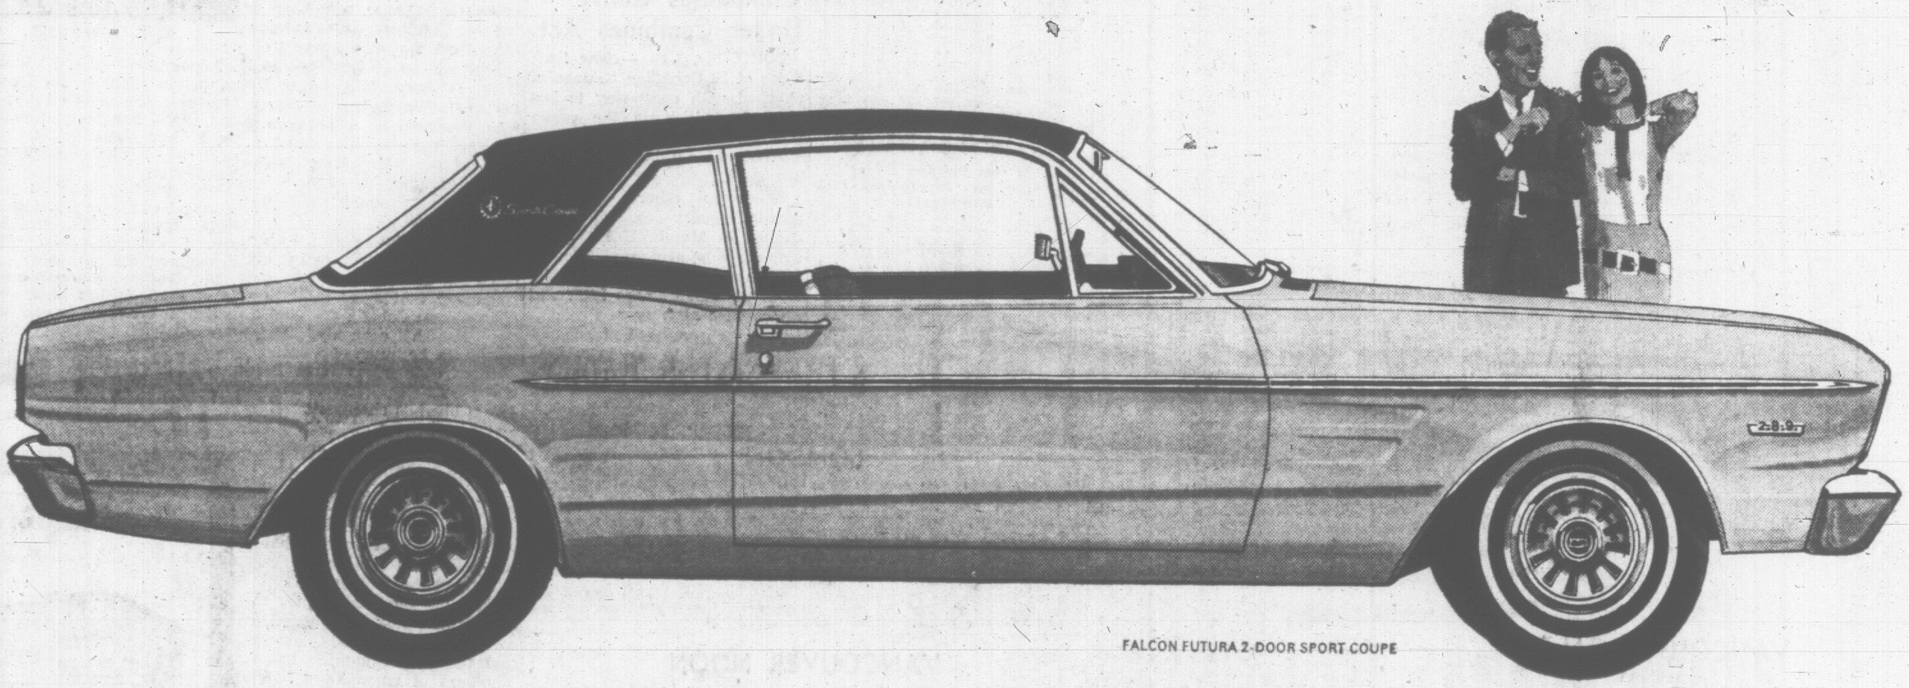
Louis Pitofsky, 73, grandfather of six-pound, four-ounce Nicholas, has held the United States savings bond for years, waiting to give it to his first granddaughter.

Pitofsky has three sons and 10 grandsons but a girl has not been born into the Pitofsky family in six generations.

Pitofsky was an only son. His father was one of two sons, his grandfather one of five sons and his great-grandfather an only son.

Ford has a better idea

Isn't it nice that some things get better and better: (Like Falcon's luxury and performance) And some things never change: (Like Falcon's low upkeep and big savings)



FALCON FUTURA 2-DOOR SPORT COUPE

Make a change for the better...

Falcon '67

The nicest thing about buying a Falcon is that you get a lot of car for your money. Sure, Falcon is a compact — but it rides more smoothly, runs more quietly than any compact has a right to: that's why it's called "the limousine of the compacts!".

And if living it up and saving a little at the same time appeals to you, then Falcon is your kind of car. Did you realize that on Falcon you can get just about every luxury option the biggest cars offer? And generally pay less!

Falcon offers you bucket seats, headrests, full carpeting, all-vinyl interiors, a Stereo-Tape System, vinyl roof, power steering, power drum brakes, power front disc brakes . . . and all the rest. For big power, order one of Falcon's two 289 cu. in. V-8's. Performance is sparkling and economical!

And to put this sparkling, economical power into action, choose a 3- or 4-speed manual or 3-speed SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission that lets you shift manually (a feature many big cars can't even offer).

It's a fast-moving, luxury-loving life with Falcon. Go talk to your Ford or Mercury Dealer about a new Falcon. He'll show you how to get a lot of car for your money.

Companies Guilty Under Combines Act

TORONTO (CP) — The final three of 20 Canadian companies charged with conspiring to lessen competition in the paper box industry have been convicted, they were notified last week.

Seventeen other companies pleaded guilty to the same charge in March, 1965. The 20 firms will be sentenced Dec. 16.

Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., Canadian Boxes Ltd., and Sherbrooke Paper Products Ltd. were convicted of conspiring from 1947 to 1954 to prevent or lessen competition in the manufacture and sale of paper products and cardboard boxes.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Dealings in soybeans and grain futures on the Chicago board of trade were largely mixed today. Nearby contracts were most active.

Soybeans moved higher mostly because of an increased demand by export houses and because of low stocks in Chicago.

Wheat was lower due to profit-taking and December contract liquidation.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Good volume of trading in oilseeds and aggressive demand accredited to export interest featured action on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Hedging sales made an appearance but were well absorbed by the overseas demand shown in the trading.

Trade reports said 1,500 tons of flax had been sold to France and 1,500 tons to Japan while United Kingdom had purchased a partial lot of flaxseed.

Evidence of good buying for overseas interests appeared in rapeseed but the nature of the purchases was not disclosed.

Oats and barley trading was light.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mines, Industrials Off

Most issues declined on the Vancouver stock exchange in moderately active trading shortly before noon today.

Declines were heavy on both the industrial and mining boards while oils remained steady.

In mining, Adera reached a new low, falling .01 to .28, Benson also hit a new low, slipping .03 to .15. Other new lows were recorded by Earlcrest, off .01 to .11 and Fidelity, down .05 to .68. Western Mines was off .15 to $4.25 and West Coast, the volume leader, fell .06 to .78 on 60,050 shares.

B.C. Sugar reached a new low on the industrial side, slipping .62 to $33. Others hitting new lows were Cominco, off .12 to $31.12 and Mackay-Cormack, down .10 to $3.35. Trans-Canada Pipe was off $1 to $24.

Royal America led the oils gaining .05 to $1.70, while Peace River Pete fell .02 to .20.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 367,983 shares.

By 3 p.m. only 1,734,000 had changed hands and brokers attributed this to tight money and uncertainity about immediate prospects for key industries such as automobiles and steel.

Standard Paving was down 1⅜ to a low of 8, Jefferson Lake 1 to 24⅛ while Falconbridge added ¾ at 87½ and Alcan ½ at 28½.

Western Oils were fractionally higher with Dome Petroleum up ½ to 28¾ and Canadian Superior ¼ to 27¼.

The market opened mixed and then started a steady slide. Steels, motors, aircrafts, utilities, chemicals, rails, oils, airlines and drugs were mostly lower.

Tobaccos sank on announcement of a U.S. public health service report linking cigarette smoking to higher death rates from some diseases. American Tobacco and Lorillard dropped about a point.

AT MONTREAL prices continued to drift aimlessly at slightly lower levels today.

There were no prominent advances or declines and trading was moderate.

AT LONDON the market was quiet, with the Rhodesian situation contributing to an atmosphere of uncertainty. Price movements were very small.

In dollar stocks, Wall Street uncertainty was partly offset by a strong dollar premium, and prices were mixed. Canadian stocks were often easier, but Canadian Pacific came off the bottom and International Nickel was supported. Power Corp. of Canada softened after a dividend payment.

Bank of Montreal and Toronto and Dominion were unchanged after opening lower. Other Canadian banks improved.

Further Drop In Exports To U.K. Seen

LONDON (CP) — Canada's exports to Britain are likely to decline in 1967 despite removal of the extra British tax imposed two years ago.

Experts have concluded an analysis of British trends and say the Labor government's economic squeeze will have a greater impact on Canadian sales than the import tax.

First set at 15 per cent and later, in April, 1965, cut to 10 per cent, the import surcharge was imposed as a temporary emergency measure in October, 1964, as the Wilson administration attempted to counter an international attack on the British pound.

Canadian authoriies were concerned that this extra tax could hit Canada's exports but concluded that since most purchases from Canada are vital to the British economy, there would not be much of a cut.

Their conclusions have been borne out by events. During 1965, Canada's shipments fell by about 2 per cent and in 1966 are estimated to fall by another 2 per cent.

This extra tax, which infuriated Britain's European trading partners, will be removed Wednesday amid predictions that a huge backlog of imports now will flood the British market.

But in the meantime the British economy has sagged as a result of the credit squeeze and the wage-and-price freeze. Numbers of unemployed, while still relatively small in Canadian terms, are increasing.

One expert said the trend, if sustained, would suggest that Canada's exports to Britain in 1967 may decline by about 5 per cent.

Weldwood Sales Show Increase

VANCOUVER (CP) — Weldwood of Canada Ltd. has reported that sales were up substantially for the four-month period ending Aug. 31, but that net income was only moderately higher.

Company president John Bene said the company plans to issue a semi-annual statement this year. It does not report quarterly.

Weldwood, a B.C. producer of plywood and other building materials, is owned 74 percent by United States Plywood Corp.

For the year ending April 30 Weldwood had a net profit of $3,425,829, equal to $1.12 a share on common and ordinary stock, on sales of $102,026,028.

Toronto-Dominion Profits Increase

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto-Dominion Bank had net profit of $10,892,656 or $3.63 a share in the year ended Oct. 31, compared with $9,914,543 or $3.30 in the similar 1965 period.

Total assets rose to $3,076,614,115 from $2,857,990,581, while deposits climbed to $2,839,503,643 from $2,640,592,647.

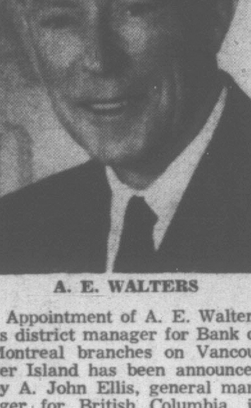
BANK OF MONTREAL APPOINTMENT



A. E. WALTERS

Appointment of A. E. Walters as district manager for Bank of Montreal branches on Vancouver Island has been announced by A. John Ellis, general manager for British Columbia, in Vancouver.

Mr. Walters was formerly manager of the bank's main Victoria branch. He previously served extensively at offices throughout this province.

Mr. Walters, who will operate from headquarters to be established in his area, is one of six new district managers in the Bank of Montreal B.C.'s division.

The appointment of district managers is another step in the program to diversify authority, so as to give greater autonomy at the local level.

KEY TO PROTECTION of Greater Winnipeg from floodwaters of Red River is this massive inlet control structure now nearing completion at St. Norbert, Manitoba. Structure rises 110 feet from bedrock and houses two steel gates that are 112½ feet wide and weigh 320 tons each. In times of flood, operators in the control room, resembling a ship's bridge, will raise the huge steel gates to divide excess water between the river channel and the new Red River floodway, a man-made ditch that loops 30 miles around Greater Winnipeg. The gates can hold back 38 feet of water, but when not required they will be retracted in concrete chambers below the riverbed to permit boats to pass. The control structure will double as a bridge.

BUSINESS VIEWS

New Interest Displayed In Cameron Lake Areas

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Renewed interest in old copper property near Cameron Lake has been shown recently as B.C. mining development continues at a high level.

As in many cases — both in the more accessible and the remote areas of the province — more intense second looks are being given to properties that have had some exploratory work in years gone by.

Some have been producers of ore on a commercially profitable basis, perhaps as high-grade mines whose ore has been relatively easy to mill and refine.

The old Arrowsmith and Outlook claims in Nanaimo mining division were worked over some 39 years ago.

Located toward the lower end of Cameron Lake, they were accessible by foot trail about 1½ miles from Chalet Station and the Alberni highway.

The provincial mines department report for 1927 expressed little enthusiasm for the prospect, which showed mainly calchopyrite or copper mineralization.

But considerable work was done, including surface stripping and tunnels at the 1,575 and 1,490-foot levels, the latter 350 feet long.

Then the area received little attention until recently when a block of new claims was filed in the same general area.

The word is that prospecting on the old claims indicates the presence of mineralization underlying the formerly exposed seams.

Just how important the new find is remains to be seen. But at least today's miners are not so concerned about high-grade ore, rather whether there is sufficient low grade ore to make a sustained operation feasible.

Holders of Canam Copper Co. Ltd. shares may send them in for conversion to Giant Mascot Mines Ltd. on a one-for-eight basis according to plans made in the spring.

Canam is in voluntary liquidation with Canada Permanent Trust Co. the permanent liquidator. Shareholders have been told that assets following payment of debts are 1,084,997 shares of Giant Mascot, working out to one for eight of Canam.

Giant Mascot has numerous B.C. holdings including its Giant Nickel mine in the Yale district, and interest in Giant Explorations properties that include claims in Nahwitti Lake area of northern Vancouver Island; Vangorda Creek, Yukon, and Pine Point, NWT.

Trans-Canada Gas Bid Faces Further Delay

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Federal Power Commission was urged Monday to ask for copies of documents being made public by the Canadian government on discussions with Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

The request, if granted, means a further delay in the commission's decision on how or whether to get a Trans-Canada application back on the rails.

Trans-Canada, with American colleagues, has proposed moving more natural gas from Alberta to Ontario and Quebec via the U.S.

A spokesman for U.S. coal producers asked the commission Monday to restart hearings, which would mean a substantial further delay.

Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha and the staff of the commission asked that the Canadian documents — when made public in Canada — also be filed with the commission here.

Some already are on file.

Northern Natural has a competing proposal before the commission for supplying Ontario and Quebec with American gas while importing the equivalent in Canadian gas for its customers.

Northern Natural also has asked the commission for another 10 days' delay after the further Canadian documents are filed in which to make any reply.

Power Corp. 'In Good Position'

MONTREAL (CP) — W. J. M. Turner Jr., president of Power Corp. of Canada Ltd., said Monday the company is "in a good position to consider further investments."

He told the annual meeting the company's liquid assets now stand at more than $10,000,000. Investments in the recreation and communications areas are proposed for the late 60s and 70s.

The Montreal-based holding and management company now has controlling or substantial interests in public utilities, oil and gaspipe lines, finance companies, real estate, mining, transportation, chemical and pulp and paper companies.

Mr. Turner said Shawinigan Industries Ltd., a wholly-owned investment subsidiary, has issued $3,000,000 worth of 5½ per cent secured income debentures, series A, maturing in one year and $1,000,000 worth of 5½ per cent secured income debentures, series B, maturing in 1968.

"The entrance of this company into the short-term money market effectively allows Power Corp. to widen its borrowing alternatives at attractive rates."

Lawyer Loses Fight Over Tax Deduction

OTTAWA (CP) — An Alberta lawyer who claimed a $62,500 income tax deduction for money he lost backing an oil company's bank loan lost his right to the deduction under a judgment issued by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court, upsetting a ruling by the Exchequer Court of Canada, supported an original decision by the tax appeal board that the deduction sought by George H. Steer of Edmonton should not be allowed.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Judson wrote the unanimous judgment which said the 1957 transaction was a loss of captital resulting outside Mr. Steer's normal business activity.

Mr. Steer had received an interest in Locklsy Petroleums Ltd. in returning for guaranteeing part of the firms's bank loan. When the company couldn't repay, he had to cover $62,500 and later recovered $9,319 from bankruptcy proceedings.

Prince to Launch U.K. Export Drive

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Philip plans to launch a major British export drive to the United States in February, it has been announced. It will be aimed at British companies with export potential which have not broken into the American market.

U.S. REPORTS

Westcoast Prices Labelled Too High

WASHINGTON (CP) — A staff report to the Federal Power Commission recommends rejection of a proposal to import another 200,000,000 cubic feet of Western Canada natural gas daily from Westcoast Transmission Co.

The prices are too high, says the report, filed Monday with the commission examiner who has been hearing the application from El Paso Natural Gas Co.

It says if another contract can't be negotiated at lower prices then El Paso should pipe more U.S. gas from the southwest in the Pacific Northwest market.

It also says, contrary to other contentions in the hearing, that enough gas exists now to meet the needs of firm or round-the-clock consumers.

The staff's position at commission hearings is to conduct an independent appraisal of proposals and these may or may not be accepted. The commission examiner makes a report later to the full commission which it can accept or reject.

GIVEN LOWER RATES

Westcoast Transmission, in a controversial deal some years ago, agreed to supply Alberta gas to El Paso at prices lower than Canadians were paying.

The new contract now before the commission calls for an increase in volume of 250,000,000 cubic feet daily — expanding the total package eventually to some 900,000,000 cubic feet if all options are picked up.

The price starts at 27 cents a 1,000 cubic feet and it rises annually by .235 cents a 1,000 cubic feet.

Westcoast, pressed to say if American customers could expect any price reductions, said the price was a minimum and fair figure with annual escalation to take account of inflation.

BMC RECALLS 2,000 CARS IN CANADA

TORONTO (CP)—A spokesman for British Motor Corp. Canada Ltd. said Monday 2,000 BMC cars are being recalled to check a possible brake defect.

The move follows the weekend recall of 750,000 cars by BMC in England.

The British recall, biggest in U.K. auto history, warned of possible brake defects arising from salt corrosion of an aluminum washer on a brake fluid regulating valve.

The Canadian spokesman said none of the 2,000 models affected in Canada has yet failed due to corrosion.

STEEL FIRMS WILL MERGE

LONDON (Reuters)—Three major British steel companies have announced they will amalgamate to form Britain's biggest steel group and one of the largest in the world.

They are Dorman Long, South Durham and Stewarts and Lloyds, with a combined capital of about £311,000,000 ($933,000,000) and a total ingot output of more than 5,000,000 tons of steel a year.

All are due to be nationalized under government plans to take over the industry.

1,000 CONSECUTIVE GAMES

. . . RECOGNITION COMES WEDNESDAY

Andy Hebenton's Feat May Never Be Equalled

It has never happened before.

It may never happen again.

That's Andy Hebenton's feat of playing 1,000 consecutive league games in professional hockey.

Victorians will mark the occasion Wednesday night when they join the hockey world and various organizations in honoring Hebenton, who missed his last game March 8, 1952, while playing with the former Victoria Cougars.

"Andy Hebenton Night" ceremonies will be held Wednesday between the second and third periods of a Western Hockey League game between Victoria Maple Leafs and Seattle Totems.

One of the highlights of the festivities will be the presentation to Hebenton of $1,000 and a scroll inscribed with the names of persons who have each contributed $1 to join in the "1,000 names for 1,000 games" presentation.

There will be many other awards for the man who has been a Victoria resident since 1951.

Among them are a trip for two to Hawaii, donated by Canadian Pacific Airlines; accommodation in Hawaii, donated by Totem Travel Service; a color television set from Mayfair Merchants; trophies from the Daily Times and the Daily Colonist; golf clubs from the Vancouver Sun; a huge cake prepared by Victoria bakers; a golf club membership, donated by the Esquimalt Summer Hockey School; wardrobes for Andy and his wife, Gail; a gift from the National Hockey League, where Hebenton set a league endurance mark of 630 games; and several other awards.

Hebenton actually played his 1,000th consecutive game at Oakland on Nov. 12, but official recognition was delayed in order that ceremonies could be held in his home town. Actually, Hebenton will be playing his 1,007th game and if you toss in 69 playoff games, which aren't included in official records, the total is an amazing 1,076.

Stepping out on the ice for more than 1,000 games hasn't always been easy. Hebenton has had his share of cuts, bruises and other hockey injuries. He recalls that the closest he came to ending the streak was while with New York Rangers.

"I was hit over an eye by a stick in a Wednesday game in New York and we had to go to Montreal for a Thursday night game. My eyes were swollen but a doctor put some drops in them and they opened enough for me to play."

Andy will tell you "hockey has been good to me" and the men he has played with will tell you that Hebenton has been good for hockey.

One of the finest team players in the game, he has earned as much respect through his team spirit, sportsmanship and checking ability as from his scoring feats.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

No police dog had a late supper on my leg Friday night.

Clever? I'll tell you.

Then I did a bright thing.

I went into the Saskatchewan dressing room, minutes after the Rough Riders had separated the Ottawas from the biggest champagne goblet ever, the Grey Cup.

I had binoculars over my arm, notes under it. I wore my finest Milquetoast expression, a calculated cross between Sunday school teacher and widespread naivette.

I had no sooner entered when a large young man, bare from the waist up embraced me in a giant hug. I don't know the names of the latest dances, but we did them.

"Talk to me, B-A-B-Y!" he bellowed through lips clenched on a cigar four feet long and smoking like the Hotel Vancouver laundry-stack.

I thought of telling him I didn't care for his particular deodorant, perspiration mixed with champagne. But Don Gerhardt's fighting weight is 230 and my blubber runs to 159¼. I wanted to say "stop the world, I want off" but I didn't have the breath. Or the guts.

Lee of an Eagle Only Safe Place

So many cigars you wondered if Castro had a piece of the club.

So much champagne you could have taken a bath in it.

So much bedlam that Grey Cup eve was nothing more than a regular meeting of the Boy Scouts of America.

Shelter had to be found. The best place seemed to be in the lee of Eagle Keys, the Rough Riders' housemother.

Nineteen thousand other people had the same idea. I wound up with my nose crushed against his floating ribs. I still wonder what he looks like, but this is what I heard:

"The curfew? Yeah, I put one on. I gave my guys the first night here. 'Have a few beers, no bed checks and stay out of trouble,' I told 'em." 'But the other nights before the game are mine. Be in bed at 11!'

"Yeah, I heard Ottawa was on the town. That's their business. But we got" — shaking the Grey Cup — "what we came for."

"No, we didn't change much in the second half. We decided we could run more. The guys said they could feel their line backing off a little.

Scribe Sober—Underwear Wasn't

"I told Ron (Lancaster, his quarterback) 'You're doing fine,' I only sent in three, maybe four plays. We used a lot of checkoffs (changing plays at the line of scrimmage). How many? I dunno. Fifty per cent anyway."

Three strides away (it seemed three miles through the traffic) Lancaster sat on a bench, holding a cigarette and court.

"The great thing about this team," he said, "is spirit. I know it sounds corny but we take our wins and losses in stride. We don't like to lose but we know you're not going to win them all. We have no cliques."

Off in the distance, over the din was strong-lungs Gerhardt, chanting, "Talk to me, B-A-B-Y!"

Around the corner Wayne Shaw held sway, a jug of champagne in one hand, the winner's traditional cigar in the other.

Shaw had baptized everybody with the froth and was determined to miss nobody who came near. He didn't. He pulled my topcoat back and down my neck it went.

I'll give you points that I was the only sober soul in the country with drunk underwear.

"What kind of benzedrine did Eagle feed you?"

Gerhardt—Great Conversationalist

"I'll give you one reason. Just one. In the first half when we saw (Jim) Worden run like hell and catch those passes (the first for a Saskatchewan touchdown) we all agreed that we could do a little better.

"Dammit, Worden's 230, man. He's big. Too big to be really fast. He had to bust something in here" — thumping his heart — to get to those throws. That's supreme effort."

"Talk to me, B-A-B-Y!" came Gerhardt's blood-curdling cry.

Eagle Keys walked by. Water dripped from his face, his clothes, his shoes. Tap water.

"My best suit," he said, fondling the cloth.

Smiling, "my best wash-and-wear suit."

I squished through the debris, narrowly missing a charge by four players. They had assistant coach Jim Duncan by the arms and legs. Their intentions were obvious: Duncan had missed his victory bath. He kept yelling, "Fellas! I don't have a change of clothes!" They didn't pay much attention.

Outside the dressing room, I squeezed through a knot of people waiting for their heroes to emerge.

Two boys parted grudgingly. After I was a few steps past them, one said to the other: "Boy, they must be havin' a real party in there. Did you smell that guy!"

I turned to tell them my problem was external, but just then it came through the walls, bouncing off the pillars . . . "Talk to me, B-A-B-Y!"

THE NIGHT ELORDE WAS FLOORED

Elorde Down Like a Flash

Ortiz knocked out the 31-year-old Elorde, world junior lightweight king from the Philippines, in 2:01 of the 14th round of their title fight with a smashing left hook to the chin, ending a one-sided fight.

"I had a little trouble making the weight," said the champ, who weighed a division-limit 135 pounds for Elorde. "I may move up to welterweight for my next fight."

But manager Bill Daly mentioned Sugar Ramos of Mexico City and Carlos Cruz, the contender frm the Dominican Republic, as the possible lightweight opponents for Ortiz before moving into the welterweight division.

SOFTENS HIM UP

Ortiz, in his third title defence of the year, softened up his rival with stinging left jabs to the head and smashing lefts and rights to the boy, and jarring rights to the head.

He buckled Elorde's knees several times and then brought him down finally with a barrage to the head and body followed by the jolting left hook. Elorde was on his back for 30 seconds and it was five minutes more before he could stand. It was the first time in 96 fights of a 16-year pro career that Flash had been floored although he has been stopped three times on cuts. One of them was Ortiz' 14th round TKO win in Manila 2½ years ago.

An all-day rain cut the crowd to 9,120 and the gate to $47,957. With television receipts, Elorde earned about $20,000. Ortiz was guaranteed $55,000.

Ortiz' record is 49-5-1, including 20 knockouts. Elorde's record is 74-20-2.

BONUS LATE—BUT GREAT

LONDON (AP) — Alf Ramsey, manager of the England soccer team, got a bonus of $16,800 today for leading his squad to victory in the World Cup.

The award was made by the council of the English Football Association—five months after England's triumph at London's Wembley Stadium.

Red Wings May Unveil Masked Paul Henderson

PAUL HENDERSON

By WHITEY SAWYER

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings may put a masked marvel on the ice Thursday against Boston.

Masked goalies are no longer uncommon in the National Hockey League, but the hobbling Red Wings may have to skate a leftwinger with a mask.

He's Paul Henderson, the Wings' leading scorer with nine goals. Henderson has missed five games with trachiatis, an ailment which produces coughing spells when the youngster tries to skate in the cold air over ice.

Manager-coach Sid Abel said Henderson is the "most doubtful" of his hobbled players.

"Chances are he will have to play with a surgical mask on his face, if he plays at all."

Fonteyne worked out Monday, handling a stick gingerly. But Abel said he doubted Fonteyne would be able to play before Sunday.

Detroit has lost nine straight games on the road, a club record. The Wings are one game away from tying the club record of seven for consecutive losses at home and away, set in 1926-27 and matched in 1934-35.

STILL GUESSING

Abel, who can dress only 16 men and two goalies starting Thursday instead of the 18 currently allowable, said, "I'll have to judge whether these fellows can play. I can't send a bunch of guys down to the minor leagues and then find out I don't have enough bodies."

Abel has threatened drastic changes in the Red Wings. "If you're not going you might as well change some faces," he said.

Universal Draft Occupies Caucus

NEW YORK (CP) — The National Hockey League's relations committee was meeting representatives of the American and Western Hockey Leagues today to decide on the machinery for the universal draft of North American amateur hockey players.

The problem of amateur reinstatement for professional hockey players also is expected to be discussed.

At a meeting here in October, the NHL governors agreed to modifications of the reinstatement rules and announced the matter would be discussed with the AHL and WHL. This is the first three-league meeting since then.

The amateur - reinstatement matter was brought to a head this year when Carl Brewer, a star defenceman with Toronto Maple Leafs, announced he wished to return to amateur ranks and play with Canada's national team in international competition.

CLEAR WAY

The NHL governors cleared the way for his exit from that league, but he has not yet been given reinstatement. Eddie Shore of the AHL's Springfield Indians is understood to have been one owner standing in the way.

Delegates from the three leagues will review events leading to the new pro - amateur agreement reached verbally by the NHL and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association last August and decide how it is to be implemented.

Under the agreement, all professional sponsorship of amateur teams is ended and the pros are to draft players from the CAHA and the Amateur Hockey Association of the U.S., reimbursing the clubs through the CAHA.

BRUINS CALL BUCHANAN

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins have announced the recall of centre Ron Buchanan from Oklahoma City to replace injured Murray Oliver for Thursday night's National Hockey League game with the Red Wings in Detroit.

ON PRO GOLF TRAIL

Casper Winds Up With Most Gold

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Doug Sanders and R. H. Sikes played in 32 golf tournaments this year, but Billy Casper got the lion's share of the winnings—$145,723.44.

Casper, competing in 25 tourneys, won four and was in the first five 11 times. Arnold Palmer was second in winnings with $129,692.24 and Jack Nicklaus was third with $115,635.50.

Billy Casper, $121,945, $23,778, $145,723; Arnold Palmer, $110,468, $19,224, $129,692; Jack Nicklaus, $111,419, $4,216, $115,635; Doug Sanders, $80,096, $22,075 $102,171; Gay Brewer, $75,688, $7,770, $83,458; Phil Rodgers, $68,360, $7,554, $75,914; Gene Littler, $68,345, $4,635, $72,980; R. H. Sikes, $67,349, $5,647, $72,996; Frank Beard, $66,041 $3-371, $69,412; Al Geiberger, $63,220, $9,749, $72,969.

SKI PATROL HAS DOG, WANTS NAME

Trying to promote greater safety on the slopes, the Canadian Ski Patrol has announced enrollment of a new recruit — a 150-pound St. Bernard dog, whose specific assignment will be to help the patrol reduce the number of ski accidents, much in the way that "Smokey the Bear" is used in fire-prevention campaigns.

No, the friendly canine won't dispense the traditional brandy to skiers in distress. However, a skiwear manufacturer has donated a complete ski ensemble to be awarded to the winner of a "name the dog" contest open to everybody.

Suggestions may be submitted prior to Dec. 16 to "Dub-a-dog", C.S.P.S., 8710 Park Ave., Montreal, P.Q.

Puck Tour Games For Polish Team

EDMONTON (CP) — Schedule of games by Poland's 23-member national hockey team which arrives Friday at Gander, Nfld., has been announced by Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association:

Dec. 2—St. John's; Dec. 5 — Fredericton; Dec. 6—Chicoutimi, Que.; Dec. 8—Sault Ste, Marie, Ont.; Dec. 9—Sudbury; Dec. 11 —Winnipeg; Dec. 13 — Moose Jaw; Dec. 14—Swift Current; Dec. 16—Hanna, Alta.; Dec. 18 —Lloydminster, Sask.; Dec. 20 —New Westminster.

Goateed Curtis Cooks Josselin

DALLAS (AP) — Curtis Cokes, the thin brown panther of the ring, successfully defended his world welterweight crown against short-armed Jean Josselin Monday night, then looked toward a title bout with lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, who wants to move up.

Norm Levinson, promoter for the Dallas All-Sports Association, pointed to a $55,000 gate and 5,800 attendance for the Cokes-Josselin fight and said he wanted very much to stage a Cokes-Ortiz scrap in Dallas.

TAKES BEATING

Josselin, a Frenchman who is always in motion, was praised for his courage and durability but he took a one-sided beating.

Judge Nat Fleischer of New York had Cokes by seven points and Judge Morris Fair of Dallas had Cokes ahead by 10. Referee Dick Cole of Dallas gave it to Cokes by 13 points and The Associated Press saw it by 11 points for Cokes.

But there was nothing resembling a knockdown.

Toronto Stays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President George Sisler of the International League said Monday Toronto Maple Leafs will continue to operate in the league in 1967.

"We approved the league schedule Sunday, and the Maple Leafs are on it," Sisler said, dispelling doubts that the Toronto franchise would continue to exist.

Three City Skate Aces Named to B.C. Team

Richard Madden, 18; Lorraine Hyne, 19; and, Paul Fisher, 16 have been chosen along with five skaters from Vancouver — Bette and John McKilligan, Barbara Wilson, Steve Hutchison and Cathy Moir.

Miss Hyne will compete in senior dance events; Fisher is a men's soloist and is expected to team with a Vancouver skater in a dance event as well.

Irish, State Share Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame and Michigan State were voted co-winners Monday of the MacArthur Bowl, awarded annually by the National Football Foundation to the best United States college football team in the country.

Vince Draddy, chairman of the awards committee, said it was decided unanimously to let the two mid-western powerhouses, who battled to a 10-10 tie at East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 19, share in the honor.

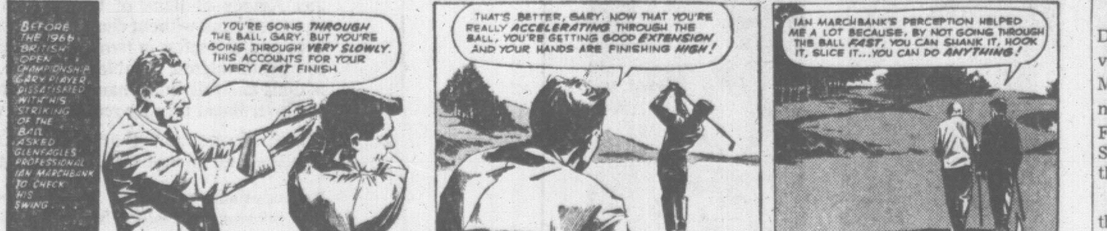
GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS: Accelerate through the ball



BEFORE THE 1966 BRITISH OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP GARY PLAYER, DISSATISFIED WITH HIS STRIKING OF THE BALL ASKED GLENEAGLES PROFESSIONAL IAN MARCHBANK TO CHECK HIS SWING . . .
YOU'RE GOING THROUGH THE BALL, GARY, BUT YOU'RE GOING THROUGH VERY SLOWLY. THIS ACCOUNTS FOR YOUR VERY FLAT FINISH
THAT'S BETTER, GARY. NOW THAT YOU'RE REALLY ACCELERATING THROUGH THE BALL, YOU'RE GETTING GOOD EXTENSION AND YOUR HANDS ARE FINISHING HIGH!
IAN MARCHBANK'S PERCEPTION HELPED ME A LOT BECAUSE, BY NOT GOING THROUGH THE BALL FAST, YOU CAN SHANK IT, HOOK IT, SLICE IT... YOU CAN DO ANYTHING!

What's Extra Three Points In Crazy Game?

By The Associated Press

Washington coach Otto Graham says he wasn't aware his Redskins were in a position to break the National Football League's team scoring record when he called on Charlie Gogolak to boot a field goal against New York Giants Sunday with three seconds remaining in the game.

"I just wanted to give him some practice," said Graham.

"And besides, in a crazy game like this, what's another three points?"

The Resdkins were leading the Giants 69-41 and Gogolak's 29-yard field goal boosted the Redskins to a 72-41 victory, topping the 70 scored by Los Angeles Rams against Baltimore Colts Oct. 22, 1950.

In other games Sunday, Green Bay Packers opened a two-game lead in the Western Conference with only three games to play by beating Minnesota Vikings 28-16 while Los Angeles was stunning Baltimore 23-7. Chicago Bears defeated Atlanta Falcons 23-6 and St. Louis Cardinals defeated Pittburgh Steelers 6-3.

TAKE GIANTS APART

Defensive back Brig Owens scored two touchdowns and set up two others as the Redskins took the Giants apart. Washington's A. D. Whitfield scored three times and Charlie Taylor twice as the two teams combined for another NFL record — 16 touchdowns and 113 points. New York's Gary Wood threw for three touchdowns and ran for a fourth.

Jim Bakken kicked field goals from 26 and 15 yards for the Cardinals, who have won three of their last four games by a total of 13 points. Mike Clark booted one from 47 yards for the Steelers.

Defensive back Herb Adderley was the hero for the Packers, partially blocking a punt to set up one touchdown and then intercepting a Frank Tarkenton pass to choke off a late Minnesota comeback.

SUPER BOWL JANUARY 15

NEW YORK (AP) — The Super Bowl game between the champions of the National Football League and the American Football League probably will be played Sunday, Jan. 15 at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Although the two leagues, meeting separately Monday, did not take any action, there were indications the game would be played in the home stadium of Los Angeles Rams.

Basketball Scores

Olympians Shatter National Relay Mark

Victoria Amateur Swimming Club Olympians cracked a Canadian record and placed in 15 of 22 events Sunday at the University of British Columbia Thunderbird relays at Vancouver.

Pacing the Olympians were members of the boys' 13 and 14 relay squads, which collected three triumphs.

Bruce Mockford, Peter Cruise, Bruce Dennison and Lloyd Minckler splashed to victories in the 200-metres free style event and the 200-metres medley, in which they set a new national age-group record of 2:10.2

Olympians were third out of 15 teams in team competition for the junior titles, won by Cascade Swim Club of Seattle. Victoria Y finished fifth.

Olympians were fifth in the senior division, won by the University of Washington.

Plane Soggy Shambles After Chiefs Get News

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City Chiefs were in a chartered plane at 18,000 feet over Elwood City, Pa., Sunday night when they learned that they were the Western Division champions of the American Football League.

A celebration broke loose, and that plane probably will never be the same again.

The Chiefs had been quietly celebrating their 32-24 victory over the New York Jets. Then came the news that Denver Broncos had beaten San Diego 20-17, clinching the title for the Chiefs, while the stewardesses were serving dinner.

Stram and his assistant coaches moved back through the plane retaliating, soaking Holub and everyone else they encountered.

Finally the celebration died down.

Dead-Eye Kerries Flatten Chinooks

VANCOUVER — A Chinook ran into a Hurricane here Sunday with the expected result.

Victoria Chinooks shooting a respectable 43 per cent, encountered Kerrisdale, shooting a marvellous 72 per cent.

The issue, as they say, was never in doubt.

Kerrisdale prevailed 69-52, climbed into first place in the Intercity Junior Men's Basketball League. Chinooks are mired in seventh place, reeling after six straight losses.

Ross Molberg led the winners with 13 points. Eric Walker with 12 points and Rick Humber with 10 led Chinooks who played without Ross Swanton.

WINTER DERBY FOR CHINOOKS

Something new is being introduced to the Saanich Inlet fishing scene.

The frostbite fishing fiesta for Chinook members is scheduled for Dec. 11, with derby hours from daybreak until noon. Weigh-in stations will be at Hall's, Holders and Anglers-Anchorage boathouses.

Tickets are available at inlet boathouses and all money from the $1 entry fees will be paid out in prizes.

Lengthy Trip To Receive Bike Trophy

Distance didn't stop Jeanette Hawley from being on hand to receive one of the Victoria Cycling Club's major awards for the 1966 season.

Miss Hawley arrived from Portland and Jack Ferguson made the trip from Vancouver last weekend to receive trophies won during the past season. Also receiving major awards among the 26 prizes handed out during the club's annual banquet and prizegiving ceremonies were Bill Wild, Terry Isbister, Ruth Lofting and Herb Stark.

Club president Russ Hay said the club had enjoyed one of its most successful racing seasons in 1966 and expressed confidence in bigger and better races in 1967. One of the highlights of 1966, he said, was the enthusiasm in the club's new colt section, for riders under 15.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Ed MacFayden.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (CP)—Lou Fitzgerald has been named manager of Buffalo Bisons baseball team of the International League.

AWOL Wills Placed On the Trade Mart

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —Los Angeles Dodgers are placing shortstop Maury Wills on the trade mart partly — if not primarily — because he left the club during a tour of Japan.

"I don't know yet whether Wills will be traded," Buzzie Bavasi, the Dodgers' general manager, said Monday night, "but if anybody makes a reasonable offer then, of course, Wills would be one of the first we would trade."

Asked if Wills' failure to remain with the Dodgers during the recently completed exhibition tour of Japan had anything to do with the decision, Bavasi said:

"It's partly due to what Wills did."

What Wills did was leave the Dodgers early in the tour after being refused permission to do so by Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers' president. However, Wills said he needed medical attention for his right knee.

PIRATES GET JUAN

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh Pirates acquired Juan Pizarro in an attempt to solve their primary problem, and Houston Astros have grabbed Bo Belinsky with the hope that he can overcome his.

Pizarro and Belinsky, both 29-year-old left-handed pitchers, were in the spotlight Monday as baseball's annual winter meetings got under way.

Belinsky went to the Astros for $25,000 in the player draft, and several hours later Pizarro became the first player to be involved in a deal at the meetings. The Pirates bought him from Chicago White Sox for an undisclosed amount.

"We watched Pizarro last summer and we think he can help us," said manager Harry Walker, whose Pirates just missed winning the National League pennant because of weak pitching. "He's still young enough to come back. He still can throw."

Pizarro won 19 games for the White Sox in 1964 but has won just 14 in the two seasons since then. His problem has been arm trouble.

The big question about Belinsky is whether his problem has been his pitching in public or his pitching in private.

DISQUALIFIED TWICE

Pitcher of a no-hitter in his first major league season, 1962, the, fun-loving Belinsky was placed on the disqualified list for 1½ months in 1963 after a squabble with California Angels, then suspended and placed on the disqualified list again in 1964 after another hassle.

Belinsky posted an 0-2 record last season with Philadelphia Phillies and a 2-4 mark at San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, where he was hampered by an ankle injury.

Major league teams selected 23 players for $442,000 while 52 players went in the minor league draft of $392,000.

The world champion Baltimore Orioles lost three minor leaguers, two to New York — first baseman-outfielder Frank Tepedino and catcher Chuck Sands.

Turkey Contest Wraps Up Season

D. De Girolamo, S. Naysmith; M. Crawford and N. O'Connell won "A" division prizes Sunday as the ladies' division of Gorge Vale Golf Club completed season's activities with a "turkey shoot."

P. Ott and I. Horne collected prizes in "B" division, and J. Whittingham, L. Robertson, F. Dewar and K. Butt were the "C" division winners.

Chuvalo Stops Smaller Rival

Chuvalo, 214, had a 27-pound advantage and used a solid right to demolish Russell, who took the mandatory eight count twice in the first.

Paid attendance was more than 3,000.

Compensation Sought For Fallout Victims

Island Digest

'Learner' To Start All Over

He has been driving 50 years.

Mr. Crutchley, 71, was fined $20 last week after he pleaded guilty to the charge of driving without a licence . . . for half a century. He was caught by police while driving his wife to work at the hospital here.

If he passes the learner's test, Mr. Crutchley says he will spend a week getting used to driving in city traffic, and getting to know Nanaimo streets.

So far he has driven mostly out of town.

He said he has been driving since the First World War.

NANAIMO — Full compensation for homes and property damaged by pollution or industrial fallout has been demanded by George McKnight, co-chairman of the Alberni Valley citizens' committee on pollution.

A formula, which would allow citizens to receive "just compensation" for damages by filing claims with a government commission at the municipal or regional district level, has been prepared by Mr. Knight.

COLLECT FROM SOURCE

The commission would assess damages and then collect costs from the source of pollution or fallout.

His proposal was made in a brief to municipal affairs department representatives meeting here to receive ideas on possible changes to the Municipal Act.

Mr. Knight said his formula is similar to the theory behind the Workman's Compensation Act, which awards compensation to injured workmen, then assesses a proportionate cost upon industry.

SPUR INDUSTRY

Industry has consequently adopted safety programs and accident prevention measures to cut down hazards, said Mr. McKnight.

His formula for pollution compensation would similarly spur industry to pursue anti-pollution research and adopt anti-pollution measures.

Hunters Found Suffering From Exposure

PORT ALBERNI — Hunters Barry Smith, 26, and Ken Carter, 35, of Cloverdale remained in hospital today suffering from exposure after being rescued in the Great Central Lake area early Monday.

They were found by an Alberni Valley Rescue Squad party after spending the night lost on Thunder Mountain.

MAYOR GROUHEL
. . . "hidden charge?"

Twelve members of the Ladysmith volunteer fire department asked council why they had not received the $100 party money approved in the annual budget.

Confusion reigned when Ald. Jack Keno, chairman of the fire prevention committee, insisted the budget requisition for the department was $1,500.

Ald. John Cochrane, finance committee chairman, said he had no record of a fire department requisition exceeding $1,000.

Mayor Kathleen Grouhel said: "I'm not aware of ever endorsing $100 for a Christmas party but it might be a hidden charge."

"I don't like the council being put in the role of penny pinching bad guys," she said.

Ald. Keno argued there had been a misunderstanding.

Ald. Cochrane said any misunderstanding was on the part of Ald. Keno.

Ald. Keno replied: "It's not proper that I should be made the goat."

On behalf of the visiting firemen, Ken Cross said: "And we don't like being put in the position of coming publicly to ask for money we already thought was voted to us."

Digging through the minutes city clerk James Runciman came up with a recorded vote of the $100 to the fire department and the money will be sent to Chief Harry Blair.

Counsellor Named By Opitsat Tribe

EXPROPRIATION FIGHT

Taxpayers Back Witty Brothers

The board wants the area for a park.

Ratepayers voted 37 to 5 against the board proposal which will be decided at a meeting Wednesday at Saanich municipal hall.

The board offered the owners of the property — Leslie and Stanley Witty — $100,000 for the land. They have turned it down.

Leslie Witty told the ratepayers meeting he didn't want to sell because the property had belonged to his family for 101 years.

"I think expropriation is undemocratic," he said. "I thought the wars we fought were to prevent things like this."

Mr. Witty refused to consider putting into writing his verbal understanding to give the board an option on the property if it is ever sold.

Geoffrey Mitchell, representing the regional board, pointed there is no dwelling on the property.

"There is nothing new in expropriation," he added. "It is necessary. We could never have built railways or hydro power plants without such proceedings."

He said the public is now becoming aware that expropriation of land for park purposes is just as important as acquiring property for industrial development.

ALBERNI, COURTENAY

Acclamation for Two Councils

Alberni and Courtenay city councils were elected by acclamation Monday as nominations closed for Dec. 10 civic elections.

Many trustees on the Island also were named to office without contest and in some areas no candidates appeared for school board posts. They will be filled by appointment.

Most nominations were available for publication in the Times Monday. Those areas too late in reporting have now furnished complete lists of candidates which are published below.

TOO LATE

Other highlights of nomination day included some disappointments. At Nanaimo Lionel Good and F. W. White missed out through errors in timing. At deadline Mr. Good, an aldermanic candidate lacked one nominator and Mr. White, a candidate for trustee thought the deadline was later in the day.

There was interest at Cowichan Bay in the decision of former school board chairman Wilf Peck to decline to be nominated. Mr. Peck has also served as president of B.C. School Trustees' Association.

In Port Hardy 11 candidates are contesting six council seats but the reeve, Clarence Wallader is unopposed.

There are 110 candidates running for 76 positions on the Island.

Funds lent to enable customers to acquire their own homes under the provisions of the National Housing Act, 1954	95,796,589	95,954,247
Loans made to our customers to finance their business operations and for their personal needs	1,542,887,225	1,416,422,453
Lands, buildings and equipment needed to provide our customers with convenient and efficient facilities at our 680 branches	21,883,352	31,685,556
Other assets—mainly customers' commitments to "The Bank" covering foreign and domestic trade transactions	106,390,085	87,392,720
Total funds employed	$3,076,614,115	$2,857,990,581

That in simple terms sets out our position as at October 31, 1966. A measure of our progress is the fact that we moved into the $3 billion bank category, total assets increasing by $219 millions or 8 per cent. Profits after taxes and all charges amounted to $10,892,656, equivalent to $3.63 per share as compared with $3.30 a share in the 1965 fiscal year. This amounts to less than 0.4 per cent of the total funds employed. It was a good year for our customers and our shareholders, to whom we extend our thanks for their continuing confidence. It was a good year, too, because of the devotion and teamwork of our thousands of employees across Canada...good reason for us to feel assured that...

'Anti-Religion' Program Hit By Senators

Special to The Times

OTTAWA — The CBC's new show "Sunday" was blasted Monday in the Senate as a sex orgy.

It was described as a disgusting spectacle and "a complete outrage against every decent-minded Canadian."

Some senators felt it was time for a rein on the CBC — a form of censorship.

And protests are pouring in to Parliament Hill about the weekend's edition of the one-hour-long show — a mixture of religion, drugs, sex and rock-and-roll.

The issue was expected to be raised in Commons today.

"Sunday" was blasted by both Liberal and Conservative members of the Senate.

DISGUSTING

He said the night before "there appeared on television one of the most disgusting spectacles I have ever seen."

Sen. Choquette added:

"This Hour Has Seven Days was mild compared to this program.

"There was lesbianism, homosexuality.

"People were asked, 'Do you have as much thrill with a man as you have with a woman?' 'Do you have as much thrill with a lesbian as you have with a man?'—and all that before the eyes and ears of our children," he stated.

Sen. John Connolly, government leader in the Senate, said he had received a number of calls about homes in which children were sent to bed because of the show or sets were turned off.

He said he could not describe the show as luridly as Sen. Choquette.

ANTI-RELIGION

"It dealt with sensational aspects which were — and I think not for the first time — anti-religious," said Sen. Connolly.

"If they were not anti-religious, they at least offended the sensibilities of a large segment of the population of this country," he added.

There was an organization that tackled obscenity on news stands, he said.

CENSORSHIP

"But, I wonder, with respect to these other forms of communication such as radio and television, whether there should not be consideration given to the question of some sort of censorship," Sen. Connolly stated.

"It must be remembered that these programs we are talking about are not programs which you go out and buy. They are piped into your living room on a Sunday night when small children and teen-aged children are exposed to them," the senator stated.

"This is something that should concern us all, because this program last night was a complete outrage against every decent-minded Canadian," Sen. Connolly said.

Sen. Allister Grosart (Pickering) described the show as outrageous and disgusting.

"It was an affront to every adult and every young person who happened to be watching it," he said.

"If Canadians generally do not care, are not aroused, if they want this to go on, I for one do not protest; but, I do not believe the Canadian people want this kind of thing to be repeated," he stated.

"Sunday" also was attacked in Commons last week by Howard Johnston (Social Credit — Okanagan-Revelstoke) who said it had scraped the bottom of the morality barrel in presenting beatnik poet Allen Ginsberg.

Lynda Bird, Sinatra, Tallulah Add Glitter to Crime Book Ball

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—It was hard to decide who was belle of Truman Capote's much touted masked ball Monday night — Lynda Bird Johnson, Kay Graham or agile Alice Roosevelt Longworth — but there was no doubt that he was the host with the most, the idol of the "in" crowd.

The president's elder daughter danced until 2 a.m. with several partners.

The honored guest, publisher Kay Graham, sat out a few dances, kicking her feet from the bandstand, but not many.

Mrs. Longworth, daughter of the late president Theodore Roosevelt, sat out the dance tunes by Peter Duchin and the Soul Brothers. Nevertheless, she was surrounded until the wee hours by various personalities.

HOT DANCERS

For endurance on the dance floor the prizes went to Lauren Bacall and bearded Jerome Robbins, who danced until they were wet with sweat.

Mia Sinatra danced the fast ones with Roddy McDowell while her husband Frank chatted with Pat Lawford and Eunice Shriver, sisters of the late president John F. Kennedy. The late president's mother, Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, arrived early in the evening while Lee Radziwill, Mrs. John F. Kennedy's sister, was a glittering latecomer in a silver bugle-beaded dress.

Tallulah Bankhead was "darling-ing" everybody. At the next table, a contingent of nine from Garden City, Kan., watched the doings of the beautiful people. They included Alvin Dewey and his wife. He was an investigator for the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, and a principal figure in Capote's book, In Cold Blood.

Capote set the fashion tone by insisting that his female guests wear black or white. Most wore combinations of the two.

Cat masks were favorities. One woman had a large diamond set in the nose of hers.

Bagpipe Rule a Tremendous Blow

By DAVE McINTOSH

The defence department, after considerable deliberation, has refused to class bagpipers as musicians.

One might think the six full-time pipers in the armed forces, who form an even more select group than generals, would still welcome this confirmation of their exclusiveness.

Anything but.

The reason is that the some 900 full-time musicians in the armed forces are each paid at least $20 a month more than bagpipers.

IN LOWEST CATEGORY

In the recent integration of armed forces trades, pipers were placed in the lowest pay category along with clerks, drivers and drill instructors.

The musicians were classified in the next higher pay group.

Even though there are only six full-time pipers—there are many volunteers—the defence department declined to integrate them with the musicians.

The department's reason, officials say, is that musicians in the armed forces know more—or should know more—about music than bagpipers.

Musicians, however, must be able to play at least three instruments. The triangle counts as one instrument.

CBC Show 'Distorted' LSD Service

VANCOUVER (CP) — The minister who organized a psychedelic church service that was televised on the CBC program Sunday, charged Monday that the CBC film was "distorted, dishonest, out of proportion—a mess."

The experimental service—featuring modern music, a go-go girl, readings of T. S. Eliot poetry and unusual lighting—was staged at the University Hill United Church Friday for the CBC and repeated Sunday without the cameras.

Rev. Harold Mackay said the go-go girl featured by the CBC played only a small part in what was intended to be an interpretation of birth, life, death and resurrection, in terms of modern music and "an entirely experimental approach to religion."

He said some members of his congregation were "highly upset" by the service, but others were favorably impressed.

There is a happy land not far away, and to retreat into it, all you need do is turn the knob and twiddle the dials until the picture comes clear. Then, between brief snatches of the scheduled television programs you can marvel at miracles, wallow in capsule dramas, and share such fantasies as not even Walt Disney conjures up.

To illustrate, here's the commercial in which all those handsome, well-groomed young people are dancing, while yonder droops this girl who looks kind of like Cinderella before the fairy godmother took her in hand.

We are permitted to pity her for a moment. Then the fairy godmother appears, disguised as a sympathetic girl friend.

She recommends an application of Tress, the startling new shampoo with the silicone base and the booster shot of Platform Eight.

In the next frame, here's our Cindy, all lathered up. Already, there's a difference. Those collarbone hollows you could drop a duck egg in have vanished, and her teeth are straight and shiny.

When we next see Cindy, she looks like a million bucks! something breath-taking has happened to her clothes, she has learned about eye makeup, and not one but three or maybe four princes are clustered around her. Oh, yes . . . her hair is nicer, too. The message: any girl who yearns to be all-of-a-sudden beautiful like Cindy had better buy a bottle of Tress.

In that fair country, there are no woes that can't be removed by a breath-freshening gargle (they must swallow the stuff, since the victim never spits) or by hopping on a snow-scooter, or changing your brand of cigarettes.

On the outside, where we blunder along and hope for the best while expecting the worst, a father who got long-distance calls from all his relatives on his birthday might wind up ripping the telephone from its moorings. Not in the sunshine-land of the TV commercial, though.

Everyone's happy there, except the chef who makes his own troubles by drinking cafeine-type coffee, and the young wife who hasn't yet been visited by the White Knight or discovered the tiger in the soap-powder box.

Further, those anonymous artists who create the commercials for us have discovered the elixir sought through so many centuries in vain. This is the Fountain of Youth; and its yours by the bucket on any channel your set will bring in.

Beside him is a toothsome wench (Not our Cindy . . . she's still back home with the Tress bottle) of the sort no mother in her right mind would want a son to marry. Her hair flips around in the wind as she urges her consort on up a mountain road to a plateau where other models of the same super-vehicle are assembled.

Their drivers and passengers are young, too; practically everyone is young in the commercials.

That sort of thing could be hard on a car if indulged in too frequently; but what's it matter when all you have to do for a new one is hunt a beach and await a replacement. This may appear after the fashion of Aphrodite arising from the sea-foam — which for reasons unknown to me, doesn't seem to attack its metal. Or the car, diefied, may come rolling in on top of the water.

I wish we had time to discuss sex in commercial-land — "You can get to sleep with me tonight," a husky voice invites from the bed-time beverage blurb — but I want to go-go where the action is-is, and a mermaid with one squeeze of a hair cream tube will do for me what Tress did for Cindy.

HELPING LESS FORTUNATE children overseas is project of young patients at Queen Alexandra Solarium who raised $35 in doll raffle to make health kits for Korean youngsters. Viewing doll, won Monday by a Solarium nurse, are Dale, 7, and Elaine, 10. Youngsters, all members of Red Cross Club at Solarium School, made raffle tickets themselves, sold them to parents, visitors and staff, plan to make up health kits, too.

APPEAL TAKE TRICKLES WITH 3% STILL TO GO

The United Appeal enters its second extra month of campaigning 3 per cent short of its $452,000 target.

To date $438,312 has been received with returns slowing to a trickle.

The residential and provincial and federal civil service campaigns went over the top but a number of divisions are far behind. Corporation employees have given $10,000 less than was hoped and corporation executives are $5,000 short of their quota.

A decision will be made Friday as to whether the campaign will be pushed beyond the weekend.

CAMPAIGN STARTS SLOWLY

Mayoralty Hopefuls Saving Ammunition

Victoria's mayoralty campaign was still moving in low gear today 24 hours after nominations closed.

Ald. Hugh Stephen has opened his campaign headquarters in a vacant service station at Quadra and Blanshard opposite the public library.

Ald. Clyde Savage opens his headquarters Wednesday in the old Pacific Sheet Metal office building next door to Western Creameries on Yates Street.

Frank Hunter was unavailable for comment this morning but it is understood that his campaign headquarters will be located on Quadra Street.

Any campaign issues they might take a stand on during the next two weeks are closely-guarded secrets by the three candidates to date.

The two men available for comment this morning, Aldermen Savage and Stephen, declined to comment on the Sunday sports issue.

Both felt that there were more important things to base an election campaign on and both, cryptically, said they would be getting to the major issues later in the campaign.

Ald. Stephen, in response to a direct question, said if elected he would take a stand against the proposed development at Clover Point.

BREAKWATERS

It has been suggested that two breakwaters be constructed at the point to provide shelter and launching facilities for small boats.

"I'm afraid I can't support the expenditure of such proportions at this particular site," he said. "There are many other areas in which federal, provincial and municipal funds can be spent to better purpose.

NO COMMENT

Ald. Savage declined comment on the same question.

Both men promised that with their campaign headquarters functioning smoothly between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day they would have more to say on the issues they feel vital for the future development of the city.

'Birds of Canada' Details 518 Native Species

First copies of "The Birds of Canada," a new definitive encyclopedia of Canada's 518 native species, were released today.

Copies may be obtained for $12.50 from the Queen's Printer, Ottawa. A French-language edition will be released next spring.

Commissioned by the National Museum in 1959 the work was written by the museum's chief ornithologist, Earl Godfrey, in collaboration with artist-naturalist John Crosby.

Man Fined $75 For Tree Damage

Richard Stewart, 608 Drake, was fined $75 on a charge of damaging an Esquimalt boulevard tree last month.

He was also ordered to make restitution to the municipality.

Stewart, 19, had been remanded to today for sentence. He had earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of wilful damage.

Innocent Plea Entered By Postmaster

William Hughes, in charge of Mount Tolmie sub-post office, 3611 Shelbourne, elected to be tried by magistrate without a jury.

He was remanded to Jan. 10 for trial on a charge of failing to deposit with the Registrar-General public monies. At the same time date will be set for trial on a charge involving an alleged offence against the Financial Administration Act.

12 ALLEGATIONS

This second charge cited 12 specific allegations of "misrepresentation of the total value of denominative money orders and postal scrip on hand and unsold from Nov. 21, 1965, to March 20, 1966."

Details of actual amounts alleged to have been unaccounted for were not available.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Cox said witnesses "from the east" will be called.

Gaglardi's Jet Grounded After Door Flies Open

The mishap occurred Sunday at Vancouver airport but Mr. Gaglardi today said he was not aboard at the time.

The door apparently was not properly closed before the take-off but an investigation has been launched to determine whether something can be done to prevent a recurrence.

Enriched Studies Planned For Bright Students

Greater Victoria school system, which has long had special programs for slow learners, is now devising a major works program for exceptionally bright youngsters.

A. J. Longmore, assistant school superintendent, announced today that the new program likely will start next fall.

He said a preliminary survey shows there are up to 500 students, among the 9,000 in Grades 4 to 7, who would benefit from stepped-up and enriched academic studies.

The major works program, as it is called, may take one of three forms.

Bright students may proceed through the standard curriculum at an accelerated pace. Or they might move at standard speed on an enriched program.

For example, an enriched English program would deal with contemporary works and be broadened to include creative writing and debating. Seminars might be used instead of the standard classroom method of teaching.

The third alternative is to combine a stepped-up program in some subjects with an enriched program in others, depending on the aptitude of the individual student.

APPROVAL EXPECTED

Mr. Longmore said the school board has not yet given formal approval to the major works program but he does not expect any difficulty in getting approval.

The scheme would probably be given a trial run of three years. If it is successful, as expected, it would be gradually phased into the system and developed as it proceeds, depending on the availability of staff and facilities.

Initially, special teachers would be in charge of the major works program. It is hoped that as it develops, other teachers would be oriented to the new approach.

SAME CLASSES

Mr. Longmore said that, at the beginning, major works students would probably stay in their present classes but work on a different basis from their classmates. Major works students in one school might be grouped together for certain periods, for specialized study.

He said these and other details will have to be worked out "as we go along."

The number of students qualifying for the program surprised Mr. Longmore. He said students were evaluated on the basis of scholastic ability.

The 500 selected will now be evaluated further to check that they are emotionally stable enough to handle the major works program. The individual testing will involve evaluation by former teachers and a study of the academic record of the students.

Mr. Longmore expects that at least 300 students will eventually qualify, although it is unlikely that all of them will be included in the major works program at its start.

The new program will not involve students in longer hours of study but in more intensive study "up to the maximum they can absorb."

Mr. Longmore said he hopes the program will "capitalize on the interests of individual students. We must make sure they have a broad base of studies but if they are obviously talented in one area, we won't hold them back."

Mr. Longmore said the bright students are spread throughout the system. He said some were found in every school.

Mr. Longmore said many of these students in the past have been encouraged to undertake more intensive study by their teachers but the major works program is intended to be a district program, rather than dependent on conditions in the local school.

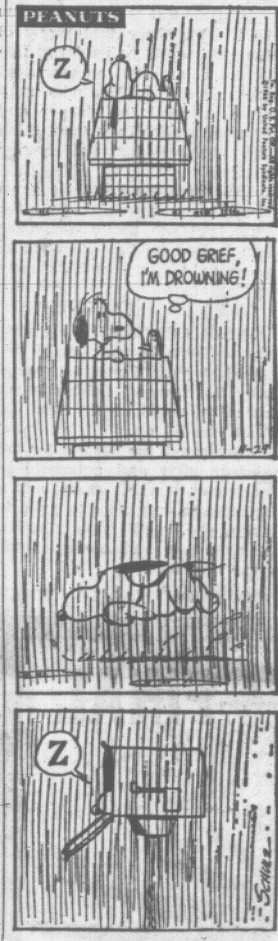
'Bids by Pound' Plague Builders



Boost Predicted On Peace Project

Ultimate cost of the Peace River powerhouse project will be far higher than anticipated, a prominent contractor predicted today.

This consists of asking for bids on components without showing the engineering involved.

Mr. Hume, here for the association's annual meeting, condemned what is becoming a common problem in the construction industry, in which owners are "dumping responsibilities on to contractors and asking them to bid on them."

Incomplete design of projects was the first he named as a cost-raiser, which with other factors can boost cost of actual construction 10-15 per cent.

On the Peace project for example, there is no over-all design for a contractor to work from.

In what might be a $10 million powerhouse project, the Hydro Authority has issued a list of probable components and asked contractors in the electrical industry to bid by the pound per item.

NO SPECIFIC IDEA

The contractor has no specific idea of what the completed work will be like because design is liable to take shape as the project progresses.

Mr. Hume said this is the biggest single project of its kind in B.C. and with the system being used is bound to cost more than predicted.

"The tender calling system has got to be tidied up," Mr. Hume said.

"TOTAL INSURANCE"

Inadequate financing and a tendency of owners to call for "total insurance" on projects were other factors adding to the cost of contracts today, he said.

He said both are direct responsibilities of the owner, not the contractor.

Earlier, in reporting for the board of directors to the first annual meeting of the association at Empress Hotel, Mr. Hume said membership must put unity in the construction industry "a rank above rugged individualism."

Labor has learned some personal sacrifice is necessary for the general good of organized labor, the president said.

"Management can't have the benefits of united action and reserve the right to act independently as well," he said.

Closer co-operation between the ACA and other contractors—independents and organizations—will be sought in the framing of collective agreements, he said.

Candidate Fined $10 For Over-Charging

A city pawnbroker and aldermanic candidate pleaded guilty today to charging higher rates in his business than prescribed by law.

W. A. "Bill" Scott, known locally as the "Lighthouse Philosopher," was fined $10 for an offence against the Pawnbroker's Act.

City police constable Samuel Sewell told court he took a camera valued at $100 to Broad and Johnson Trading Centre, 617 Johnson, and pawned it for $20 on Sept. 16.

He said he was told by a clerk he would be required to pay a $4 service charge on redeeming his camera.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said that by a 1952 amendment to the Pawnbroker's Act Mr. Scott could charge only 65 cents.

Called to the stand by his counsel Rodney Taylor, Mr. Scott said in the 15 years he had been a pawnbroker he had never abided by the Act's rate schedule. He added that a canvass of other city pawnbrokers revealed neither had any of them.

'STOOL PIGEON'

"It bothers me," said Mr. Scott, "that they (senior police officers) call in a routine policeman as a stool pigeon when I'm running for election."

He said he had been "morally right" for his 15 years of business.

"If I was wrong," he said, "then police officers have been accessories to the fact," adding that he had asked city solicitors for advice on the Act's rate schedule.

Mr. Taylor, in submission to Magistrate William Ostler, called the Act's rate schedule "hopelessly out of date."

Woman Ignored Police Advice, Pays $350 Fine

Mrs. Joan Jacobs, 1140 Faithful, told Magistrate William Ostler she "thought I could have made it home."

"Everybody who's impaired thinks he can make it home," said the magistrate. "What if you had killed someone."

Court was told she had been told not to drive when checked at a service station at Fairfield and Cook at 9 p.m. She was picked up while driving 10 minutes later and subsequently charged.

Mrs. Jacobs, who pleaded guilty, also had her licence suspended.

Ask The Times

Q. Is Dec. 27th a general holiday or a holiday for civil servants only? J.M.

A. A Provincial Municipal Affairs officer says the 27th has been declared a public holiday and will be so observed by provincial civil servants, if not all. He says Victoria area stores, however, are not obliged to close.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problmes. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

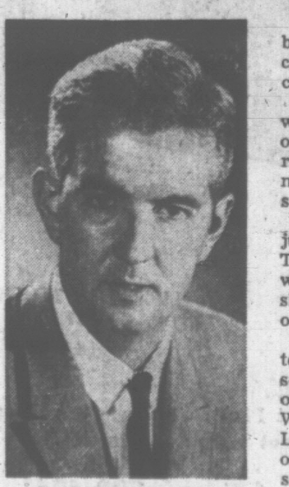
Woodward Horse 'King of the Cutters'



C. N. WOODWARD

No wonder the whinny is wild when this year two B.C.-owned Quarterhorses, one ridden by a Vancouver Island man, took both first and second places.

The championships have just been run-off at Munster, Texas, where the elite of western working horses showed in one of the richest of riding games.

Crowned "King of the Cutters" was Stardust Desire and second was Holey's Fire, both owned by C. N. "Chunky" Woodward of the Douglas Lake Cattle Company (head of Woodward Stores Ltd. and son of Mrs. W. C. Woodward of Woodwyn Farm, Saanichton).

Stardust Desire, an eight-year-old mare ridden by a Texan for Mr. Woodward, won $17,000 in prize money during the past year. This was the top money for points collected during accredited cutting horse events in Canada and the U.S. during the 1966 season.

Mr. Woodward's second-place winner, Holey's Fire, a five-year-old mare, was ridden by Dave Batty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Batty of Duncan, who has been working for the Douglas Lake Cattle Co. the past five years.

HEAD TRAINER

Dave, who is 23, and head trainer at the quarter-million-acre Douglas Lake Ranch in the Nicola Valley north of Princeton, was a keen competitor in comparative small-time Vancouver Island horse shows during his 'teens. But he had not done any serious cutting horse work until he went to work at the ranch at the age of 18.

He and Mr. Woodward both competed in cutting horse events at this year's Saanichton Fair, and Holey's Fire, with Dave in the saddle, won the Victoria Daily Times Perpetual Challenge Trophy for top points.

Mr. Woodward sees great things ahead for Batty, who had shown Holey's Fire only a few times in the U.S. this year.

"We're especially proud of them (horse and rider)," he told the Times.

NO BAD MOVES

"Not long ago the mare won a big competition at the Cow Palace in San Francisco, and she didn't make one bad move in this last show."

The essence of a cutting horse's skill is its ability to move into a herd of steers without disturbing them, and "cut" out one animal from the rest.

The horse then must dart and dodge to keep the steer from returning to the herd, without ever touching it. The rider does not rein the horse, but sits tight, leaving the horse to show its natural talents and training at holding a steer away from its instincts to return to the herd.

Batty, who returns periodically to the Island to visit his parents, was at Duncan recently before going to the world championships in Texas.

DAVE BATTY

The forthcoming marriage has been announced of Alannah Carre, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Lines, 440 Simcoe Street, and Mr. Joseph Leonce Henri Roy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonce R. Roy, of Cadillac, Sask. The wedding will take place on Saturday, December 17, at 7 p.m., in the Metropolitan United Church. Rev. A. E. King will officiate. (Chevrons Studio.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Borrowing Bookworm-Lend Ear to a Story

By PENNY SAVER

We have a very select "lending library" system in our neighborhood. It all started during mid-morning coffee breaks, I'm sure. For example, you drop over to your neighbor's house, claiming that you're reading the most fabulous book that you've ever found. Naturally, you offer to lend it to your neighbor, who is almost equally as enthused about reading your book as she is about the fabulous book that she is enjoying. You simply must borrow it just as soon as she is finished!

I don't know if you are like me when it comes to borrowing books, but if I have two or three that have been around the house for a while, I can never remember whose book it is until the owner asks me how I am enjoying it. I imagine that people to whom I lend books go through the same thing. I found the ideal solution to this problem, and that is a box of book plates. These you simply paste inside the cover and the book is never lost.

Selling for $1.25 for a box of 50 plates, these come in a wide variety of motifs. There are colorful cards for children's books, and engravings for your own personal library.

I'm forever on the lookout for more books to add to our bookshelves. I found a few books of unusual poetry that I'd love in my library. If you have any poetry-lovers on your list, keep these in mind.

They're small books of haikus. A haiku is a unique type of poem that the Japanese have been perfecting for centuries. The most common haiku to me is one consisting of three lines. Each haiku is composed of only 17 syllables, so the first line contains five syllables; the second, seven, and the third, five.

Some haikus were written as games, where one player would think of the first line, and so on. These were usually four-line haikus.

One of the books in this shop contains an introduction to the haiku as well as the poems themselves, based on various themes. Each haiku is illustrated with a small Japanese stamp design. Another contains poems on the four seasons, with larger, colorful prints on each page. Prices are $1.50 and $1.25 respectively.

Don't forget Penny's number is 382-3131. Give her a call if you want to know where she shopped.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Not Much of a Man

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: John and I have been married for two years and he still hasn't told his parents that I have a four-year-old son, Ricky, by a previous marriage. John told them I was a divorcee (he was also divorced), but because his parents lived out of state my son was never mentioned.

John's parents are coming to visit us over the holidays so John wants me to send Ricky somewhere — just "hide" him because he's not ready to tell his parents about him yet. Abby, when we were first married, John asked me not to let on that I had a child, so I had to listen to other mothers talk about their children, and show pictures, while I kept quiet.

Well, I think I've kept quiet long enough. I love John, but I can't take much more of this. What should I do?

SECRET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell John that when his parents come, either Ricky will be very much in evidence and introduced as your son, or he will be well-hidden — out of sight, permanently. And wherever Ricky is, you will be right beside him. Let John decide.

DEAR ABBY: My baby chose to arrive on the night that a friend of mine was giving a baby shower in my honor. Because of this I wasn't at the shower and I don't even know who attended it. My problem is that the hostess never turned over any of the gifts to me.

My little girl is a year old now so it isn't likely that many of the gifts would be useful at this time. I am so embarrassed when I see friends who may have attended the shower and brought a gift. They must think I'm terrible for not having thanked them.

I've given the hostess several broad hints about giving me the gifts, but she never has. How can I clear up this complicated mess without embarrassing anybody?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Unless you've been in poor health for the last year I see no reason why this "mess" (which is not at all "complicated") has not been cleared up.

Simply ask the hostess for the shower gifts and acknowledge each one. If she refuses, ask a friend who was there to write to each one, with your thanks, explanations and apologies for your tardiness.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TIRED OF ARGUING": Many 15-year-old girls prefer continuing with their pediatricians. But if your daughter positively HATES hers, and becomes upset when you force her to go to him, let her go to another doctor.

PLAN FESTIVE BAZAAR

All manner of Christmas treats — plum pudding, cake and mincemeat — will star at the home baking stall, Saturday, when the Women's Guild of St. David's Church-by-the-Sea holds its annual Christmas bazaar and tea in the church hall.

Other holiday items will be featured too. A variety of hand-painted calendars and other articles by artist Isabel Hobbs will be featured at the gift stall. Other booths will include needlework, superfluities, children's articles, parcels of mystery, and a candy stall will be managed by the church's Women's Auxiliary.

Mrs. L. Wallwork will open the affair at 2 p.m. and proceeds will be used for the building fund.

Norwegian Tenor Will Sing Here

Rikard Floer, lyric tenor of Oslo and New York, will be in Victoria on Sunday, Dec. 4, to appear at a concert in the McPherson Playhouse at 2:30 p.m. He will be accompanied by Bryan Gooch, the well-known conductor and pianist.

In honor of the Norwegian artist, the cooking class members of the Sons of Norway will don national costumes and serve an unusual assortment of refreshments after the concert. Guests will be treated to delicious koffe and spritz, fryste kake, fattigmand, pepperkaker and Norwegian sponge cakes.

Many people from out-of-town plan to attend the concert. They include Mrs. K. C. Eaton, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Odell, Port Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Kirk of Courtenay; Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Zafran of Ladysmith; Mrs. H. Kawark, Cowichan Station; Mr. and Mrs. Ardil Wickheim, Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Linnes, all of Sooke; Mrs. W. A. Feather and Miss Gladys Hunter, both of Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Luth of Fulford Harbour; Cmdr. N. S. Gooch and Mrs. Gooch of Vancouver.

MOD MISTRESS MAKES MOVE

NORTHAMPTON, England (CP)—The principal of a girls' school struck a blow for fashion when she replaced the wide-brimmed felt hats of the school uniform with Beatle caps from Carnaby Street.

AT SORORITY CEREMONY

In an impressive candlelight ceremony, Wednesday evening, three candidates were inducted into the exemplar degree of Beta Sigma Phi when the sorority held its annual Exemplar banquet in the Victoria Golf Club.

Receiving the degrees were Mrs. R. H. Lott, Mrs. R. S. Martin and Miss Helen Wright. Xi Nu Chapter assisted Mrs. J. H. Downard who conducted the ritual. Mrs. W. Gemmell of Xi Xi Chapter gave the welcoming address to the new Exemplar members.

President of the sorority city council, Mrs. A. Mercer was chairman for the evening and introduced the head table guests at the banquet which followed. They were Mrs. T. H. Johns Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Mrs. J. R. Kingham, Mrs. E. V. Finland, Mrs. W. R. Clarke and Glenn W. Oliphant, the guest speaker.

In his address on interior decorating, Mr. Oliphant emphasized the importance of color, texture and design in good home decor. He was thanked by Mrs. J. C. Murray.

It all started when I decided to sail on the Ilya Crespsinkin. It was a wild idea! Wilder still, I invested in a whole wardrobe of Little Nothings before I left. (You know, that funny, crinkly little stocking made of Cantrece by Cameo). Plainstitch. Mesh. Nude heel. The idea was to knock my fellow passengers on their ear, at least. And sensation! First night out, the captain invited me to sit at his table. Said he'd never seen such beautiful legs. (Little Nothing fits like wow). Turned out he was a bachelor. P.S. The rest of the trip was clear sailing!
"Honestly, Cameo, where have you been all my life?"

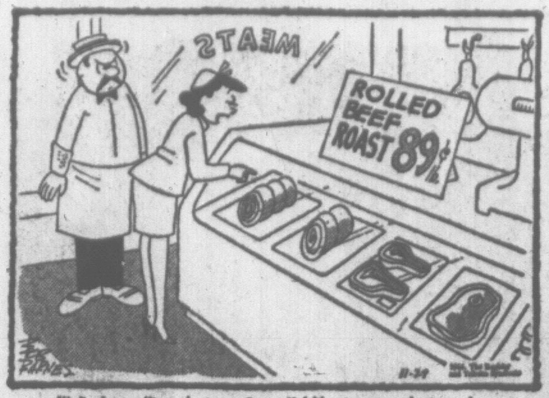
THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes



"Mind unrolling that one? . . . I'd like to see what you've hidden inside it."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

One thing which worries women about reducing, beside skipping all those lovely rich items, is the fact that they often lose where they least want to.

For instance, many women wish to lose inches from their waist, hips and abdomen, but do not want to lose any in their bustline. This problem can be controlled to a certain extent.

Lowman

When we lose weight, we lose all over, in the face, bust, abdomen, and so forth. However, exercises to increase your bust measurement, and those which will speed the loss of inches in your waist, abdomen and hips, help a lot. These should be done regularly every day all during your reducing period.

Isometric exercises are particularly valuable at this time for certain measurements because they build contour so rapidly. So, if you are going to lose weight but cannot afford to lose in your bustline, compensate with a few isometric exercises to increase your bust measurement.

This is a good one. If you have a smooth doorjamb, stand sideways in the door and place one hand on each side of the jamb, fingertips a little higher than your eyebrows. Try to push your hands together, elbows straight. At the time of maximum effort hold the tension for six seconds. Then relax. Do the same thing when your hands are at chest level and then again when they are below waist level.

Do not begin counting until tension is at its height. Remember also to use the professional photographer's count of a thousand and one to equal one second.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PARTY BAKED APPLES

Wash and core one large apple for each serving. Peel the top. Fill centres of apples with mincemeat. Place in baking pan with a small amount of water. Cover and bake at 350 deg. F. for 30 minutes. Remove cover. Pour over a syrup made from 1 cup water and 1 cup sugar. Continue baking without lid for 20 minutes or until apples are tender. Make a meringue using 1 egg white each apple. Pile meringue roughly around and on top of apples. Stick slivers of almonds on top. Bake at 325 degrees F. for about 10 minutes or until meringue begins to brown. Note: To make meringue, beat egg whites until just stiff. Gradually add sugar and keep beating until sugar is dissolved and meringue is very thick.

Russian Ships Warn Viets Of All U.S. Air Attacks

UNLESS he is drafted Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia will not seek to enter politics as national Conservative leader, he said in an interview after a weekend visit to Ontario.

By MARC HUTTEN

PLEI DJERENG, South Viet Nam (AFP) — Soviet trawlers patrolling off the B-52 bomber base on Guam Island in the Pacific give Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops in South Viet Nam advance warning of imminent air raids.

Several officers told me that most of the big Viet Cong and North Vietnamese units get about two hours' warning of coming B-52 strikes.

Capt. Linwood Knight, 27, of Portsmouth, Va., said Soviet trawlers equipped with powerful radio transmitters are permanently on patrol off Guam.

SEND CODE

As the B-52 squadrons take off a code message is picked up both in Hanoi and at Viet Cong headquarters in Tay Ninh province, 60 miles northwest of Saigon, he said.

Col. Robert C. Kingston, commander of the 1st Battalion, 35th Regiment of the U.S. 25th Infantry division, said it probably took about two hours before the messages from the Soviet trawlers reached field headquarters of the various North Vietnamese or Viet Cong regiments.

It takes the B-52s four hours to fly to their targets from Guam.

This warning system would explain why U.S. soldiers rarely find any North Vietnamese dead on the ground hit by a B-52 raid. But as soon as they explore tunnels and fortifications in the strike zone they come across bodies.

Col. Kingston said the strategic bombers had a marked demoralizing effect on the North Vietnamese.

All the prisoners taken said they feared the B-52 raids more than anything else, he said.

Coalition Vetoed

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Danish Premier Jens Otto Krag has dropped plans to form a coalition government and announced his Social Democrats will continue to rule as a minority government.

Krag dropped Foreign Minister Per Haekkerup in a cabinet reshuffle and will asume responsibility for foreign affairs himself.

Judge Dismisses Detective's Appeal

A Victoria private detective made an unsuccessful appeal in County Court Monday against a conviction by Magistrate William Ostler.

In Victoria County Court, Judge Montague Drake dismissed the appeal and upheld the conviction.

Robert Patterson, employed as investigator by Research Service Ltd., 1070 Douglas Street, was convicted under the Private Detectives Act in city police court on Aug. 6, 1965.

His counsel, Dermod Owen-Flood, argued in County Court that the conviction was contrary to the evidence and the weight of the evidence.

He held too, that Magistrate Ostler had failed to give Patterson the benefit of a reasonable doubt.

Rejecting the appeal Judge Drake found that every private detective is required to produce an identification card when asked to do so by a police officer.

He said it was clear that Patterson did not possess such a card until some weeks after he was asked to produce it.

Patterson was said to have been engaged on a matrimonial inquiry at a house on Vimy Street in the early hours of June 19, 1965, when he was approached by city police constable Ronald Holder.

Constable Holder said he went to the house on receiving a complaint from the owner that two men were trespassing on his property. Patterson was standing outside the house when he arrived.

WORKING FOR RCMP

The constable said when he asked Patterson what he was doing, he replied that he was a private detective working for the RCMP.

"When I asked to see his private detectives' identification card, he produced his drivers' licence and said that was the only identification he had."

Beauty Advice

". . . I have never yet seen a finer method of improving the complexion. Wrinkles are smoothed, dryness is checked, blemishes vanish and the skin takes on a healthy sunshine look" . . . (extract from a report by Lila Hamilton suggesting the use of the moist discovery found only in "2nd Debut". It is used as a powder base.) Most drug and department stores are now able to obtain supplies of this discovery that uses moisturizing action to help give sunshine loveliness to the skin. For the information of readers the moisturizing skin discovery referred to is known as CEF 600 in single strength and CEF 1200 double strength. It is found only in "2nd Debut". Special introductory offer to my readers only! You will be mailed postpaid the $1.25 demonstration size of the regular $3.75 value 2nd Debut with CEF 600 if you send only $1.00 to me, Lila Hamilton, Beauty Staff Writer, Dept. V-10, 943 Queen Street East, Toronto 8, Ontario.

"A cheque book with my name in it - what a nice welcome! But it's not the only reason I switched to North West Trust"

It's extremely nice, mind you. What they call a "Personalized" cheque book, printed with my name and complete with a deposit record book. In a very smart wallet, too. But, believe me, I hardly needed any encouragement to switch to North West Trust. Heavens! When I heard they pay 4½% interest on savings - well, that's half as much again as I used to get. And they pay the same interest on current accounts, too - without any charge for cheques. I should have switched to North West Trust long ago!

Opening lead—♣K

If North and South had worked their way to three no-trump the favorable break in clubs would insure that contract but they arrived at four spades.

West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace and queen. South had studied the hand carefully before playing to the first trick and he noted that his only reasonable play would be to try the heart finesse. If this worked he would have 10 easy tricks. If it failed he could deal the next hand.

Then he thought a little further. Maybe he could persuade West to lead a heart for him. When West followed up his king of clubs lead with the ace and then the queen South was ready to encourage a shift to hearts. He discarded the deuce of hearts on the queen of clubs.

West found himself still on lead. He couldn't afford a lead of his last club. That would give South a chance to ruff in dummy and discard from his own hand. A diamond lead from the jack appeared dangerous. South might be holding a king-ten combination.

West should have shifted to a trump. It was very unlikely that this would cost his partner a trump trick but West was mesmerized by that heart discard. He led away from his king of hearts and South had found the way to his tenth trick.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The second in the series of full-length motion pictures produced for television before release to theatres will bear the Rod Serling stamp.

The prolific, six-time Emmy award winner has come through with (you guessed it) a suspense story about an airborne jetliner with a hidden bomb on board triggered to go off on landing.

Stephen

Jack Lord, Edmond O'Brien, Van Johnson, Katherine Crawford, John Saxon and Richard Carlson star in the Universal Studios' production.

It will not have to go far to beat the studio's first ill-starred effort, Fame is the Name of the Game.

"The Doomsday Flight" will see daylight on CTV network, Saturday, Dec. 10.

Speaking of motion pictures, CBS-TV's airing of "Jason and the Argonauts" last week was an example of how perfectly a film of recent vintage can delight the color set viewer. Everything about the film smacked of full-bodied richness even down to the Golden Fleece itself.

The film's producer, Charles Schneer, had almost as much trouble finding the Golden Fleece as Jason did. They searched for months in the United States and Europe before finding a textile firm in Scotland that could make a fleece of gold to be attached to a ram's head. Total cost was $258.45.

The third of the three major networks, CBS-TV, is replacing its new one-hour World War II espionage series, Jericho, in late January with an entry called "Coliseum," a collection of musical and special events such as rodeos, ice shows and circuses.

If the new series bears any resemblance to last summer's circus-variety-comedy series from England, Hippodrome; Don Ameche's one-time International Showtime; and the final shows of the current but cancelled Garry Moore program it will be sheer coincidence since the producer of Coliseum will be Joe Cates whose credits include the above mentioned shows.

Hollywood Palace, which owes so much to the old groaner Bing Crosby, will have Bing singing carols with his wife Kathryn and their three children, ages 5 to 8, on ABC-TV Christmas Eve. It will mark the first time the entire family will appear together on television.

There have been complaints that a comfortable 4-BR house in a supreme private location with lots of trees,
with modern kitchen,
with large living room,
with 2-car garage,
with finished basement,
with nice landscaping,
with little lawn mowing.
In short, with all the things a particular homemaker wants, especially unequalled views, could not be found for as little as $26,950 with 6¼% financing. Well, phone W. FREBOLD, 388-4271. He'll show you one!

LANGFORD

Fifteen houses in this area, presently occupied by tenants, now being offered for sale. These are nearly all three-bedroom houses. Several are only a year or two old. None have basements, but most have Oil-o-Matic heating, plumbing for automatic washers and wiring for electric range and dryer, paved driveways, carports.
Taxes are low! (In most cases only $25-$60 a year to the owner.) Best of all, only $1,000 down and the balance like rent. No mortgages to raise or commissions to pay. All financing arranged for you. Only one payment to make. These are certainly not mansions, but good comfortable family homes, particularly suited to a young family starting out. Most prices range from $10,400-$12,400. Some older houses are even less.
We will be happy to arrange to show you these houses by appointment.
If you wish to drive past them first we will mail you a list showing the addresses and prices. (Please do not disturb the tenants.) Simply call 478-4446 or 478-4116 and leave your name and address. No one will call on you unless requested.

80 Lashes for Imbibing In Famed Desert Kingdom

By ROY ESSOYAN

RIYADH (AP)—If you like the clean, wholesome life, Saudi Arabia is the place for you.

Smoking is frowned on here. Drinking, gambling and movies are prohibited. Sex and violence are scissored out of TV programs. The newspapers play down reports of disasters, crime and traffic accidents. They carry no photos of women.

Saudi Arabia lives, at least officially, according to the Koran, the words of Allah as set down by his prophet Mohammed 1,300 years ago. The Koran is not only Saudi Arabia's Bible but its constitution, criminal law, civil code and code of personal behavior as well.

As a result, in some of the remoter parts of this vast, under-populated country, you can still be jailed if you're caught smoking in the streets.

In some districts of this royal capital you can be hauled off and whipped if you don't turn out for morning prayers at daybreak.

You can get 80 lashes and six months in jail anywhere in the country if you're caught drinking.

Bootleg liquor is available and bootleg movies are shown but the liquor costs $25 a bottle and the movies are screened behind thick curtains in private homes.

Television was introduced only a few months ago, a significant victory over conservative Moslem elements who consider it a sin to reproduce the human image. But TV programs, mostly imported from the West, are strictly censored.

All of this adds up to a healthy if unexciting existence with the accent on the simple pleasures of life.

One of the favorite pastimes for young and old, as the sun begins to set, is to head for the open desert and pull up, miles away, beside the Saudi version of a drive-in, a half-dozen broad, rough-hewn benches scattered around an empty space in the desert.

LISTEN TO RECORDS

There you squat some four feet off the ground, breathe the warm desert air and listen to the latest Beatles recording or a soulful Arab love song on your transistor radio—or the portable record player with which every Saudi automobile seems to be equipped.

Mostly you see men together but husbands take their families out too, their wives heavily veiled if anyone else is in sight.

Saudi women spend most of their time at home. They are nearly always veiled in public. On the rare occasions when they accompany their husbands to a party they spend the evening in a separate room with the other women. They finally sit down to eat only when their men have finished.

Saudis invited to a Western home practically never bring their wives. The hostess not only cannot join the party, she can't even be seen when the guests arrive.

A few of the more Westernized Saudis do bring their wives to some of the smaller, more select parties. But they check the guest list carefully in advance to make sure they know the other Saudis coming and whether they're bringing their wives.

Then, if the coast is clear, you're in for one of Saudi Arabia's rarest treats, the sight of a Saudi wife unveiled, in her latest Paris fashions, maybe even doing the frug.

AFTER BREAKING TOW

Storm-Tossed Ships Back in Home Port

HALIFAX (CP) — Two old cable ships, reluctant to keep an appointment with the scrappers, were back in familiar surroundings today.

The 2,641-ton Lord Kelvin and the 1,228-ton Cyrus Field, with combined service of nearly 100 years in laying, maintaining and repairing undersea communication lines, were shoved unceremoniously into berths Monday, 11 days after they left on what was to be their final voyage.

Their railings and deck gear snarled and twisted by Atlantic storms, the vessels looked as sad as several men on the pier who had sailed aboard the 50-year-old Kelvin and the 42-year-old Field.

The former Western Union ships, both based here for many years, left Nov. 17 under tow by the Panamanian tug Cintra, destined for La Spezia, Italy, to be broken up.

Both broke from the tug when tow lines parted in heavy seas about 300 miles southwest of here. With the help of a U.S. Coast Guard cutter and an RCAF Argus aircraft, the tug retrieved the veterans a few days later.

Capt. George Chinita, 40, skipper of the powerful Panamanian tug, decided to bring his charges back here to obtain heavier tow lines before attempting the Atlantic crossing again.

The tug showed signs of a struggle as well. One of her lifeboats was battered and four of her crew were nursing minor injuries, suffered when a towline was re-secured on the Lord Kelvin Nov. 21.

With heavy seas running, the stern of the tug chafed through a four-inch nylon tow rope—heaviest carried by the Cintra.

Capt. Chinita said the first indication of the trouble came at 12:10 a.m. Nov. 20 when the ships were riding out a storm "I felt the Cintra pulling faster and I knew one of the ships had broken away," he said in an interview. It was the Kelvin.

"The weather was so bad that all we could do was put our nose in the wind and keep the speed slow ahead." The next day the Cyrus Field developed a list to port and wouldn't stay in line behind the tug. Finally the line snapped.

The Argus radioed the Kelvin's exact position the next day and the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Campbell helped retrieve the Field.

IN SAANICH

Contractor Refused Licence

The decision was made at a closed session of council after George P. Hewes of 4520 West Saanich Road was questioned by several members of council.

No reason for the rejection was announced by Saanich.

Mr. Hewes applied for the licence in August. At the council meeting he was questioned about his experience and complaints of his workmanship.

Mr. Hewes said he has been in business in Greater Victoria for 1½ years but didn't have a licence. He did referral business.

Comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said that doesn't matter—a licence is still needed.

Asked about complaints of his firm's workmanship, he said "We have one situation . . . we are ironing it out, in Langford."

Asked if the foundation of one home was out by five inches and the level by 1⅞ inches, Mr. Hewes said "I couldn't say you are exactly right in that."

Asked if the building inspector in View Royal had not ordered him to tear out at least 50 per cent of the framwork he said:

"No."

"Thirty-five per cent?"

"Not of that magnitude."

SHEPPARD
. . . ordered to testify

Grand Jury To Probe Old Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — Five persons, including Samuel H. Sheppard, have been ordered to testify before the Cuyahoga County grand jury Friday in the unsolved murder of Sheppard's first wife, Marilyn, 12 years ago.

County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan, who directed the prosecution in a murder retrial that saw Sheppard acquitted 13 days ago, was asked the purpose of the special grand jury investigation. He said:

"Sheppard has been making statements and his lawyer has been making statements. That is all I will say about it at this time."

Sheppard's lawyer, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, said Monday that he would be in Clevelnd Friday for the grand jury session. He had hinted during the retrial that Marilyn was killed by someone familiar with the Sheppard home.

Last week, he told a city club audience that he had written a 15-page letter to Bay Village Police Chief Fred Drenkham, indicating who killed Marilyn Sheppard and what the motive was. Bailey demanded that the investigation be reopened.

Drenkhan, who received the letter the night before Bailey's appearance, said Bailey's "suppositions and conclusions" were not sufficient to reopen a police investigation of the murder case.

ART CONTEST DEADLINE ON SATURDAY

Novice painters, sculptors and wood carvers have until Saturday to enter the Centennial Art Contest.

The contest is open to public, private and independent school students from grades one to 12.

A total of $1,175 in prize money is being offered by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society to the works judged best by a panel of artists and carvers.

Entries must be submitted to the Centennial Office, 14 Centennial Square by Saturday.

Jail Ends 'Foolish Incident'

An unwanted guest was fined $100 in magistrates' court Monday and sentenced to spend one day in the lock-up for assaulting his unwilling hosts.

Oliver Cottam, 21, of 1007 McCaskill, and two friends barged into the Blanshard Street house of one of his cronies' parents a half-hour after midnight Oct. 23 to demand an explanation for their absence from their son's wedding.

The lady of the house was pushed sprawling to the floor when she launched a mop-swinging attack on the trio.

Defence witnesses could remember no bodily contact.

Cottam had one previous conviction for causing a disturbance and one for theft within the past two years.

Magistrate William Ostler handed down the "token" sentence and dismissed a further charge of common assault arising out of the same incident because "I've heard all I want to hear about this foolish incident."

Expo Sign Language

Since visitors to Expo 67 will be coming from all over the world, the exhibition has made a special effort to avoid written messages.

To surmount the language barrier it created its own sign language.

Without these signs—there are 24 of them—the polyglot crowd might become lost, confused, uncomfortable, even hungry.

. . . RED CHINA

The United States, which led the successful campaign to defeat the motion, was supported in the voting by most of Latin America, many African and Arab countries, a few in Europe, and Japan, as well as its Viet Nam allies — Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and Thailand.

It was the 16th time UN membership for the Peking government has been turned down.

IMPORTANT QUESTION

Today's rebuff to the Chinese Communists came after the assembly had approved a resolution reaffirming that the Chinese question was an important one requiring a two-thirds majority.

The vote was 66 to 48 with seven abstentions.

Canada voted in favor.

Earlier, Albania denounced Canada's one-China, one-Formosa policy as a measure that would preserve U.S. occupation of "the Chinese province of Formosa."

Albanian Ambassador Halim Budo said the United States is the only obstacle to the seating of Peking's representatives.

He said he "surprised and concerned" about the suggestion, made last Wednesday by Canada, that both Communist and Nationalist China sit in the UN as separate states until they themselves settle the problem of Formosa.

Nationalist China's foreign minister, Wei Tao-ming, told the General Assembly the statement that Formosa is under U.S. occupation is "a libel of the most scurrilous kind."

Wei also attacked an Italian motion for a committee study of the question of China's UN representation.

"We regard it as a direct challenge to my government's legal status in the United Nations," he said.

"The very idea of study, for all its alleged objectivity, is obviously designed to pave the way for the eventual admission of Peking."

Martin, in expounding his ideas about the committee proposal, "has been candid enough to say that, as far as the Canadian government is concerned, it means exactly that."

'Use Taxes To Provide Public Transit'

CLEVELAND (CP) — A past president of the Toronto Real Estate Board urged today that urban public transit should be "free and financed by general federal, provincial and municipal tax funds in the same manner as education and roads are financed."

G. Warren Heenan, speaking to a meeting of Cleveland Real Estate Board and Chamber of Commerce, explained: "The Toronto transit system now collects close to 300,000,000 fares per year, or about $60,000,000. We would only have to give up three or four miles of expressway to subsidize this amount.

"Downtown parking lots, valued at up to $200 per square foot, could become building sites and provide additional tax revenue, and there is no telling how many lives would be spared through the reduction of automobile exhausts and traffic accidents.

"Right now a car occupies $30,000 or $40,000 worth of land while its owner is at work. One-third of the whole downtown area is devoted to the automobile."

He expressed conviction that in a major urban area with a population around 2,000,000, "mass rapid transit, as the main base of a balanced transportation system, creates and enhances property values like nothing else on earth."

The "only way" for large cities, he said, is "to provide an inexpensive public transportation service that is frequent, fast and reliable enough to induce citizens to leave their cars at home when they go to work."

Passports Revoked

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine foreign office Monday revoked the passports of 11 university students who were reported to be planning a visit to Communist China. The Philippines has no diplomatic relations with Peking.

The Wonderful World of Animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have been to many dog shows and I have seen an awful lot of dogs — champions, some of them — that were what my veterinarian would call overweight. Either he's wrong or all these breeders and show people are. I expect you to stick up for my vet, but I have to ask: Who's right? C.P.

DEAR C.P.: You're right. The doctor's right. Breeders, many of them, know their dogs are overweight, yet as long as they are showing them they keep their dogs heavy. The judges are usually to blame in this instance. They allow a layer of blubber to obscure some defect and place the plump dog over an equally good but thinner dog who might have a minor defect not hidden by this protective padding.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: A lady down the block has raised birds for years. I want to raise a few budgies but she doesn't give me too much help. I asked her about this hospital cage she has and she said it's very helpful in saving birds but it has to be kept at 135 degrees! That sounds awfully hot to me and I wonder if I should use that much heat on sick birds? —P.W.

DEAR P.W.: No, I can't recommend 135 degrees for much of anything. It's too low for broiling birds, and too high to salvage sick ones. Eighty-five or 90 degrees is a better bet for budgies. In fact, if provided early, this amount of heat may be all that is required to bring about early recovery from many minor ailments. (If not, don't delay too long before consulting a doctor.)

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: We bought a live turkey for Thanksgiving and then didn't have the heart to kill it. Can it be made into a pet?—B.A.

DEAR B.A.: This would appear to be a decision for the bird to make but, unfortunately, an adult turkey taken from a commercially raised flock is likely to be ill-prepared, temperamentally and otherwise, for a life as a pettable member of the family.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: Molly, our dog, has a lump on one breast. A friend who should know says it is a tumor. Does this mean that it is cancer and will kill her? —A.I.

DEAR A.I.: In the human species, almost all breast tumors are malignant. In the canine, less than 50 per cent are cancerous. Obviously your bitch should be examined by a veterinarian as soon as possible. It is unfortunate that many owners delay such an examination because they are afraid of what the doctor may tell them. The condition may not be as menacing as it appears and, in any event, early surgery or other appropriate treatment greatly reduces the risks involved.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: An elephant I was looking at in the zoo had awfully rough skin that looked all cracked. My husband says all elephants look like this. Is this true? —L.S.

DEAR L.S.: While "cracked-up" elephants are common, they don't have to look this way. Unfortunately, though, old smoothies are in the minority. Dry, cracked skin is a common complaint because supplies of soothing skin creams and lotions are seldom available in large enough quantities.

Whale of Question Worth Encyclopedia

He is a member of the Victoria Junior Natural History Society and participates regularly in the group's outings. He is especially fond of studying mammals and birds.

Stephen has many other interests. Taxidermy is one. He is becoming quite adept in this skill. He can skin and mount small mammals. His instructor is Mike Miller of the provincial museum.

A grade eight pupil of Central Junior Secondary School, he belongs to the school's projectionist, science and public speaking clubs.

He likes hiking and track racing. He is also fond of pets. His family has three cats and one hamster.

Andy
HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Stephen Pursell, age 13, of Victoria, B.C., for his question:

Hwo does a whale actually blow?

Whale spouting is a very popular topic. Last month a young pen pal asked the size of a whale's blowhole and the measurements could not be found in any book. So Andy's busy researchers had to find a practicing whale scientist to get this on-the-spot, up-to-the-minute ute cetacean data.

The answer to one good question often leads to another one. Andy's column on the size of a whale's blowhole brought many requests for more details on how these sea-going monsters do their breathing. The whales, as we all know, are the giants of the family Cetacean. They descended from land-dwelling ancestors who took eons to develop their air breathing lungs. Nature never gives up such a hard won improvement and though the whales of today can survive only in deep ocean water they must breathe air.

The modern cetaceans include the giants of the ages, though some are smaller than others. All of them use more or less the same method of breathing, so let's use the giant of giants as an example. He may be called sibbald's rorqual, the blue balleen or the sulphur-bottom whale. In any case he is the biggest animal the earth has ever seen.

He may be 100 feet long and 45 feet around the waist. His head occupies a quarter of his length and he may weigh more than 125 tons. His enormous lungs can stretch to hold enough air to last half an hour. When the giant surfaces, stale air is expelled puff by puff and the lungs are filled to capacity with gulps of fresh air.

Heartbeat Slows Down

When he surfaces, the stale air in his lungs is moist and warm. The valves in his blowholes open and he exhales for about five minutes. Every few seconds he puffs out and plumy white jets spout up more than 20 feet. When a puff of moist, warm air from his lungs strikes the air, it turns to steamy vapor. We breathe out only 15 to 20 per cent of the stale air in our lungs each time we exhale. The whale is more economical. After dozens of puffs, he has exhaled 90 per cent of the stale air in his monstrous lungs. Then he inhales through his blowholes until the cavernous lungs are refilled with fresh air.

The blowhole valves close to shut out the water and he sounds or dives below. As he dives, the whale uses another trick to conserve his air. His heartbeat slows down, reducing circulation and oxygen expenditure in many bulky parts of his body. However, the blood flows freely to supply his head and other vital organs with plenty of oxygen.

The sperm whale is some 40 feet smaller than the blue giant. And his breathing seems to be even more economical. He can sound to a depth of maybe a mile and stay down for more than an hour. When he surfaces, he puffs out an S-shape plume every six seconds. He takes about 10 minutes and about 70 puffs to empty the stale air in his lungs, then he is ready to sound for another hour.

* * *

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Barbara Heuchert, age 10, of Santa Maria, Calif., for her question:

How does water get to the top of a tree?

Several tricks work together to hoist water from the ground to the top of a tall tree. The tree, of course, is made of boxy microscopic cells, many of them filled with a sugary mixture of watery sap. Water flows wherever it can and strings of its tiny molecules tend to play follow the leader. As the air evaporates moisture from the leaves, chains of water molecules tend to be drawn into the vacant cells.

Nature also helps with a quiet trick called osmosis. Osmosis workd when two liquids are separated by a skin or membrane. If one liquid has less dissolved chemicals it will seep through the membrane wall and join the stronger mixture. Ground water is weaker solution of chemicals than the syrupy sap in a tree's cells. It seeps through the membranes around the roots, pushing the rich sap to higher and higher cells in the tree.

Wilson Seeks Details On Smith Concessions

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson told Parliament today he has sent a senior Commonwealth office official to Rhodesia to seek clarification of concessions Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith was reported ready to make.

Wilson said Sir Morrice James flew to Salisbury Monday night. James played a major role in exploratory talks earlier this year with the breakaway white-minority Rhodesian regime to see whether a basis for a negotiated settlement could be found.

Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden, who met Smith in Salisbury Saturday, said on his return here that the Rhodesian premier had made some minor concessions during their talks.

BRITAIN ADAMANT

Wilson said in Parliament today Britain still is sticking to its program of seeking mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia at the United Nations if Smith doesn't move to end his "rebellion" before the end of the year.

The cabinet met earlier today to decide whether to go ahead with plans for mandatory sanctions.

An informant said Smith has promised to answer a number of questions concerning his reported concessions.

While details of these concessions were not disclosed, it is understood they deal with Prime Minister Wilson's six basic principles for terminating the Rhodesian crisis.

Smith apparently expressed readiness to yield some ground on such issues as Negro representation in a proposed Rhodesian senate, the lifting of press censorship, the widening of voting power by some Rhodesian Negroes and an end to the year-old illegal declaration of independence.

The informant said, however, that Smith phrased his concessions in such terms that his proposed return to constitutional rule could be immediately revoked if his other proposals were breached.

Bowden, on his return from

Egyptian Jets Downed by Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Israeli army spokesman said two Egyptian planes of the MiG-19 type were shot down after a short dogfight over Israel territory shortly after noon today.

The spokesman said the dogfight battle developed after an Israeli Piper plane on routine air patrol over southern Israel's Negev Desert was intercepted by two Egyptian MiGs.

Two Israeli Mirages immediately flew to the scene and met the two Egyptian planes over Israel territory at Beerotayim.

In a short battle both MiGs were hit and fell inside Egyptian territory close to the Israel-Egyptian frontier while both Israeli planes returned safely, the spokesman said.

The army spokesman also reported a ground incident. He said shots were fired across the border at a group of Israeli laborers from a Jordanian police station this morning in the eastern Judean hills — the area where an Israeli Army command car was blown up Nov. 12.

An Israeli military unit protecting the worders returned the fire, said the spokesman. No Israeli casualties were reported.

The 1,500-mile-an-hour Lockheed jets are expected to be delivered quickly. King Hussein's request for military aid was received in Washington shortly after the Israeli attack Nov. 13 on a village in Jordan.

Earlier this year a limited number of A-4 jet fighter-bombers were supplied to Jordan, and last year the tiny Arab kingdom received 50 M-48 medium Patton tanks.

Firm's Donations of $300,000 To Political Parties Questioned

OTTAWA (CP) — Questions are being asked in the Commons about a tax case in which a Montreal construction firm admitted giving $300,000 to two political parties "in order to obtain contracts."

A series of written questions have been placed on the Commons order paper by Andrew Brewin, New Democratic MP for Toronto Greenwood and a lawyer.

Mr. Brewin wants to know whether federal contracts have been awarded to H. J. O'Connell Ltd. He seeks details about "solicited contributions made to both political parties," which were mentioned in passing in a tax appeal board judgment issued Nov. 2.

The board judgment summarizes secret tetimony given by J. R. Thibeault, comptroller of H. J. O'Connell Ltd. It says he was recalled by the revenue department's counsel and adds:

"In the appellant's (H. J. O'Connell Ltd.) financial statement of surplus, expenses in the amount of $300,824.90 were deducted under the heading 'promotion' and he was asked to explain the nature thereof.

"He replied that they were incurred for solicited contributions made to both political parties, either provincial or federal, in order to obtain contracts.

"It was further suggested that such contributions were made to conform with custom rather than for immediate benefit."

The judgment, signed by board member Roland St. Onge, covers the taxation years of 1957 to 1960 inclusive.

The O'Connell firm appealed a $2,151,012 corporation income tax levy imposed in 1962 for the 1957-60 taxation years.

The board allowed the appeal in part and referred the matter back to the revenue department for a new tax assessment.

RECEIVED CONTRACTS

At another point in the judgment, the board says H. J. O'Connell Ltd. received road-building, bridge and paving contracts from the Quebec government, airport contracts from Ottawa and sewer and water works contracts from municipalities across Quebec.

The judgment summarizes Mr. Thibeault's testimony about a ski resort his firm operated until 1961 at Ste. Adele, north of Montreal. He said business meetings were held at the club. The judgment adds:

"In order to obtain work from different public bodies, officers of the appellant company had to meet important people, then in a position to make the necessary recommendations for the awarding of contracts, by the officials in charge of specific areas, to reputed contractors having the necessary equipment."

Mr. Brewin submitted a four-part question:

SNOW WHITE AIDS SANTA IN FEATURE

A Walt Disney story featuring Snow White, the Seven Dwarfs, Santa Claus, the Wicked Witch, monkeys and dolphins will run daily between now and Christmas.

5 Million Could Die From Famine

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—One of India's leading commentators said today some experienced observers fear that 5,000,000 persons might die from famine in Bihar and eastern Uttar Pradesh states.

The comentator, Inder Jit, whose weekly column is widely circulated, said the government has a clear picture now of the perilous situation.

"Some experienced observers fear that the situation is already beyond repair and go to the length of saying that even if arrangements are of the very best we may still have some 5,000,000 people dead on our hands," he wrote.

Inder Jit said the figure and assessment were hotly contested adding, "nevertheless, those in high authority at the centre and those who are in the know do not hesitate privately to confide that if the present indifference and confusion continue it will not be surprising if starvation takes a heavy toll running into hundreds of thousands."

'Went Blank' Jury Told

CHICAGO (UPI) — A psychiatrist testified today that Richard Speck "went blank" after loading himself with liquor and narcotics on the day before he is accused of slaughtering eight young nurses.

Dr. Vladimir Urse disclosed Speck's revelations to him after first telling a jury of seven men and five women that he believes the accused mass killer is mentally fit to stand trial.

Convoy Ambushed

SAIGON (CP) — Viet Cong guerrillas today ambushed a convoy of 17 food-laden trucks near Dalat in the central highlands of South Viet Nam, a government spokesman said.

Red China won again. It wanted t' be outside th' UN an' it is.

Canada Abstains On Seating Vote

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN General Assembly today voted by a substantial majority to bar Communist China from membership. It also voted down an Italian proposal for a committee study of Chinese representation.

The Albanian-Cambodian motion to seat Peking's representatives and expel Nationalist China was turned down by 57 votes to 46, with 17 countries, including Canada, abstaining.

The abstention was a departure from Canada's policy in recent years of voting against motions to seat Peking.

The Italian proposal for a committee to study the question of Chinese representation and report to the assembly next year was defeated 62 to 34, with 25 countries abstaining.

Canada voted in favor of the Italian study proposal, which many delegates had believed would lead to a recommendation for seating both the Chinese Communists and the Chiang Kai-shek government based in Formosa.

GASP HEARD

There was an audible gasp in the 121-member assembly when Canada abstained during the roll-call vote on the motion to seat Peking.

A Canadian spokesman said Canada abstained, instead of voting against Peking as in past, because it was "in full accord" with the intention of the Albanian-Cambodian motion to seat Peking. But Canada was unable to vote for the motion, the spokesman told reporters, because the motion also called for the simultaneous expulsion of Nationalist China.

Even so, Canada' shift was obviously regarded as one of the major changes in the voting pattern on the issue of Chinese representation.

The vote on the motion to seat Peking was a setback for Red China's UN supporters, who last year had achieved a 47-to-47 ties, with 20 abstentions.

The United States voted against the Peking bid today. The Soviet Union, France and Britain voted for it, as did India, Pakistan and Indonesia.

ON 'SLOWDOWN'

Owners Sue Dock Union

Waterfront work came to a virtual halt in British Columbia today when employees refused to hire longshoremen.

At the same time, the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association announced it is suing the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union for losses caused by the alleged slowdown.

Union officials were meeting this morning and no comment was available on the latest moves in the 13-day strike of dock foremen.

A management spokesman said the reason for this exception is that the ship is "just finishing off — then that's it."

WITHOUT WORK

About 3,000 longshoremen are without work following the enforced layoff by management unless the union gives an assurance of no more slowdowns.

The union has blamed the slowdown on a lack of competent supervisors filling in for the striking foremen.

The foremen are on strike in an effort to gain bargaining rights. But the companies say foremen are part of management and rule out bargaining recognition.

A statement issued by the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association read:

"Last Wednesday we sent a telegram to Roy Smith, president of the Canadian area (ILWU), protesting the slowdown by members of the ILWU.

"Since then, and for the past several days, we have ordered men for work and repeatedly warned them to cease slowdown tactics and perform in a normal fashion, otherwise they would be discharged.

"In almost all cases they have ignored the warning, act-

Bonner Grabs Cariboo Seat In Tight Race

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Returning officers today began efforts to mop up the ballot counting as Attorney-General Robert Bonner won the Cariboo by a safe but sharply narrowed margin.

BONNER
. . . tall in the saddle

Assistant deputy returning officer Tom Hartford in Williams Lake this morning told the Times that 52 out of the 57 polling divisions have reported but complete results may not be known until the weekend.

The five remaining polls are in snowy and remote sections of the Chilcotin where a weekly mail service is the only communication.

But together they have only 181 registered voters (only 74 cast ballots Sept. 12) so there is no chance they could reverse the standings.

The almost complete figures showed at least 8,498 ballots were cast for a 67 per cent turnout.

It was 61 per cent 2½ months ago.

LATEST COUNT

The latest count showed Mr. Bonner took about 46 per cent of Monday's vote with 3,917 ballots.

Hartley Dent, running for his second time as an NDP candidate, captured slightly more than 40 per cent with 3,411 ballots.

PREMIER HAPPY

Premier Bennett was jubilant as the results came in Monday night although the Socreds dropped 9 per cent in popularity after William Speare, who won his fourth contest in the general election, resigned to open the seat for Mr. Bonner who had been defeated in Vancouver Point-Grey.

The Sept. 12 election results in Cariboo were: Speare 3,830 votes, 54 per cent; Dent 2,530, 35 per cent; and Mackey (Liberal) 719, 10 per cent.

Mr. Bonner, in Quesnel where Mr. Dent conceded defeat at 9:40 p.m., said he expected the Socred margin of votes to be narrowed after a hard-fought campaign which saw:

"This is the first time an NDP smother campaign has been beaten. Their professionals and outside help swarmed in here as thick as bees."

Premier Bennett, in Victoria, also hailed the count as a signal victory over the NDP canvassing organization which used the techniques and some key officials of their successful campaign Sept. 12 to unseat government candidates in Vancouver Burrard and in Burnaby.

Mr. Dent said he hopes to return to the Anglican ministry which he resigned before becoming a candidate in the by-election. He was philosophical about his second defeat but said he would like to stand again as an NDP candidate.

"While Social Credit won, it was not by a great margin," he commented.

"The government knows it will have to work very hard to keep this riding.

PERHAPS BEST

"Perhaps, at this time, this is the best thing for the Cariboo, all things considered."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said the NDP could have won if there had been no other opposition candidates.

SHARE WITH ASIAN CHILDREN FUND

Lucky Toddlers Escape Gutter Life

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Her name is Mrs. Lau Sau Heng. All day she stays at her work, making artificial flowers for export, stopping only to prepare scanty meals for her family.

CASUAL LABOR

Her husband, a coolie, makes about $39 a month from casual labor and any kind of work he can find.

Her monthly income is from $2 to $3.50.

They have 10 children.

Every day, from the fifth floor room the whole family calls home, she sends two of her youngest children off to nursery school.

The school, run by a Chinese agency, is possible through financial support of the Canadian-based Unitarian Service Committee, which exists because of funds like The Times Share with Asian Children Fund.

LOVING CARE

This nursery service, which keeps the children off the street and in clean, ordered surroundings, is considered one of the most important tasks done by relief agencies in the crown colony.

Since youngsters are not allowed into the government-run primary schools until the age of seven, this is a most important period in their lives.

The nursery service, made possible by Canadian generosity, gives Mrs. Heng and other women in her resettlement block, an extra lift to keep trying — and to hope some day for a better life.

Victorians may give her extra encouragement through donations to the USC through The Times Children of Asia Fund, sent care of the newspaper, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas.

Weldwood Sales Show Increase

VANCOUVER (CP) — Weldwood of Canada Ltd. has reported that sales were up substantially for the four-month period ending Aug. 31, but that net income was only moderately higher.

Company president John Bene said the company plans to issue a semi-annual statement this year. It does not report quarterly.

Weldwood, a B.C. producer of plywood and other building materials, is owned 74 percent by United States Plywood Corp.

For the year ending April 30 Weldwood had a net profit of $3,425,829, equal to $1.12 a share on common and ordinary stock, on sales of $102,026,028.

Net Earnings

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce had net earnings of $24,473,739 or $3.51 a share in the year ended Oct. 31, compared with $23,303,858 or $3.34 in the similar 1965 period.

Assets rose to $6,595,000 from $6,208,000,000 and revenue to $322,339,134 from $287,706,839. Commercial and other loans were $3,237,825,205, up 9.7 per cent and accounted for the major part of the growth in assets, the bank said. Total deposits amounted to $6,024,672,474 compared with $5,637,417,563.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Dealings in soybeans and grain futures on the Chicago board of trade were largely mixed today. Nearby contracts were most active.

Soybeans moved higher mostly because of an increased demand by export houses and because of low stocks in Chicago.

Wheat was lower due to profit-taking and December contract liquidation.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Good volume of trading in oilseeds and aggressive demand accredited to export interest featured action on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Hedging sales made an appearance but were well absorbed by the overseas demand shown in the trading.

Trade reports said 1,500 tons of flax had been sold to France and 1,500 tons to Japan while United Kingdom had purchased a partial lot of flaxseed.

Evidence of good buying for overseas interests appeared in rapeseed but the nature of the purchases was not disclosed.

Oats and barley trading was light.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mines, Industrials Off

Most issues declined on the Vancouver stock exchange in moderately active trading shortly before noon today.

Declines were heavy on both the industrial and mining boards while oils remained steady.

In mining, Adera reached a new low, falling .01 to .28, Benson also hit a new low, slipping .03 to .15. Other new lows were recorded by Earlcrest, off .01 to .11 and Fidelity, down .05 to .68. Western Mines was off .15 to $4.25 and West Coast, the volume leader, fell .06 to .78 on 60,050 shares.

B.C. Sugar reached a new low on the industrial side, slipping .62 to $33. Others hitting new lows were Cominco, off .12 to $31.12 and Mackay-Cormack, down .10 to $3.35. Trans-Canada Pipe was off $1 to $24.

Royal America led the oils gaining .05 to $1.70, while Peace River Pete fell .02 to .20.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 367,983 shares.

By 3 p.m. only 1,734,000 had changed hands and brokers attributed this to tight money and uncertainity about immediate prospects for key industries such as automobiles and steel.

Standard Paving was down 1⅜ to a low of 8, Jefferson Lake 1 to 24⅛ while Falconbridge added ¾ at 87½ and Alcan ½ at 28½.

Western Oils were fractionally higher with Dome Petroleum up ½ to 28¾ and Canadian Superior ¼ to 27¼.

The market opened mixed and then started a steady slide. Steels, motors, aircrafts, utilities, chemicals, rails, oils, airlines and drugs were mostly lower.

Tobaccos sank on announcement of a U.S. public health service report linking cigarette smoking to higher death rates from some diseases. American Tobacco and Lorillard dropped about a point.

AT MONTREAL prices continued to drift aimlessly at slightly lower levels today.

There were no prominent advances or declines and trading was moderate.

AT LONDON the market was quiet, with the Rhodesian situation contributing to an atmosphere of uncertainty. Price movements were very small.

In dollar stocks, Wall Street uncertainty was partly offset by a strong dollar premium, and prices were mixed. Canadian stocks were often easier, but Canadian Pacific came off the bottom and International Nickel was supported. Power Corp. of Canada softened after a dividend payment.

Bank of Montreal and Toronto and Dominion were unchanged after opening lower. Other Canadian banks improved.

Further Drop In Exports To U.K. Seen

LONDON (CP) — Canada's exports to Britain are likely to decline in 1967 despite removal of the extra British tax imposed two years ago.

Experts have concluded an analysis of British trends and say the Labor government's economic squeeze will have a greater impact on Canadian sales than the import tax.

First set at 15 per cent and later, in April, 1965, cut to 10 per cent, the import surcharge was imposed as a temporary emergency measure in October, 1964, as the Wilson administration attempted to counter an international attack on the British pound.

Canadian authoriies were concerned that this extra tax could hit Canada's exports but concluded that since most purchases from Canada are vital to the British economy, there would not be much of a cut.

Their conclusions have been borne out by events. During 1965, Canada's shipments fell by about 2 per cent and in 1966 are estimated to fall by another 2 per cent.

This extra tax, which infuriated Britain's European trading partners, will be removed Wednesday amid predictions that a huge backlog of imports now will flood the British market.

But in the meantime the British economy has sagged as a result of the credit squeeze and the wage-and-price freeze. Numbers of unemployed, while still relatively small in Canadian terms, are increasing.

One expert said the trend, if sustained, would suggest that Canada's exports to Britain in 1967 may decline by about 5 per cent.

Toronto-Dominion Profits Increase

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto-Dominion Bank had net profit of $10,892,656 or $3.63 a share in the year ended Oct. 31, compared with $9,914,543 or $3.30 in the similar 1965 period.

Total assets rose to $3,076,614,115 from $2,857,990,581, while deposits climbed to $2,839,503,643 from $2,640,592,647.

Loans were $1,823,629,977 compared with $1,709,334,601.

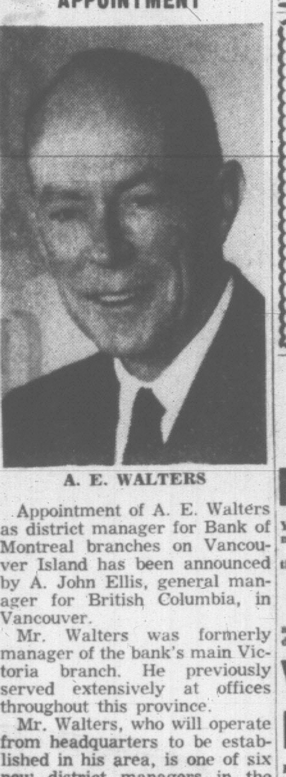
BANK OF MONTREAL APPOINTMENT



A. E. WALTERS

Appointment of A. E. Walters as district manager for Bank of Montreal branches on Vancouver Island has been announced by A. John Ellis, general manager for British Columbia, in Vancouver.

Mr. Walters was formerly manager of the bank's main Victoria branch. He previously served extensively at offices throughout this province.

Mr. Walters, who will operate from headquarters to be established in his area, is one of six new district managers in the Bank of Montreal B.C.'s division.

The appointment of district managers is another step in the program to diversify authority, so as to give greater autonomy at the local level. ***

There is a happy land not far away, and to retreat into it, all you need do is turn the knob and twiddle the dials until the picture comes clear. Then, between brief snatches of the scheduled television programs you can marvel at miracles, wallow in capsule dramas, and share such fantasies as not even Walt Disney conjures up.

To illustrate, here's the commercial in which all those handsome, well-groomed young people are dancing, while yonder droops this girl who looks kind of like Cinderella before the fairy godmother took her in hand.

We are permitted to pity her for a moment. Then the fairy godmother appears, disguised as a sympathetic girl friend.

She recommends an application of Tress, the startling new shampoo with the silicone base and the booster shot of Platform Eight.

In the next frame, here's our Cindy, all lathered up. Already, there's a difference. Those collarbone hollows you could drop a duck egg in have vanished, and her teeth are straight and shiny.

When we next see Cindy, she looks like a million bucks! Something breath-taking has happened to her clothes, she has learned about eye makeup, and not one but three or maybe four princes are clustered around her. Oh, yes . . . her hair is nicer, too. The message: any girl who yearns to be all-of-a-sudden beautiful like Cindy had better buy a bottle of Tress.

* * *

In that fair country, there are no woes that can't be removed by a breath-freshening gargle (they must swallow the stuff, since the victim never spits) or by hopping on a snow-scooter, or changing your brand of cigarettes.

On the outside, where we blunder along and hope for the best while expecting the worst, a father who got long-distance calls from all his relatives on his birthday might wind up ripping the telephone from its moorings. Not in the sunshine-land of the TV commercial, though.

Everyone's happy there, except the chef who makes his own troubles by drinking cafeine-type coffee, and the young wife who hasn't yet been visited by the White Knight or discovered the tiger in the soap-powder box.

Further, those anonymous artists who create the commercials for us have discovered the elixir sought through so many centuries in vain. This is the Fountain of Youth; and its yours by the bucket on any channel your set will bring in.

* * *

Beside him is a toothsome wench (Not our Cindy . . . she's still back home with the Tress bottle) of the sort no mother in her right mind would want a son to marry. Her hair flips around in the wind as she urges her consort on up a mountain road to a plateau where other models of the same super-vehicle are assembled.

Their drivers and passengers are young, too; practically everyone is young in the commercials.

That sort of thing could be hard on a car if indulged in too frequently; but what's it matter when all you have to do for a new one is hunt a beach and await a replacement. This may appear after the fashion of Aphrodite arising from the sea-foam — which for reasons unknown to me, doesn't seem to attack its metal. Or the car, diefied, may come rolling in on top of the water.

I wish we had time to discuss sex in commercialland — "You can get to sleep with me tonight," a husky voice invites from the bedtime beverage blurb — but I want to go-go where the action is-is, and a mermaid with one squeeze of a hair cream tube will do for me what Tress did for Cindy.

HELPING LESS FORTUNATE children overseas is project of young patients at Queen Alexandra Solarium who raised $35 in doll raffle to make health kits for Korean youngsters. Viewing doll, won Monday by a Solarium nurse, are Dale, 7, and Elaine, 10. Youngsters, all members of Red Cross Club at Solarium School, made raffle tickets themselves, sold them to parents, visitors and staff, plan to make up health kits, too.

APPEAL TAKE TRICKLES WITH 3% STILL TO GO

The United Appeal enters its second extra month of campaigning 3 per cent short of its $452,000 target.

To date $438,312 has been received with returns slowing to a trickle.

The residential and provincial and federal civil service campaigns went over the top but a number of divisions are far behind. Corporation employees have given $10,000 less than was hoped and corporation executives are $5,000 short of their quota.

A decision will be made Friday as to whether the campaign will be pushed beyond the weekend.

Mayoralty Hopefuls Saving Ammunition

Victoria's mayoralty campaign was still moving in low gear today 24 hours after nominations closed.

Ald. Hugh Stephen has opened his campaign headquarters in a vacant service station at Quadra and Blanshard opposite the public library.

Ald. Clyde Savage opens his headquarters Wednesday in the old Pacific Sheet Metal office building next door to Western Creameries on Yates Street.

Frank Hunter was unavailable for comment this morning but it is understood that his campaign headquarters will be located on Quadra Street.

Any campaign issues they might take a stand on during the next two weeks are closely-guarded secrets by the three candidates to date.

The two men available for comment this morning, Aldermen Savage and Stephen, declined to comment on the Sunday sports issue.

Both felt that there were more important things to base an election campaign on and both, cryptically, said they would be getting to the major issues later in the campaign.

Ald. Stephen, in response to a direct question, said if elected he would take a stand against the proposed development at Clover Point.

BREAKWATERS

It has been suggested that two breakwaters be constructed at the point to provide shelter and launching facilities for small boats.

"I'm afraid I can't support the expenditure of such proportions at this particular site," he said. "There are many other areas in which federal, provincial and municipal funds can be spent to better purpose.

NO COMMENT

Ald. Savage declined comment on the same question.

Both men promised that with their campaign headquarters functioning smoothly between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day they would have more to say on the issues they feel vital for the future development of the city.

'Birds of Canada' Details 518 Native Species

First copies of "The Birds of Canada," a new definitive encyclopedia of Canada's 518 native species, were released today.

Copies may be obtained for $12.50 from the Queen's Printer, Ottawa. A French-language edition will be released next spring.

Commissioned by the National Museum in 1959 the work was written by the museum's chief ornithologist, Earl Godfrey, in collaboration with artist-naturalist John Crosby.

Man Fined $75 For Tree Damage

Richard Stewart, 608 Drake, was fined $75 on a charge of damaging an Esquimalt boulevard tree last month.

He was also ordered to make restitution to the municipality.

Stewart, 19, had been remanded to today for sentence. He had earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of wilful damage.

Innocent Plea Entered By Postmaster

Willaim Hughes, in charge of Mount Tolmie sub-post office, 3611 Shelbourne, elected to be tried by magistrate without a jury.

He was remanded to Jan. 10 for trial on a charge of failing to deposit with the Registrar-General public monies. At the same time date will be set for trial on a charge involving an alleged offence against the Financial Administration Act.

12 ALLEGATIONS

This second charge cited 12 specific allegations of "misrepresentation of the total value of denominative money orders and postal scrip on hand and unsold from Nov. 21, 1965, to March 20, 1966."

Details of actual amounts alleged to have been unaccounted for were not available.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Cox said witnesses "from the east" will be called.

Gaglardi's Jet Grounded After Door Flies Open

The mishap occurred Sunday at Vancouver airport but Mr. Gaglardi today said he was not aboard at the time.

The door apparently was not properly closed before the take-off but an investigation has been launched to determine whether something can be done to prevent a recurrence.

Enriched Studies Planned For Bright Students

Greater Victoria school system, which has long had special programs for slow learners, is now devising a major works program for exceptionally bright youngsters.

A. J. Longmore, assistant school superintendent, announced today that the new program likely will start next fall.

He said a preliminary survey shows there are up to 500 students, among the 9,000 in Grades 4 to 7, who would benefit from stepped-up and enriched academic studies.

The major works program, as it is called, may take one of three forms.

Bright students may proceed through the standard curriculum at an accelerated pace. Or they might move at standard speed on an enriched program.

For example, an enriched English program would deal with contemporary works and be broadened to include creative writing and debating. Seminars might be used instead of the standard classroom method of teaching.

The third alternative is to combine a stepped-up program in some subjects with an enriched program in others, depending on the aptitude of the individual student.

APPROVAL EXPECTED

Mr. Longmore said the school board has not yet given formal approval to the major works program but he does not expect any difficulty in getting approval.

The scheme would probably be given a trial run of three years. If it is successful, as expected, it would be gradually phased into the system and developed as it proceeds, depending on the availability of staff and facilities.

Initially, special teachers would be in charge of the major works program. It is hoped that as it develops, other teachers would be oriented to the new approach.

SAME CLASSES

Mr. Longmore said that, at the beginning, major works students would probably stay in their present classes but work on a different basis from their classmates. Major works students in one school might be grouped together for certain periods, for specialized study.

He said these and other details will have to be worked out "as we go along."

The number of students qualifying for the program surprised Mr. Longmore. He said students were evaluated on the basis of scholastic ability.

The 500 selected will now be evaluated further to check that they are emotionally stable enough to handle the major works program. The individual testing will involve evaluation by former teachers and a study of the academic record of the students.

Mr. Longmore expects that at least 300 students will eventually qualify, although it is unlikely that all of them will be included in the major works program at its start.

The new program will not involve students in longer hours of study but in more intensive study "up to the maximum they can absorb."

Mr. Longmore said he hopes the program will "capitalize on the interests of individual students. We must make sure they have a broad base of studies but if they are obviously talented in one area, we won't hold them back."

Mr. Longmore said the bright students are spread throughout the system. He said some were found in every school.

Mr. Longmore said many of these students in the past have been encouraged to undertake more intensive study by their teachers but the major works program is intended to be a district program, rather than dependent on conditions in the local school.

'Bids by Pound' Plague Builders

Boost Predicted On Peace Project

Ultimate cost of the Peace River powerhouse project will be far higher than anticipated, a prominent contractor predicted today.

This consists of asking for bids on components without showing the engineering involved.

Mr. Hume, here for the association's annual meeting, condemned what is becoming a common problem in the construction industry, in which owners are "dumping responsibilities on to contractors and asking them to bid on them."

Incomplete design of projects was the first he named as a cost-raiser, which with other factors can boost cost of actual construction 10-15 per cent.

On the Peace project for example, there is no over-all design for a contractor to work from.

In what might be a $10 million powerhouse project, the Hydro Authority has issued a list of probable components and asked contractors in the electrical industry to bid by the pound per item.

NO SPECIFIC IDEA

The contractor has no specific idea of what the completed work will be like because design is liable to take shape as the project progresses.

Mr. Hume said this is the biggest single project of its kind in B.C. and with the system being used is bound to cost more than predicted.

"The tender calling system has got to be tidied up," Mr. Hume said.

"TOTAL INSURANCE"

Inadequate financing and a tendency of owners to call for "total insurance" on projects were other factors adding to the cost of contracts today, he said.

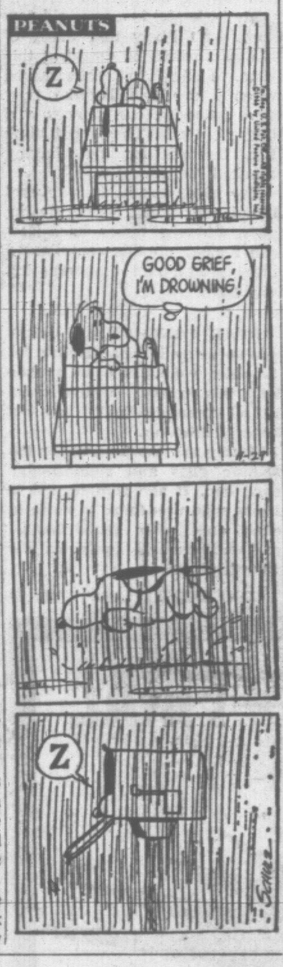
He said both are direct responsibilities of the owner, not the contractor.

Earlier, in reporting for the board of directors to the first annual meeting of the association at Empress Hotel, Mr. Hume said membership must put unity in the construction industry "a rank above rugged individualism."

Labor has learned some personal sacrifice is necessary for the general good of organized labor, the president said.

"Management can't have the benefits of united action and reserve the right to act independently as well," he said.

Closer co-operation between the ACA and other contractors—independents and organizations—will be sought in the framing of collective agreements, he said.



Candidate Fined $10 For Over-Charging

A city pawnbroker and aldermanic candidate pleaded guilty today to charging higher rates in his business than prescribed by law.

W. A. "Bill" Scott, known locally as the "Lighthouse Philosopher," was fined $10 for an offence against the Pawnbroker's Act.

City police constable Samuel Sewell told court he took a camera valued at $100 to Broad and Johnson Trading Centre, 617 Johnson, and pawned it for $20 on Sept. 16.

He said he was told by a clerk he would be required to pay a $4 service charge on redeeming his camera.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said that by a 1952 amendment to the Pawnbroker's Act Mr. Scott could charge only 65 cents.

Called to the stand by his counsel Rodney Taylor, Mr. Scott said in the 15 years he had been a pawnbroker he had never abided by the Act's rate schedule. He added that a canvass of other city pawnbrokers revealed neither had any of them.

'STOOL PIGEON'

"It bothers me," said Mr. Scott, "that they (senior police officers) call in a routine policeman as a stool pigeon when I'm running for election."

He said he had been "morally right" for his 15 years of business.

"If I was wrong," he said, "then police officers have been accessories to the fact," adding thath e had asked city solicitors for advice on the Act's rate schedule.

Mr. Taylor, in submission to Magistrate William Ostler, called the Act's rate schedule "hopelessly out of date."

Woman Ignored Police Advice, Pays $350 Fine

Mrs. Joan Jacobs, 1140 Faithful, told Magistrate William Ostler she "thought I could have made it home."

"Everybody who's impaired thinks he can make it home," said the magistrate. "What if you had killed someone."

Court was told she had been told not to drive when checked at a service station at Fairfield and Cook at 9 p.m. She was picked up while driving 10 minutes later and subsequently charged.

Mrs. Jacobs, who pleaded guilty to the charge, also had her licence suspended.

Ask The Times

Q. Is Dec. 27th a general holiday or a holiday for civil servants only? J.M.

A. A Provincial Municipal Affairs officer says the 27th has been declared a public holiday and will be so observed by provincial civil servants, if not all. He says Victoria area stores, however, are not obliged to close.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problmes. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

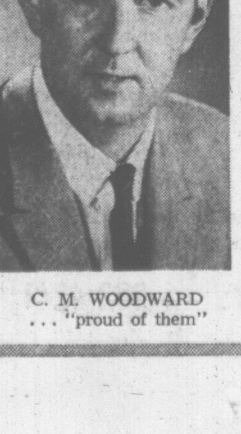
Woodward Horse 'King of the Cutters'



C. M. WOODWARD
. . . "proud of them"

No wonder the whinny is wild when this year two B.C.-owned Quarterhorses, one ridden by a Vancouver Island man, took both first and second places.

The championships have just been run-off at Munster, Texas, where the elite of western working horses showed in one of the richest of riding games.

Crowned "King of the Cutters" was Stardust Desire and second was Holey's Fire, both owned by C. M. "Chunky" Woodward of the Douglas Lake Cattle Company (head of Woodward Stores Ltd. and son of Mrs. W. C. Woodward of Woodwyn Farm, Saanichton).

Stardust Desire, an eight-year-old mare ridden by a Texan for Mr. Woodward, won $17,000 in prize money during the past year. This was the top money for points collected during accredited cutting horse events in Canada and the U.S. during the 1966 season.

Mr. Woodward's second-place winner, Holey's Fire, a five-year-old mare, was ridden by Dave Batty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Batty of Duncan, who has been working for the Douglas Lake Cattle Co. the past five years.

HEAD TRAINER

Dave, who is 23, and head trainer at the quarter-million-acre Douglas Lake Ranch in the Nicola Valley north of Princeton, was a keen competitor in comparative small-time Vancouver Island horse shows during his 'teens. But he had not done any serious cutting horse work until he went to work at the ranch at the age of 18.

He and Mr. Woodward both competed in cutting horse events at this year's Saanichton Fair, and Holey's Fire, with Dave in the saddle, won the Victoria Daily Times Perpetual Challenge Trophy for top points.

Mr. Woodward sees great things ahead for Batty, who had shown Holey's Fire only a few times in the U.S. this year.

"We're especially proud of them (horse and rider)," he told the Times.

NO BAD MOVES

"Not long ago the mare won a big competition at the Cow Palace in San Francisco, and she didn't make one bad move in this last show."

The essence of a cutting horse's skill is its ability to move into a herd of steers without disturbing them, and "cut" out one animal from the rest.

The horse then must dart and dodge to keep the steer from returning to the herd, without ever touching it. The rider does not rein the horse, but sits tight, leaving the horse to show its natural talents and training at holding a steer away from its instincts to return to the herd.

Batty, who returns periodically to the Island to visit his parents, was at Duncan recently before going to the world championships in Texas.

Companies Guilty Under Combines Act

TORONTO (CP) — The final three of 20 Canadian companies charged with conspiring to lessen competition in the paper box industry have been convicted, they were notified last week.

Seventeen other companies pleaded guilty to the same charge in March, 1965. The 20 firms will be sentenced Dec. 16.

Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., Canadian Boxes Ltd., and Sherbrooke Paper Products Ltd. were convicted of conspiring from 1947 to 1954 to prevent or lessen competition in the manufacture and sale of paper products and cardboard boxes.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Dealings in soybeans and grain futures on the Chicago board of trade were largely mixed today. Nearby contracts were most active.

Soybeans moved higher mostly because of an increased demand by export houses and because of low stocks in Chicago.

Wheat was lower due to profit-taking and December contract liquidation.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Good volume of trading in oilseeds and aggressive demand accredited to export interest featured action on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Hedging sales made an appearance but were well absorbed by the overseas demand shown in the trading.

Trade reports said 1,500 tons of flax had been sold to France and 1,500 tons to Japan while United Kingdom had purchased a partial lot of flaxseed.

Evidence of good buying for overseas interests appeared in rapeseed but the nature of the purchases was not disclosed.

Oats and barley trading was light.

Net Earnings

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce had net earnings of $24,473,739 or $3.51 a share in the year ended Oct. 31, compared with $23,303,858 or $3.34 in the similar 1965 period.

Assets rose to $6,595,000 from $6,208,000,000 and revenue to $322,339,134 from $287,706,839. Commercial and other loans were $3,237,825,205, up 9.7 per cent and accounted for the major part of the growth in assets, the bank said. Total deposits amounted to $6,024,672,474 compared with $5,637,417,563.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mines, Industrials Off

Most issues declined on the Vancouver stock exchange in moderately active trading shortly before noon today.

Declines were heavy on both the industrial and mining boards while oils remained steady.

In mining, Adera reached a new low, falling .01 to .28, Benson also hit a new low, slipping .03 to .15. Other new lows were recorded by Earlcrest, off .01 to .11 and Fidelity, down .05 to .68. Western Mines was off .15 to $4.25 and West Coast, the volume leader, fell .06 to .78 on 60,050 shares.

B.C. Sugar reached a new low on the industrial side, slipping .62 to $33. Others hitting new lows were Cominco, off .12 to $31.12 and Mackay-Cormack, down .10 to $3.35. Trans-Canada Pipe was off $1 to $24.

Royal America led the oils gaining .05 to $1.70, while Peace River Pete fell .02 to .20.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 367,983 shares.

By 3 p.m. only 1,734,000 had changed hands and brokers attributed this to tight money and uncertainity about immediate prospects for key industries such as automobiles and steel.

Standard Paving was down 1⅜ to a low of 8, Jefferson Lake 1 to 24⅛ while Falconbridge added ¾ at 87½ and Alcan ½ at 28½.

Western Oils were fractionally higher with Dome Petroleum up ½ to 28¾ and Canadian Superior ¼ to 27¼.

The market opened mixed and then started a steady slide. Steels, motors, aircrafts, utilities, chemicals, rails, oils, airlines and drugs were mostly lower.

Tobaccos sank on announcement of a U.S. public health service report linking cigarette smoking to higher death rates from some diseases. American Tobacco and Lorillard dropped about a point.

AT MONTREAL prices continued to drift aimlessly at slightly lower levels today.

There were no prominent advances or declines and trading was moderate.

AT LONDON the market was quiet, with the Rhodesian situation contributing to an atmosphere of uncertainty. Price movements were very small.

In dollar stocks, Wall Street uncertainty was partly offset by a strong dollar premium, and prices were mixed. Canadian stocks were often easier, but Canadian Pacific came off the bottom and International Nickel was supported. Power Corp. of Canada softened after a dividend payment.

Further Drop In Exports To U.K. Seen

LONDON (CP) — Canada's exports to Britain are likely to decline in 1967 despite removal of the extra British tax imposed two years ago.

Experts have concluded an analysis of British trends and say the Labor government's economic squeeze will have a greater impact on Canadian sales than the import tax.

First set at 15 per cent and later, in April, 1965, cut to 10 per cent, the import surcharge was imposed as a temporary emergency measure in October, 1964, as the Wilson administration attempted to counter an international attack on the British pound.

Canadian authoriies were concerned that this extra tax could hit Canada's exports but concluded that since most purchases from Canada are vital to the British economy, there would not be much of a cut.

Their conclusions have been borne out by events. During 1965, Canada's shipments fell by about 2 per cent and in 1966 are estimated to fall by another 2 per cent.

This extra tax, which infuriated Britain's European trading partners, will be removed Wednesday amid predictions that a huge backlog of imports now will flood the British market.

But in the meantime the British economy has sagged as a result of the credit squeeze and the wage-and-price freeze. Numbers of unemployed, while still relatively small in Canadian terms, are increasing.

One expert said the trend, if sustained, would suggest that Canada's exports to Britain in 1967 may decline by about 5 per cent.

Weldwood Sales Show Increase

VANCOUVER (CP) — Weldwood of Canada Ltd. has reported that sales were up substantially for the four-month period ending Aug. 31, but that net income was only moderately higher.

Company president John Bene said the company plans to issue a semi-annual statement this year. It does not report quarterly.

For the year ending April 30 Weldwood had a net profit of $3,425,829, equal to $1.12 a share on common and ordinary stock, on sales of $102,026,028.

Toronto-Dominion Profits Increase

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto-Dominion Bank had net profit of $10,892,656 or $3.63 a share in the year ended Oct. 31, compared with $9,914,543 or $3.30 in the similar 1965 period.

Total assets rose to $3,076,614,115 from $2,857,990,581, while deposits climbed to $2,839,503,643 from $2,640,592,647.

A. E. WALTERS

Appointment of A. E. Walters as district manager for Bank of Montreal branches on Vancouver Island has been announced by A. John Ellis, general manager for British Columbia, in Vancouver.

Mr. Walters was formerly manager of the bank's main Victoria branch. He previously served extensively at offices throughout this province.

Mr. Walters, who will operate from headquarters to be established in his area, is one of six new district managers in the Bank of Montreal B.C.'s division.

UN Bars China Again From Membership

Study Proposal Also Rejected

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN General Assembly today voted by a substantial majority to bar Communist China from membership. It also voted down an Italian proposal for a committee study of Chinese representation.

The Albanian-Cambodian motion to seat Peking's representatives and expel Nationalist China was turned down by 57 votes to 46, with 17 countries, including Canada, abstaining.

The Italian proposal for a committee to study the question of Chinese representation and report to the assembly next year was defeated 62 to 34, with 25 countries abstaining.

Canada voted in favor of the Italian study proposal, which many delegates had believed would lead to a recommendation for seating both the Chinese Communists and the Chiang Kai-shek government based in Formosa.

There was an audible gasp in the 121-member assembly when Canada abstained during the roll-call vote on the motion to seat Peking.

A Canadian spokesman said Canada abstained, instead of voting against Peking as in past, because it was "in full accord" with the intention of the Albanian-Cambodian motion to seat Peking. But Canada was unable to vote for the motion, the spokesman told reporters, because the motion also called for the simultaneous expulsion of Nationalist China.

Even so, Canada's shift was obviously regarded as one of the major changes in the voting pattern on the issue of Chinese representation.

The vote on the motion to seat Peking was a setback for Red China's UN supporters, who last year had achieved a 47-to-47 tie, with 20 abstentions.

The United States voted against the Peking bid today. The Soviet Union, France and Britain voted for it, as did India, Pakistan and Indonesia.

BENNETT REJOICES

Bonner Grabs Cariboo Seat In Tight Race

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Returning officers today began efforts to mop up the ballot counting as Attorney-General Robert Bonner won the Cariboo by a safe but sharply narrowed margin.

Assistant deputy returning officer Tom Hartford in Williams Lake this morning told the Times that 52 out of the 57 polling divisions have reported but complete results may not be known until the weekend.

The five remaining polls are in snowy and remote sections of the Chilcotin where a weekly mail service is the only communication.

But together they have only 181 registered voters (only 74 cast ballots Sept. 12) so there is no chance they could reverse the standings.

The almost complete figures showed at least 8,498 ballots were cast for a 67 per cent turnout.

It was 61 per cent 2½ months ago.

LATEST COUNT

The latest count showed Mr. Bonner took about 46 per cent of Monday's vote with 3,917 ballots.

Hartley Dent, running for his second time as an NDP candidate, captured slightly more than 40 per cent with 3,411 ballots.

PREMIER HAPPY

Premier Bennett was jubilant as the results came in Monday night although the Socreds dropped 9 per cent in popularity after William Speare, who won his fourth contest in the general election, resigned to open the seat for Mr. Bonner who had been defeated in Vancouver Point-Grey.

The Sept. 12 election results in Cariboo were: Speare 3,830 votes, 54 per cent; Dent 2,530, 35 per cent; and Mackey (Liberal) 719, 10 per cent.

Mr. Bonner, in Quesnel where Mr. Dent conceded defeat at 9:40 p.m., said he expected the Socred margin of votes to be narrowed after a hard-fought campaign which saw:

"This is the first time an NDP smother campaign has been beaten. Their professionals and outside help swarmed in here as thick as bees."

Wilson Seeks Details On Smith Concessions

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson told Parliament today he has sent a senior Commonwealth office official to Rhodesia to seek clarification of concessions Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith was reported ready to make.

Wilson said Sir Morrice James flew to Salisbury Monday night. James played a major role in exploratory talks earlier this year with the breakaway white-minority Rhodesian regime to see whether a basis for a negotiated settlement could be found.

Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden, who met Smith in Salisbury Saturday, said on his return here that the Rhodesian premier had made some minor concessions during their talks.

BRITAIN ADAMANT

Wilson said in Parliament today Britain still is sticking to its program of seeking mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia at the United Nations if Smith doesn't move to end his "rebellion" before the end of the year.

The cabinet met earlier today to decide whether to go ahead with plans for mandatory sanctions.

An informant said Smith has promised to answer a number of questions concerning his reported concessions.

While details of these concessions were not disclosed, it is understood they deal with Prime Minister Wilson's six basic principles for terminating the Rhodesian crisis.

Smith apparently expressed readiness to yield some ground on such issues as Negro representation in a proposed Rhodesian senate, the lifting of press censorship, the widening of voting power by some Rhodesian Negroes and an end to the year-old illegal declaration of independence.

The informant said, however, that Smith phrased his concessions in such terms that his proposed return to constitutional rule could be immediately revoked if his other proposals were breached.

Bowden, on his return from

Egyptian Jets Downed by Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Israeli army spokesman said two Egyptian planes of the MiG-19 type were shot down after a short dogfight over Israel territory shortly after noon today.

The spokesman said the dogfight battle developed after an Israeli Piper plane on routine air patrol over southern Israel's Negev Desert was intercepted by two Egyptian MiGs.

Two Israeli Mirages immediately flew to the scene and met the two Egyptian planes over Israel territory at Beerotayim.

In a short battle both MiGs were hit and fell inside Egyptian territory close to the Israel-Egyptian frontier while both Israeli planes returned safely, the spokesman said.

The army spokesman also reported a ground incident. He said shots were fired across the border at a group of Israeli laborers from a Jordanian police station this morning in the eastern Judean hills — the area where an Israeli Army command car was blown up Nov. 12.

An Israeli military unit protecting the workers returned the fire, said the spokesman. No Israeli casualties were reported.

5 Million Could Die

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—One of India's leading commentators said today some experienced observers fear that 5,000,000 persons might die from famine in Bihar and eastern Uttar Pradesh states.

The comentator, Inder Jit, whose weekly column is widely circulated, said the government has a clear picture now of the perilous situation.

"Some experienced observers fear that the situation is already beyond repair and go to the length of saying that even if arrangements are of the very best we may still have some 5,000,000 people dead on our hands," he wrote.

ON 'SLOWDOWN'

Owners Sue Dock Union

Waterfront work came to a virtual halt in British Columbia today when employees refused to hire longshoremen.

At the same time, the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association announced it is suing the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union for losses caused by the alleged slowdown.

Union officials were meeting this morning and no comment was available on the latest moves in the 13-day strike of dock foremen.

A management spokesman said the reason for this exception is that the ship is "just finishing off — then that's it."

About 3,000 longshoremen are without work following the enforced layoff by management unless the union gives an assurance of no more slowdowns.

The union has blamed the slowdown on a lack of competent supervisors filling in for the striking foremen.

The foremen are on strike in an effort to gain bargaining rights. But the companies say foremen are part of management and rule out bargaining recognition.

A statement issued by the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association read:

"Last Wednesday we sent a telegram to Roy Smith, president of the Canadian area (ILWU), protesting the slowdown by members of the ILWU.

"Since then, and for the past several days, we have ordered men for work and repeatedly warned them to cease slowdown tactics and perform in a normal fashion, otherwise they would be discharged.

"In almost all cases they have ignored the warning, act-

Firm's Donations of $300,000 To Political Parties Questioned

OTTAWA (CP) — Questions are being asked in the Commons about a tax case in which a Montreal construction firm admitted giving $300,000 to two political parties "in order to obtain contracts."

A series of written questions have been placed on the Commons order paper by Andrew Brewin, New Democratic MP for Toronto Greenwood and a lawyer.

Mr. Brewin wants to know whether federal contracts have been awarded to H. J. O'Connell Ltd. He seeks details about "solicited contributions made to both political parties," which were mentioned in passing in a tax appeal board judgment issued Nov. 2.

The board judgment summarizes secret tetimony given by J. R. Thibeault, comptroller of H. J. O'Connell Ltd. It says he was recalled by the revenue department's counsel and adds:

"In the appellant's (H. J. O'Connell Ltd.) financial statement of surplus, expenses in the amount of $300,824.90 were deducted under the heading 'promotion' and he was asked to explain the nature thereof.

"He replied that they were incurred for solicited contributions made to both political parties, either provincial or federal, in order to obtain contracts.

"It was further suggested that such contributions were made to conform with custom rather than for immediate benefit."

The judgment, signed by board member Roland St. Onge, covers the taxation years of 1957 to 1960 inclusive.

The O'Connell firm appealed a $2,151,012 corporation income tax levy imposed in 1962 for the 1957-60 taxation years.

RECEIVED CONTRACTS

At another point in the judgment, the board says H. J. O'Connell Ltd. received road-building, bridge and paving contracts from the Quebec government, airport contracts from Ottawa and sewer and water works contracts from municipalities across Quebec.

The judgment summarizes Mr Thibeault's testimony about a ski resort his firm operated until 1961 at Ste. Adele, north of Montreal. He said business meetings were held at the club. The judgment adds:

"In order to obtain work from different public bodies, officers of the appellant company had to meet important people, then in a position to make the necessary recommendations for the awarding of contracts, by the officials in charge of specific areas, to reputed contractors having the necessary equipment."

Mr. Brewin submitted a four-part question.

SHARE WITH ASIAN CHILDREN FUND

Lucky Toddlers Escape Gutter Life

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Her name is Mrs. Lau Sau Heng. All day she stays at her work, making artificial flowers for export, stopping only to prepare scanty meals for her family.

Her monthly income is from $2 to $3.50.

They have 10 children.

Every day, from the fifth floor room the whole family calls home, she sends two of her youngest children off to nursery school.

The school, run by a Chinese agency, is possible through financial support of the Canadian-based Unitarian Service Committee, which exists because of funds like The Times Share with Asian Children Fund.

LOVING CARE

This nursery service, which keeps the children off the street and in clean, ordered surroundings, is considered one of the most important tasks done by relief agencies in the crown colony.

Since youngsters are not allowed into the government-run primary schools until the age of seven, this is a most important period in their lives.

The nursery service, made possible by Canadian generosity, gives Mrs. Heng and other women in her resettlement block, an extra lift to keep trying — and to hope some day for a better life.

Victorians may give her extra encouragement through donations to the USC through The Times Children of Asia Fund, sent care of the newspaper, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas.

New Deal Due For City's Tenant Voters?

Victoria city council may change its mind and support a move to give tenant electors the right to vote on all civic issues.

But it will not go so far as to give those same tenants the right to run for public office.

Council is still divided, following a special committee meeting Monday to discuss proposed revisions to the Municipal Act, on whether tenants should have the same voting rights as property owners.

Ald. Hugh Stephen and Ald. Percy Frampton feel they should.

Ald. Clyde Savage and Lily Wilson feel that things should remain as they are with non-property owners able to vote on civic issues other than money by-laws after six months residence in the city — providing they make the effort to get their names on the voter's list.

Property owners are automatically registered on the list.

Ald. Stephen pointed out that the concept of the transitory non-property owner no longer held true.

"Years ago the property owner was static but the tenant was not," he said. "This isn't so any more, the average tenant is a long time resident, often retired, who has lived here many years and will live here many more years."

Ald. Savage said he felt that most tenants were aware that they could vote on most civic issues such as the present election, by the simple gesture of registering.

'NOT INTERESTED'

"But many of them just were not interested enough to do so."

Ald. Michael Griffin indicated that he would be in favor of a change in the act which would give tenants the same voting rights as property owners.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said he wasn't too sure and would like more clarification and a clearer report on what the city's stand should be.

At the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention in Penticton last September city delegates voted unanimously against changing the present regulations.

A special committee has now been established to study the problem further and bring in a firm recommendation for council to endorse.

While council remains divided on the voting rights of non-property owners, it was solid in rejecting a recommendation that the Municipal Act be changed to permit any elector whose name appears on two consecutive voters' lists the right to run for civic office.

"This is a different thing entirely," said Ald. Michael Griffin. "I see nothing wrong with giving a non-property owner the same voting rights as property owners. That would make him one voter among thousands. But I think it would be wrong to give a man who does not own property the right to one vote in nine, namely a seat on council."

City manager Dennis Young, who had recommended rejection of both amendment proposals, said he couldn't see the difference.

"It seems to me that if you give the non-property owner the right to vote you should also, to be consistent, give him the right to run for office," he said.

SOLIDLY AGAINST

But council voted solidly against the move.

"A man who doesn't own property doesn't have quite the same pride and interest in his city as the man who owns property," said Ald. Edgelow.

On other suggested changes to the act council found the going easier.

Members agreed that councils should be able to borrow money without the consent of the electors to install or reconstruct water, sewerage and drainage systems.

It also agreed that it should be provincial law that all municipalities should prepare a five-year capital budget which could be revised annually.

Victoria already has such a five-year program.

SIMPLE MAJORITY

It endorsed the proposal that the act should be changed to make a simple majority the deciding issue on referendums and bylaws.

At present a 60 per cent majority is required on votes such as the one scheduled for Oak Bay Dec. 10 to decide the fluoridation issue.

On the proposed amendment to the act to wipe out shop hour closing regulations council members said they could see no serious danger following the rescinding of such authority.

It noted that Victoria's shopping hours apparently work well and feel that a smilar system could work equally well throughout the province.

At present local councils have the power to regulate shop closing hours. The section of the act giving them such authority would be repealed if the proposed amendment is accepted by the provincial government.

Two Treated For Road Accidents

Two persons were treated at city hospitals following road accidents within an hour of each other Monday evening.

The city fire department ambulance conveyed William Gale, 19, of 2707 Estevan, to Royal Jubilee Hospital after the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car at Richmond and Brighton.

He was treated for head injuries and released.

Driver of the car was Nellie Laurie, 1670 Fort, police said.

An hour later, at 8:10 p.m., Saanich police attended at Burnside and Orillia where a woman had suffered leg injuries in a two-car collision.

An estimated $650 damage was done the Hewitt car and a car driven by Harold Evans, 700 Burnside W. ing on the instructions of the union, and have been discharged.

"We regret we have no alternative but to have our legal counsel proceed against the union with respect to suits for damages which now have run into substantial sums.

"We have no doubt many of the men are ashamed of having to act in such a manner but unfortunately they are being used as pawns in this power play of the union itself.

NOT FEASIBLE

"It is economically not feasible to continue to employ men who do not perform. Consequently, they will not be employed until we are assured of normal performance."

E. M. Strang, president of the B.C. Maritime Empoyers Association, said he has "no idea" when the damage suits will be heard in court.

But they will "certainly" run to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

One news report said the suits may even go into millions of dollars.

BULK CARGOES

Mr. Strang said the only work being done in Vancouver was in bulk cargoes where much of the work is mechanized.

And he was firm in this warning:

"Until they stop (slowdowns), we are not going to hire people."

And he added:

"The question is really who is going to run the waterfront, the union or us."

In the House of Commons, federal Labor Minister Jack Nicholson said the outlook is not optimistic.

BOTH SIDES

He met both sides in Vancouver last weekend for exploratory talks.

He told the Commons the situation appears "even more difficult" now. He had offered to stay for more talks but "all agreed there was no point in my staying."

The minister also said that contrary to reports, supervision of longshore work gangs in many cases was more adequate than before the dispute.

In Vancouver, the B.C. Federation of Labour has called a meeting for Wednesday of affiliated unions to acquaint them with the dispute.

BACKGROUND

Secretary-treasurer Ray Haynes said longshore foremen will be present to give the background. The federation would see "what help we can give them."

And on the Prairies, C. W. Gibbings, president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, said grain shipments have already been affected.

China Ouster Denied

BUDAPEST (AP) — Soviet Communist Chief Leonid Brezhnev said today conditions are ripening for a world Communist conference but it is "utter nonsense" that such a gathering will banish the Chinese from the world movement. Brezhnev claimed the idea of banishing the Chinese at a world conference had been trumpeted out by the bourgeois press."

victory over the NDP canvassing organization which used the techniques and some key officials of their successful campaign Sept. 12 to unseat government candidates in Vancouver Burrard and in Burnaby.

Mr. Dent said he hopes to return to the Anglican ministry which he resigned before becoming a candidate in the by-election. He was philosophical about his second defeat but said he would like to stand again as an NDP candidate.

"While Social Credit won, it was not by a great margin," he commented.

"The government knows it will have to work very hard to keep this riding.

PERHAPS BEST

"Perhaps, at this time, this is the best thing for the Cariboo, all things considered."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said the NDP could have won if there had been no other opposition candidates.

"I appealed to Liberal Leader Perrault publicly and, had he left us a clear field, the results would have been different," he said.

"It is obvious the Liberals elected Bonner."

Mr. Perrault said it was a "sour grapes explanation."

PUBLIC LIFE

"We're not in public life to ensure the defeat of other candidates but to elect our own," he said.

"The vote certainly showed that the Cariboo doesn't want to be represented by a Socialist."

Ernest Hall, NDP MLA who helped organize Mr. Dent's campaign, said his party made a considerable gain.

FEAR OF GOD

"Look at it this way—we've put the fear of God into them and doubled our membership.

"A few weeks ago you could drive from Williams Lake to Cache Creek and never come across an NDP member. But now we have a flourishing organization in the southern end of this riding."

$4 Million Blaze

LEBANON, Ohio (UPI)—A fire raged through three acres of industrial shops at the Lebanon correctional institution today, causing damage estimated at $4 million. The head of the six-year-old medium security prison, who made the damage estimate, said no injuries were reported.

Late Hitch Develops In Grand Coalition

BONN (CP) — A late hitch tonight delayed formation of West Germany's grand coalition bringing the Social Democrats into the government for the first time since pre-Hitler days.

Meetings of the two coalition parties' representatives in parliament, due to have been held tonight to approve a new cabinet, were postponed until Wednesday morning.

But Kurt Georg Kiesinger, the Christian Democrat slated to become West Germany's next chancellor, told reporters: "it is only a matter of a short time longer."

He said there are no difficulties in making up the cabinet.

A Social Democrat spokesman said the postponement of the deputies' meeting was at the request of the Christian Democrats.

The two coalition negotiating committees, headed by Kiesinger and Social Democrat Leader Willy Brandt, planned to continue a meeting they began earlier today to work out final details of the move.

Brandt, mayor of West Berlin, was confident he will get his party's support for participation in a coalition despite bitter criticism by many party groups which resent the idea of socialists joining in a government with the Christian Democrats whom they have so strongly opposed for 17 years.

Lord Moran Sues

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Moran, whose book about the late Sir Winston Churchill caused controversy when it was published earlier this year, has launched a libel suit against the British Medical Association.

Moran, Churchill's personal physician for many years, caused a storm among his professional colleagues in May when he published his book, which gave medical details of the statesman's final illness.

Adventists to Mark Medical Centenary

North Saanich Junior High will be the site of a Centennial celebration with a difference Thursday night as the Seventh Day Adventists stage a pageant to commemmorate 100 years of medical work by their church.

Guest speaker will be Health Minister Eric Martin.

In 1866 the Seventh Day Adventists established their first hospital, the Battle Creek Health Institute, in Michigan.

Today more than 300 Adventist hospitals and clinics dot the globe.

Doctors and nurses from some of the countries served by Adventist medical missions will appear in the pageant in native costume.

The pageant starts at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The event is sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventist Church and the Rest Haven Rest Home.

AIR CANADA

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Cold air from the Arctic continued its southward plunge through all of the B.C. interior and the edge of this air now lies just east of the coast mountains. Northeast winds up to 25 miles per hour will blow down the mainland inlets on the south coast and these will reach 60 on the north coast. Temperatures in the Arctic air dropped to 16 below at Prince George this morning and to 47 below at Smith River in northern B.C. Only a slight drop in temperature is expected in coastal regions.

Moist Pacific air will continue to flow northward over coastal regions Wednesday keeping these skies mainly cloudy. A disturbance in this circulation will bring rain, but this is expected to be confined to the west coast of Vancouver Island and the north coast.

Companies Guilty Under Combines Act

TORONTO (CP) — The final three of 20 Canadian companies charged with conspiring to lessen competition in the paper box industry have been convicted, they were notified last week.

Seventeen other companies pleaded guilty to the same charge in March, 1965. The 20 firms will be sentenced Dec. 16.

Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., Canadian Boxes Ltd., and Sherbrooke Paper Products Ltd. were convicted of conspiring from 1947 to 1954 to prevent or lessen competition in the manufacture and sale of paper products and cardboard boxes.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mines, Industrials Off

Most issues declined on the Vancouver stock exchange in moderately active trading shortly before noon today.

Declines were heavy on both the industrial and mining boards while oils remained steady.

In mining, Adera reached a new low, falling .01 to .28. Benson also hit a new low, slipping .03 to .15. Other new lows were recorded by Earlcrest, off .01 to .11 and Fidelity, down .05 to .68. Western Mines was off .15 to $4.25 and West Coast, the volume leader, fell .06 to .78 on 60,050 shares.

B.C. Sugar reached a new low on the industrial side, slipping .62 to $33. Others hitting new lows were Cominco, off .12 to $31.12 and Mackay-Cormack, down .10 to $3.35. Trans-Canada Pipe was off $1 to $24.

Royal America led the oils gaining .05 to $1.70, while Peace River Pete fell .02 to .20.

Volume to 11 a.m. was 367,983 shares.

By 3 p.m. only 1,734,000 had changed hands and brokers attributed this to tight money and uncertainity about immediate prospects for key industries such as automobiles and steel.

Western Oils were fractionally higher with Dome Petroleum up ½ to 28¾ and Canadian Superior ¼ to 27¼.

The market opened mixed and then started a steady slide. Steels, motors, aircrafts, utilities, chemicals, rails, oils, airlines and drugs were mostly lower.

Tobaccos sank on announcement of a U.S. public health service report linking cigarette smoking to higher death rates from some diseases. American Tobacco and Lorillard dropped about a point.

AT MONTREAL prices continued to drift aimlessly at slightly lower levels today.

There were no prominent advances or declines and trading was moderate.

AT LONDON the market was quiet, with the Rhodesian situation contributing to an atmosphere of uncertainty. Price movements were very small.

In dollar stocks, Wall Street uncertainty was partly offset by a strong dollar premium, and prices were mixed. Canadian stocks were often easier, but Canadian Pacific came off the bottom and International Nickel was supported. Power Corp. of Canada softened after a dividend payment.

Bank of Montreal and Toronto and Dominion were unchanged after opening lower. Other Canadian banks improved.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was down 5/64 at 92 21/64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was down 3/32 at $2.78 59/64.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar up 1/16 at $1.08 9/32 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Sterling was up ⅛ at $3.02 1/16.

BANK OF MONTREAL APPOINTMENT

A. E. WALTERS

Appointment of A. E. Walters as district manager for Bank of Montreal branches on Vancouver Island has been announced by A. John Ellis, general manager for British Columbia, in Vancouver.

Mr. Walters was formerly manager of the bank's main Victoria branch. He previously served extensively at offices throughout this province.

Mr. Walters, who will operate from headquarters to be established in his area, is one of six new district managers in the Bank of Montreal B.C.'s division.

The appointment of district managers is another step in the program to diversify authority, so as to give greater autonomy at the local level.

Further Drop In Exports To U.K. Seen

LONDON (CP) — Canada's exports to Britain are likely to decline in 1967 despite removal of the extra British tax imposed two years ago.

Experts have concluded an analysis of British trends and say the Labor government's economic squeeze will have a greater impact on Canadian sales than the import tax.

First set at 15 per cent and later, in April, 1965, cut to 10 per cent, the import surcharge was imposed as a temporary emergency measure in October, 1964, as the Wilson administration attempted to counter an international attack on the British pound.

Canadian authoriies were concerned that this extra tax could hit Canada's exports but concluded that since most purchases from Canada are vital to the British economy, there would not be much of a cut.

Their conclusions have been borne out by events. During 1965, Canada's shipments fell by about 2 per cent and in 1966 are estimated to fall by another 2 per cent.

This extra tax, which infuriated Britain's European trading partners, will be removed Wednesday amid predictions that a huge backlog of imports now will flood the British market.

But in the meantime the British economy has sagged as a result of the credit squeeze and the wage-and-price freeze. Numbers of unemployed, while still relatively small in Canadian terms, are increasing.

One expert said the trend, if sustained, would suggest that Canada's exports to Britain in 1967 may decline by about 5 per cent.

Weldwood Sales Show Increase

VANCOUVER (CP) — Weldwood of Canada Ltd. has reported that sales were up substantially for the four-month period ending Aug. 31, but that net income was only moderately higher.

Company president John Bene said the company plans to issue a semi-annual statement this year. It does not report quarterly.

Weldwood, a B.C. producer of plywood and other building materials, is owned 74 percent by United States Plywood Corp.

For the year ending April 30 Weldwood had a net profit of $3,425,829, equal to $1.12 a share on common and ordinary stock, on sales of $102,026,028.

Toronto-Dominion Profits Increase

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto-Dominion Bank had net profit of $10,892,656 or $3.63 a share in the year ended Oct. 31, compared with $9,914,543 or $3.30 in the similar 1965 period.

Total assets rose to $3,076,614,115 from $2,857,990,581, while deposits climbed to $2,839,503,643 from $2,640,592,647.

By ROY ESSOYAN

RIYADH (AP)—If you like the clean, wholesome life, Saudi Arabia is the place for you.

Smoking is frowned on here. Drinking, gambling and movies are prohibited. Sex and violence are scissored out of TV programs. The newspapers play down reports of disasters, crime and traffic accidents. They carry no photos of women.

Saudi Arabia lives, at least officially, according to the Koran, the words of Allah as set down by his prophet Mohammed 1,300 years ago. The Koran is not only Saudi Arabia's Bible but its constitution, criminal law, civil code and code of personal behavior as well.

As a result, in some of the remoter parts of this vast, under-populated country, you can still be jailed if you're caught smoking in the streets.

In some districts of this royal capital you can be hauled off and whipped if you don't turn out for morning prayers at daybreak.

You can get 80 lashes and six months in jail anywhere in the country if you're caught drinking.

Bootleg liquor is available and bootleg movies are shown but the liquor costs $25 a bottle and the movies are screened behind thick curtains in private homes.

Television was introduced only a few months ago, a significant victory over conservative Moslem elements who consider it a sin to reproduce the human image. But TV programs, mostly imported from the West, are strictly censored.

All of this adds up to a healthy if unexciting existence with the accent on the simple pleasures of life.

One of the favorite pastimes for young and old, as the sun begins to set, is to head for the open desert and pull up, miles away, beside the Saudi version of a drive-in, a half-dozen broad, rough-hewn benches scattered around an empty space in the desert.

LISTEN TO RECORDS

There you squat some four feet off the ground, breathe the warm desert air and listen to the latest Beatles recording or a soulful Arab love song on your transistor radio—or the portable record player with which every Saudi automobile seems to be equipped.

Mostly you see men together but husbands take their families out too, their wives heavily veiled if anyone else is in sight.

Saudi women spend most of their time at home. They are nearly always veiled in public. On the rare occasions when they accompany their husbands to a party they spend the evening in a separate room with the other women. They finally sit down to eat only when their men have finished.

Saudis invited to a Western home practically never bring their wives. The hostess not only cannot join the party, she can't even be seen when the guests arrive.

A few of the more Westernized Saudis do bring their wives to some of the smaller, more select parties. But they check the guest list carefully in advance to make sure they know the other Saudis coming and whether they're bringing their wives.

Then, if the coast is clear, you're in for one of Saudi Arabia's rarest treats, the sight of a Saudi wife unveiled, in her latest Paris fashions, maybe even doing the frug.

AFTER BREAKING TOW

Storm-Tossed Ships Back in Home Port

HALIFAX (CP) — Two old cable ships, reluctant to keep an appointment with the scrappers, were back in familiar surroundings today.

The 2,641-ton Lord Kelvin and the 1,228-ton Cyrus Field, with combined service of nearly 100 years in laying, maintaining and repairing undersea communication lines, were shoved unceremoniously into berths Monday, 11 days after they left on what was to be their final voyage.

Their railings and deck gear snarled and twisted by Atlantic storms, the vessels looked as sad as several men on the pier who had sailed aboard the 50-year-old Kelvin and the 42-year-old Field.

The former Western Union ships, both based here for many years, left Nov. 17 under tow by the Panamanian tug Cintra, destined for La Spezia, Italy, to be broken up.

Both broke from the tug when tow lines parted in heavy seas about 300 miles southwest of here. With the help of a U.S. Coast Guard cutter and an RCAF Argus aircraft, the tug retrieved the veterans a few days later.

Capt. George Chinita, 40, skipper of the powerful Panamanian tug, decided to bring his charges back here to obtain heavier tow lines before attempting the Atlantic crossing again.

The tug showed signs of a struggle as well. One of her lifeboats was battered and four of her crew were nursing minor injuries, suffered when a towline was re-secured on the Lord Kelvin Nov. 21.

With heavy seas running, the stern of the tug chafed through a four-inch nylon tow rope—heaviest carried by the Cintra.

Capt. Chinita said the first indication of the trouble came at 12:10 a.m. Nov. 20 when the ships were riding out a storm "I felt the Cintra pulling faster and I knew one of the ships had broken away," he said in an interview. It was the Kelvin.

"The weather was so bad that all we could do was put our nose in the wind and keep the speed slow ahead." The next day the Cyrus Field developed a list to port and wouldn't stay in line behind the tug. Finally the line snapped.

The Argus radioed the Kelvin's exact position the next day and the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Campbell helped retrieve the Field.

IN SAANICH

Contractor Refused Licence

The decision was made at a closed session of council after George P. Hewes of 4520 West Saanich Road was questioned by several members of council.

No reason for the rejection was announced by Saanich.

Mr. Hewes applied for the licence in August. At the council meeting he was questioned about his experience and complaints of his workmanship.

Mr. Hewes said he has been in business in Greater Victoria for 1½ years but didn't have a licence. He did referral business.

Comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said that doesn't matter — a licence is still needed.

Asked about complaints of his firm's workmanship, he said "We have one situation . . . we are ironing it out, in Langford."

Asked if the foundation of one home was out by five inches and the level by 1⅞ inches, Mr. Hewes said "I couldn't say you are exactly right in that."

Asked if the building inspector in View Royal had not ordered him to tear out at least 50 per cent of the framwork he said:

"No."

"Thirty-five per cent?"

"Not of that magnitude."

SHEPPARD
. . . ordered to testify

Grand Jury To Probe Old Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — Five persons, including Samuel H. Sheppard, have been ordered to testify before the Cuyahoga County grand jury Friday in the unsolved murder of Sheppard's first wife, Marilyn, 12 years ago.

County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan, who directed the prosecution in a murder retrial that saw Sheppard acquitted 13 days ago, was asked the purpose of the special grand jury investigation. He said:

"Sheppard has been making statements and his lawyer has been making statements. That is all I will say about it at this time."

Sheppard's lawyer, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, said Monday that he would be in Clevelnd Friday for the grand jury session. He had hinted during the retrial that Marilyn was killed by someone familiar with the Sheppard home.

Last week, he told a city club audience that he had written a 15-page letter to Bay Village Police Chief Fred Drenkham, indicating who killed Marilyn Sheppard and what the motive was. Bailey demanded that the investigation be reopened.

Drenkhan, who received the letter the night before Bailey's appearance, said Bailey's "suppositions and conclusions" were not sufficient to reopen a police investigation of the murder case.

ART CONTEST DEADLINE ON SATURDAY

Jail Ends 'Foolish Incident'

An unwanted guest was fined $100 in magistrates' court Monday and sentenced to spend one day in the lock-up for assaulting his unwilling hosts.

Oliver Cottam, 21, of 1007 McCaskill, and two friends barged into the Blanshard Street house of one of his cronies' parents a half-hour after midnight Oct. 23 to demand an explanation for their absence from their son's wedding.

The lady of the house was pushed sprawling to the floor when she launched a mop-swinging attack on the trio.

Cottam had one previous conviction for causing a disturbance and one for theft within the past two years.

Magistrate William Ostler handed down the "token" sentence and dismissed a further charge of common assault arising out of the same incident because "I've heard all I want to hear about this foolish incident."

Fishboats Under Fire

SEOUL (AP)—Four North Korean gunboats fired on a group of South Korean fishing boats on the east coast today and abducted South Korean fishermen, Seoul's Radio Donga reported.

China N-Test Coming

WASHINGTON (UPI) — China is preparing its fifth nuclear test and may explode it "in the near future," the U.S. State Department reported today.

. . . RED CHINA

The United States, which led the successful campaign to defeat the motion, was supported in the voting by most of Latin America, many African and Arab countries, a few in Europe, and Japan, as well as its Viet Nam allies — Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and Thailand.

It was the 16th time UN membership for the Peking government has been turned down.

IMPORTANT QUESTION

Today's rebuff to the Chinese Communists came after the assembly had approved a resolution reaffirming that the Chinese question was an important one requiring a two-thirds majority.

The vote was 66 to 48 with seven abstentions.

Canada voted in favor.

Earlier, Albania denounced Canada's one-China, one-Formosa policy as a measure that would preserve U.S. occupation of "the Chinese province of Formosa."

Albanian Ambassador Halim Budo said the United States is the only obstacle to the seating of Peking's representatives.

He said he "surprised and concerned" about the suggestion, made last Wednesday by Canada, that both Communist and Nationalist China sit in the UN as separate states until they themselves settle the problem of Formosa.

Nationalist China's foreign minister, Wei Tao-ming, told the General Assembly the statement that Formosa is under U.S. occupation is "a libel of the most scurrilous kind."

Wei also attacked an Italian motion for a committee study of the question of China's UN representation.

"We regard it as a direct challenge to my government's legal status in the United Nations," he said.

"The very idea of study, for all its alleged objectivity, is obviously designed to pave the way for the eventual admission of Peking."

Martin, in expounding his ideas about the committee proposal, "has been candid enough to say that, as far as the Canadian government is concerned, it means exactly that."

'Use Taxes To Provide Public Transit'

CLEVELAND (CP) — A past president of the Toronto Real Estate Board urged today that urban public transit should be "free and financed by general federal, provincial and municipal tax funds in the same manner as education and roads are financed."

G. Warren Heenan, speaking to a meeting of Cleveland Real Estate Board and Chamber of Commerce, explained: "The Toronto transit system now collects close to 300,000,000 fares per year, or about $60,000,000. We would only have to give up three or four miles of expressway to subsidize this amount. . . .

"Downtown parking lots, valued at up to $200 per square foot, could become building sites and provide additional tax revenue, and there is no telling how many lives would be spared through the reduction of automobile exhausts and traffic accidents.

"Right now a car occupies $30,000 or $40,000 worth of land while its owner is at work. One-third of the whole downtown area is devoted to the automobile."

He expressed conviction that in a major urban area with a population around 2,000,000, "mass rapid transit, as the main base of a balanced transportation system, creates and enhances property values like nothing else on earth."

The "only way" for large cities, he said, is "to provide an inexpensive public transportation service that is frequent, fast and reliable enough to induce citizens to leave their cars at home when they go to work."

Passports Revoked

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine foreign office Monday revoked the passports of 11 university students who were reported to be planning a visit to Communist China. The Philippines has no diplomatic relations with Peking.
